2 SLAIN, SCORE HURT IN PHILA. STRIKE RIOT

Today

State No. 24.
Something Is Moving.
Cuba Welcomes Jews.
An Ear for the Bull.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BEFORE THE prohibition vote started in the state of Washington, some earnest drys said:

What came is no longer a shock. Yesterday afternoon, Washington, going wet as rapidly as possible, had decided to be state No. 24 in the wet column. The United States seems to know what it does not want.

RAILROAD figures indicate that something is moving in the United States.

Gen. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania, has already paid back all of the millions that he borrowed from the R. F. C. to finance the electrification of his railroad from New York to Philadelphia, and the "first 58" railroads making July reports show increases of net operating income for the month of July of 420 per cent, or from $9,423,000 to $49,454,000. When the railroads prosper, the country prospers, for then goods are moving and money is being spent.

MR. CLARENCE FRANCIS, executive vice president of the General Foods Company, welcoming the NRA as "one of the most important events since the birth of our nation," makes a point important to a great many business men.

He mentions the fact that millions of food containers of various sorts had been manufactured and distributed before NRA codes were discussed.

It would not be economically wise, or fair, to manufacturers or consumers for the government to expect that only packages embellished with the Blue Eagle should be offered for sale. For that reason, temporarily at least, the NRA Blue Eagle will be omitted from food packages.

Mr. Francis, who is chairman of the codes committee of the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America, broadcast his message yesterday morning over WINS, the Hearst radio station in New York City.

A LITTLE while ago Spain and Portugal said to the Jews:

"We do not want you, get out."

The Jews left, and commercial prosperity went with them to Holland and to England. Time's whirligig takes another turn, and Cuba, controlled largely by men of Spanish blood, invites Jews to come from Germany, offering a sincere welcome and easy naturalization as citizens.

Cuba's new President Cespedes says:

"The new government will make every effort to aid the Jews in becoming Cuban citizens and finding here the 'promised land'."

"AN EYE for an eye, a tooth for a tooth" is old, but "an ear for an ear" is new. The news about it comes from Valencia, Spain, land of bull fighting.

When a bull fighter does something brave it is customary to make him a present of an ear cut from the slain bull. This he nails up for the admiration of his friends, as English fox hunters nail up the "brush" and "mask" of the fox.

Ruled by a feeling of justice, Valencia's bull fighters have decided that an unusually brave bull deserves something, and to such a bull they give a human ear, only it is a human ear made of silver, not actually cut from the body of a man.

THOSE THAT have lived in Bavaria and know the religious character of the people, will be interested in the statement that "the Bavarian village of Mainbernheim, in repairing the steeple of the Evangelical church, mounted the Swastika emblem instead of the usual cross."

EVERYTHING is for the best in the best possible of worlds, presumably, but angels that don't know how we manage must be surprised when Gabriel says to them:

"Down there, with hundreds of millions hungry, they are cutting down earth's food supply, diminishing the planting of wheat by law, and with other millions half or entirely naked, they are cutting down the cotton acreage by law."

HARVEY D. GIBSON, chairman of the New York City relief committee, who deserves public gratitude for his hard work in a difficult period, reports that 279,000 New York families have received help from the committee of which Mr. Gibson is the head.

The amount of the food distributed weighed forty-five million pounds, and 5,333,369 cotton garments, 113,891 comforters and blankets, and 25,500 woolen suits for men were distributed.

It is to be hoped that NRA will make such work unnecessary in the coming winter.

A plane catapulted from the German liner Europa delivered letters in London and Berlin four days after they left New York. That "only four days" will seem, to future generations, as queer as though we said now, "only four months."

If the United States would act, we should have American dirigibles flying back and forth between this country and Europe, as they now fly back and forth between Brazil and Germany, and mail from New York would be distributed in

YOUTH FOUND SLAIN ON FARM

Stepmother Spies Body From Window

Mrs. Ella M. Stilley looked out of her bedroom window today on the Stilley farm in Upper St. Clair Township and saw the body of her step-son, Robert Stilley, 24, murdered.

Stretched in the grass, Stilley had been dead for hours.

County detectives said a wound in back of his right ear was inflicted with a .32-calibre revolver.

Stilley's pockets were turned inside out. He had returned shortly after midnight from the downtown wharf, where he regularly sold the produce from the 72-acre farm.

APPLE PIE UNTOUCHED

The telephone wires to the Stilley home had been cut and marks on the cellar door left little doubt of the presence of assassins. Three dogs about the farm failed to give warning.

When she arose today and saw the body in the grass, she sent the hired girl, Helen Charnowski, to investigate. She returned, reporting:

"His hands and face are cold. I think he's dead."

Two or three times weekly Stilley took his produce to the wharf on the Monongahela River. Leaving about 7 p. m., he returned usually between 1 and 2 a. m.

BUTTER DEATH PILLOW

When he returned early today, most of his produce unsold, he parked his old motor truck in its usual position.

Then he apparently heard noises which aroused his curiosity, for he walked away from the house and past the barn. In his hands were a flashlight, a pound of butter and a pound of cheese which apparently he intended to take into the house.

His head was resting on the butter and cheese when he was found.

Other robberies have been reported in the neighborhood recently. In fact, the telephone wires on the Stilley house were cut a week ago, and repaired.

Stilley's father, Hugh Stilley, died a few years ago. Since then Stilley has kept up the farm with his stepmother. With them are Mrs. Stilley's three children, Anna, 13, Calvin, 9, Bruce, 6.

3 BOYS, DRIVER DIE IN CRASH

INDIANA, Pa., Aug. 31—(INS.)—Three small boys, "hitching" a ride on a huckster's truck, were killed, the huckster was injured fatally and another man was hurt today in a collision between the small vehicle and a gasoline truck at a road intersection in Ernest, a mining town.

The dead were Fred Barbi, Constantine Mari and Charles Moody, all about 8 years old, and David Gallentine, 47, a huckster.

First reports were that Horace Miller, 24, driver of the huckster truck, failed to see the gasoline truck approaching, because of the boys, who had clambered on the runningboard and obscured Miller's vision.

Seven Climbers Die In Italian Mountains

TRENTO, Italy, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Seven mountain climbers were killed yesterday and Tuesday in the Italian Dolomites, according to reports reaching here today.

Five were Germans, one of them a woman, one was a Czech, and the other an Italian priest.

GIRL FOODLESS 4 DAYS HERE

Declaring that she had lived on the streets of Pittsburgh for four days without food, Emma Krepelka, 17, of Macdonaldton, Somerset County, was given food and turned over to social workers today in Morals Court.

She was taken to Allegheny General Hospital last night after she complained to police of pain in her side.

According to the story told Magistrate Thomas D. Jones today, she is the oldest of eight children and her father, Louis Krepelka a miner, had forced her to leave home in search of work.

She said she hitch-hiked to Cumberland, Md., and walked from there to Pittsburgh, arriving here Saturday night. Two dollars which she had when she left home were soon exhausted, she said.

Her father's parting advice when she left home was to be sure to send some money home as soon as she got a job, the girl declared.

Crippled Dog Saves Four From Flames

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Limping to his master's bed, despite a broken leg, an 11-week-old Irish setter today gave the alarm which saved four persons from a fire which was sweeping their home.

The dog awakened John Haushammer by barking and tugging at the bedclothes. Haushammer aided his wife and her aged parents to the street. The dog, evercome by the smoke, was saved by firemen.

Death Feared Near For Viscount Grey

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—The condition of Viscount Grey, of Fallodon, who as Sir Edward Grey made the declaration of war between Great Britain and Germany in 1914, took a turn for the worse tonight. The viscount relapsed into a state of coma.

PINCHOT HITS BEAVER FOR EXILE OF 46

Demands Grand Jury Probe of 'Outrage,' 'Defiance of Law'

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Terming the incident "illegal and outrageous," Gov. Pinchot today demanded that District Attorney A. B. Castrique press for grand jury action on the deportation of 46 Negroes from Industry, Beaver County, last January.

The demand, embodied in a letter sent to Castrique, cited Attorney General William A. Schnader's report that county officials who directed the deporta-ing and conspiracy to commit an ng and conspiracy to commit an illegal act.

Schnader, who described the incident as an "outrage," included in his report the statement that the Justice Department had no authority to tell county officials what to do.

'ILLEGAL AND OUTRAGEOUS'

Asserting the deportation was a "wholesale kidnaping," the Governor wrote:

"The illegal and outrageous expulsion of these Negroes from Pennsylvania by officials of Beaver County is a blot on the fair name of this state.

"But your refusal to prosecute the people who perpetrated this outrage is more than a shame and a disgrace. It is deliberate defiance of the law you are sworn to uphold.

"The report, which is attached, says that you take the position that no crime was committed.

"I call your attention to the plain and inescapable fact as revealed in this report that the people responsible for the deportation of these Negroes are

De Valera Deserted By Army

International News Service.

DUBLIN, Aug. 31.—The army council of the Irish Republican Army formally announced its withdrawal of allegiance from President Eamonn de Valera today, pitching Ireland into further political turmoil and creating an acute situation.

The I. R. A. bolted from the ranks of De Valera's supporters as a result of raids on several of its headquarters by civic guards.

The council issued a statement announcing the withdrawal of allegiance, and declaring it considered the raids an indication the government was taking coercive measures against them.

COAL CODE ULTIMATUM ISSUED

Details Must Not Bar Agreement, Says Johnson

By JOHN P. COWAN
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Struggling against delay which would mean further unrest in the coal fields, NRA officials and coal operators today are making heroic efforts for the completion of the bituminous coal code before Labor Day.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, is understood virtually to have issued an ultimatum that consideration of details must no longer prevent a quick agreement on a broad foundation upon which the rest of the code may be drafted.

FEVERISH WORK

Favorable repercussions after Labor Day following an agreement on the coal code could be regarded as a ten strike in the Roosevelt recovery program. Every effort is being directed towards this accomplishment.

Working until 1 o'clock this morning, groups of the operators resumed their tasks after an early breakfast today. Last night they had found themselves snarled in a maze of detail in considering the problem of applying tonnage rates to the various fields.

J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, as spokesman for the operators, at noon today explained that mine superintendents and technical advisors who have been summoned here in the last 24 hours from fields which have never before written union contracts, have faced difficulties.

These officials have been informed that the basis for the agreement was complete recogni-

70 STATE BANKS GET MORE TIME

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot in a formal proclamation today extended the operating period for state banks now on a restricted basis to December 1.

The period of limited operations was to have expired with the close of business September 3. Approximately 70 banks in Pennsylvania are conducting business under department of banking restrictions.

The Governor's proclamation said:

"By virtue of the power conferred upon me by Section 5 of Act 6, approved March 8, 1933, entitled 'An Act Relating to Banks, Trust Companies, Savings Banks and Other Banking Institutions, providing for the protection of depositors therein and empowering the Secretary of Banking to permit the withholding of payments to depositors under certain conditions,' I hereby extend the effective period of that act from September 8 to December 1, 1933, the Secretary of Banking to determine in the case of each institution whether its condition justifies its continued operation on a restricted basis up to December 1."

Macon Tests Plane Apparatus in Flight

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The navy dirigible Macon, with several high naval officials aboard, ascended today for a local training flight. Tests were to be conducted in the launching and hooking on of fighting planes carried on the big ship.

The Macon, in charge of commander A. H. Dresel and with 71 officers and men, had among her passengers Admiral W. H. Standley, chief of naval operations; Rear Admiral E. J. King, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, and Commander Garland Fulton.

What NRA Lacks

IN HIS otherwise admirable speech at Poughkeepsie, President Roosevelt neglected his opportunity to stress the potential value to business of the NRA program.

Like members of the National Recovery Administration, Mr. Roosevelt emphasized the desirability of aid to labor.

As a matter of fact, the President's program is much broader, and should be reinterpreted.

Business executives should be made to realize that their part is not solely TO GIVE UP ADVANTAGES.

The raising of living standards, eminently desirable in itself from the social standpoint, has its economic counterpart in a broadened market for the products of industry.

If sane management is encouraged, business will greatly benefit from the promised immense increase in the gross volume of business in the United States.

In the long run, efficiently conducted business units will reflect the advantage of dealing with well remunerated customers instead of with a market dominated by semi-paupers.

Given this encouragement, business executives would adhere to the NRA program with more gusto and enthusiasm.

And unless the NRA scheme is modified to make due allowance for business profits, the whole program will be in jeopardy.

There should be less haste in putting into effect new Magna Cartas for industries.

Codes should be studied more leisurely.

At first, those of basic industries should be formulated, and then other trades should gradually be brought into line.

Business managers must be permitted to work out new standards of technical efficiency in order to absorb added costs.

THE NRA should be made a supplementary instrument TO FACILITATE THE NATURAL FORCES MAKING FOR ECONOMIC RECOVERY.

It should not be pushed rashly.

The aim should not be to punish honest business men for past sins, but to establish solid bases for economic balance, under which there can be a maximum exchange of goods and services among the vast social classes.

In order to encourage business men to act affirmatively, rather than hesitate, the NRA should give definite incentives.

Business can get QUIDS PRO QUO in the form of the right to raise prices where necessary, in exemption from the anti-trust laws, and in relief from onerous income and corporate taxes through the substitution of a federal general manufacturers' sales tax.

Such openings of new avenues to legitimate profit would hearten business men everywhere, and make them see a practical way TO ADD SUBSTANTIALLY TO THE NUMBER OF GAINFULLY EMPLOYED CARRIED ON THEIR PAYROLLS.

It would be helpful if the President would reinterpret his recovery program, and ADD THE BUSINESS MAN TO HIS LIST OF BENEFICIARIES.

Roosevelt Assured Coal Code as He Goes to Sea

President Returning To Capital on Astor Yacht

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt set out for sea from the docks here today at 12:15 p. m., aboard the yacht of Vincent Astor for a weekend cruise to the capital.

Before leaving his Hyde Park home, Mr. Roosevelt held a last-minute conversation with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator in Washington, who assured him that the new working agreement for the coal industry would be on his desk when he returns there next Tuesday morning.

Apparently, the President also talked about the delay of Henry Ford in lining up with the rest of the automobile industry under the Blue Eagle, but there was nothing said here.

Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President, said that Johnson "reported satisfactory progress on the coal code and the President is sailing with the confident expectation that the code will be ready for him on Tuesday morning."

Asked about the report from Washington on Henry Ford, Early replied there was nothing to be said now.

TRUCK UPSET BY PICKETS, SHOTS FLY

200 Police Battle Mob Of 2,800 Surrounding Hosiery Mill

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Two men were shot and killed and at least 18 persons were injured today as 200 police battled many times their number of strikers and sympathizers outside the Cambria Hosiery Mills, Northeast Philadelphia.

The dead men were Clem H. Norwood and Frank Milnor, strike pickets. The shooting occurred after the overturning of a truck which was bringing non-strikers to work.

Police estimated the crowd to number 2,800, while other sources placed the total much higher.

Police did not know who did the shooting. An officer who was riding in the cab of the truck said that he fired two shots into the ground and two into the air, but that the death-dealing bullets were fired later. Witnesses said that the later shots came from the truck after it rolled over.

OTHER MILLS CLOSED

Virtually every other hosiery mill in Philadelphia has been closed by the walkout, and strikers from all parts of the city congregated at the Cambria plant. Fifty police were already on guard because of previous disorders in the eight-week strike, but they were overwhelmed when the trouble started.

Eight automobiles, carrying workers, had broken through the picket lines, although every window was broken by missiles when the truck appeared. In it were 14 employes.

The crowd rushed the truck and bowled it over, trapping the workers inside. Then the pickets began battering at the vehicles and the shots rang forth.

Norwood was killed instantly and Milnor died soon afterward in a hospital. William Madison, who was among the demonstrators, was struck on the shin by a glancing bullet.

POLICE CHARGE CROWD

Police charged the crowd and took the workers inside of the plant, later removing them to a police station for questioning.

Windows in the plant—particularly one displaying an NRA banner, were the targets for bricks and stones. The barage was answered with lead weights hurled by persons inside the building.

Among those hurt were two policemen. The officer riding on the truck was struck in the face by a brick, and another officer was hit on the head with a lead weight. The latter is in a serious condition.

Fire also came into the industrial strife for the first time today. The garage of Whinney's Express Company, in Northeast Philadelphia, closed by a strike of drivers and helpers, was ignited with oil-soaked rags despite a 24-hour police guard. The blaze was quickly extinguished.

Two girl pickets were arrested outside mid-city pocketbook establishments on charges of attacking other girls who were reporting for work. They were later discharged with warnings by a magistrate.

Riot Killings Branded 'Murder' by Pinchot

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—Informed that several persons had been killed and injured in a clash of strikers, strikebreakers and police today in Philadelphia, Gov. Gifford Pinchot termed the deaths "cold-blooded murder."

The information reaching the Chief Executive officially was incomplete and contained no request for state police protection in the troubled area. The Governor said:

"I have received only incomplete details as to these outrages. If the information that has reached me is correct, this was cold-blooded murder."

FEDERAL PLAN HELD BLOW AT STATE RIGHTS

Law Enforcement Would Be Under Central Control

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

International News Service.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 31.—Sharp discussion arose today at the annual meeting of the American Bar Association as a result of the drastic suggestion of Pat Malloy, assistant United States attorney general, that the police forces of America be federalized as a means of coping with the kidnaper and the racketeer.

The proposal was received cooly, although the leading lawyers of the nation, assembled here, are manifesting keen interest in the crime situation.

U. S. POWER OPPOSED

Evidence of a steadily mounting opposition to centralization of power in the federal government was seen in the attitude of the delegates toward the proposal, especially so as Malloy represented himself as expressing the views of his chief, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

Veiled criticism of the trend of government in the United States which results in policies such as the NRA was voiced in an address prepared for delivery this afternoon by Patrick A. McCarran, United States Senator from Nevada. He said:

"These acts and others of their kind, all couched under the declaration of 'national emergency,' constitute an avalanche that sweeps away the structures fought for and reared by the great Jefferson and his adherents.

"New powers, never dreamed of by the framers of the organic law, never ventured in the imagination of Hamilton, never claimed by the arrogant Jackson, never espoused by even the studious Wilson, are now the prerogatives of a Democratic executive. In these great vestitures of power, the rights of the sovereign states have been minimized, if not entirely lost."

Malloy in a blunt speech, recounted the various kidnaping crimes starting with the abduction of the Lindbergh baby.

"The climax of it all seemed to me to come when it became necessary for the grandchildren of the President of the United States to have a daily guard about them that they might play."

He said that every United States attorney and marshal and his assistants; every state or county prosecuting attorney and his assistants; every sheriff and his officers, and every state police officer in the country would hold a commission from the federal government and be a unit under one directing head. The direction of such a plan, he asserted, should be centralized under one head—the attorney general of the United States.

NOT UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Delegates listening to Malloy gained the impression he advocated the abrogation of the Constitution, if necessary, to put this plan into effect. Malloy informed International News Service today he did not advocate any unconstitutional measures, regardless of the impression the delegates received.

William A. Schnader, of Philadelphia, attorney general of Pennsylvania and president of the Association of Attorneys General, told International News Service he doubted the practicability of turning over to the federal government all the local enforcing agencies of all the states in the Union.

He added:

"The Association of Attorneys General adopted resolutions favoring the fullest co-operation between the federal and state governments and between the several state governments to get at kidnaping and racketeering. I agree with that.

"This country needs co-operation between various prosecuting agencies."

Schnader said he believed the punishment should be the same as for murder in cases of kidnaping for ransom or in abduction cases where atrocities are perpetrated upon the victims.

SLEEP MALADY DEATH TOLL 47

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—As the "sleeping sickness" epidemic here entered its second month with a toll of 47 deaths and 362 additional cases of illness, a post-mortem study of the disease, made public today, disclosed that 80 per cent of the fatalities had resulted when victims had other health complications.

These clinical observations, made by scientists at St. Louis University, were included in a report to Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, of the United States Public Health Service, who was here this week making a personal inspection of the situation. Hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure were given as the most common complications.

During the last day, only two deaths have been reported—the smallest number in several days—but 42 additional cases have been diagnosed as encephalitis.

Meanwhile, scientists expressed the belief that the encephalitis outbreak in other parts of the country were of a different type than the St. Louis malady. Deaths from the disease have been reported in more than a half dozen states.

GENEVA DELAYS ARMY OUTLAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Secretary Dern said today a program of some $70,000,000 to $80,000,000 for modernizing the Army's fighting equipment on land and in the air is being held up to see what happens at the Geneva arms conference.

He and his associates have wanted to strengthen the Army with the assistance of money from the huge public works fund.

Besides performing the important and necessary function of providing the Army with the latest type of equipment, Dern told reporters, a program like his would relieve unemployment.

Airplane construction particularly, he observed, would provide work for mechanics and other skilled workers not reached by the public works projects already being undertaken.

WEEPING THIEF SENTENCED

Sobbing, his hands outstretched for mercy, Fred Herman, "matinee burglar," of Mt. Lebanon and South Hills, was sentenced to six to 12 years in Western Penitentiary by Judge John P. Egan on a plea of guilty of entering six dwellings.

Herman, a record of imprisonment in Ohio behind him, was accused of posing as a repairman in order to gain entrance into South Hills homes. When the occupants were out, Herman proceeded to get himself in. At the trial this morning he pleaded with the court to let him go, so he could find his partner who escaped and return part of the stolen goods. With many tears, he begged:

"Judge, please don't send me down there. I'll go straight. I have a wife and two children, and I'm not well, judge. Really, I'm not; I have T. B."

To which Judge Egan, unmoved, replied:

"You should have thought of that before."

Helmets of Cork For New York Police

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—New York's mounted police and 3,500 traffic officers soon will don helmets of cork, covered with white canvas.

Police Commissioner James S. Bolan announced adoption of the distinctive headwear after consulting the preferences of the men who will appear in them.

BANKER DENIES BLOCKING LOAN

DETROIT, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A denial of charges made recently by Senator James Couzens that he prevented a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan that would have permitted Henry Ford to open two new banks here was made today by Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the board of the nation's largest closed bank.

Testifying before the one-man grand jury investigating the closing of the bank, the First National Bank-Detroit, as well as the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, Mills read messages which he said were sent to Charles A. Miller, then head of the R. F. C., asking that the loan be granted.

The witness testified he never favored the proposed Ford plan for opening two new banks on the assets of the closed institutions, saying he knew it meant only a 35 per cent payoff to depositors and also did not believe Ford would give the depositors of the old banks the right to subscribe to the stock of the new banks.

Gerard Urges U. S. Recognize Soviets

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—James W. Gerard, former American ambassador to Germany, returned from Europe today on the liner Conte di Savoia and advocated recognition of Russia by the United States.

Gerard held that the businessmen of America want to do business with Russia and that the only way this can be achieved with any degree of success is by having dipomatic and consular representatives.

ILLINOIS PLANS TO PUT CAPONE ON TRIAL

'Smoke Screen' Denied In Extradition Plea For Sapiro

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman was told yesterday that the state of Illinois plans to take Al Capone, gang leader, from his cell in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., and put him on trial in Chicago with Aaron Sapiro for conspiracy in a laundry racket, if Illinois can extradite Sapiro from New York and get federal permission for Capone's return.

This statement was made to the Governor by Grover C. Niemeyer, assistant state's attorney of Cook County, Ill., during a hearing on a new application for Sapiro's extradition. The Governor reserved decision on the application after a three-hour hearing.

Niemeyer's statement was made in answer to charges by Sapiro's counsel, David B. Siegel, of New York, that Capone was indicted with Sapiro, nationally known as an organizer of farm co-operatives, "in order to put the mantle of Capone around Sapiro."

Siegel said the Cook County prosecutor's office had no intention of pressing the conspiracy charges against Capone, who is serving a term for income tax defalcations, but Niemeyer retorted that negotiations already have been opened with Attorney General Cummings at Washington for the gang chieftain's return. He said:

"We did try to get Capone back and we still intend to get him back for trial."

State Senator John J. McNaboe, of New York, associate defense counsel, charged that Capone's name had been linked with Sapiro's in the laundry racket investigation "because Capone's name is always news. The defense claimed the investigation was merely a smoke screen to cover up an investigation of "certain officials in Chicago." Niemeyer said he knew of no such probe, although he read published reports relating to the alleged failure of some unnamed officeholders there to pay their income taxes.

chargeable with the common law offense of kidnaping.

"May I ask whether you are going to continue to close your eyes to your plain duty or whether you are going to submit the case immediately to a grand jury for proper action?"

EXILED, SHOTS FIRED

Schnader said 56 Negroes, including five or six women, were taken into custody in a liquor raid at the home of Virginia Heath, at Industry. He said 10 were released upon payment of $2.50 each, while the others were held in jail overnight, transported to within a few miles of the West Virginia line and were unloaded at night during a heavy rain. He said those in charge of the party fired revolvers and left the Negroes without food.

The Schnader report named these officials:

County Commissioner Howard A. Hunter, who "assumed direction of the deportation," and who, the report continued, "states that his interest in the matter was inspired by a desire to save the county the expenses of housing these persons in its (the county's) jail."

Three state policemen, several constables and a deputy jail warden were mentioned but not identified in the report.

REPEAL BEFORE CHRISTMAS LOOMS

Wet 'Sweeps' Point To Final Victory By December 5

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A clear-cut possibility that the Eighteenth Amendment could be voted void within the next 10 weeks emerged today from the three-one repeal majority cast by voters representing nearly three-fifths of the nation's population.

The heavy recording of Washington as the twenty-fourth state to ballot in favor of the Twenty-first, or repealing amendment, carried the anti-prohibition surge across two-thirds of the distance to its goal.

At least 15 or more states will vote before November 8, providing a minimum of three more than necessary for repeal, should the uninterrupted procession of the first 24 be continued.

New England became the focal point of national wet and dry interest today as Vermont and Maine sharpened pencils for early September balloting. They were the first of seven states to vote within the the next three weeks.

DECEMBER 5 'BIG DAY'

Should 12 of the 15 states sure to vote before the eighth of November follow the line of the first 24, the prohibition amendment would be formally abolished on December 5 or 6. Three ratifying conventions meet on December 5 and two more on the sixth.

Statisticians adding up and analyzing the vote thus far figured today that, although only half the states had balloted, more than 72,000,000 of the nation's 122,698,190 population lived within their borders on the basis of the 1930 census.

POPULAR VOTE

The popular vote in the 24 recorded states stands in round numbers at 9,800,000 in favor of repeal to 3,000,000 against. These figures, of course, do not include the recordings in Nevada and Wyoming, where delegates were elected by mass meetings and county conventions.

On the basis of present voting dates, all but nine states holding 14,565,076 of the nation's population will have balloted by November 8. These nine include Kansas and Louisiana.

Vermont, September 5; Maine, September 11; Colorado, Maryland and Minnesota, September 12; Idaho and New Mexico, September 19; Virginia, October 3; Florida, October 10; North and South Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah and Kentucky (tentative), November 7.

PUNCHER PROOF PLEA REJECTED

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—Through a new counsel, Harry M. Fox, 35, of Pittsburgh, one of the six men arested here Saturday in connection with the alleged illegal importation of a carload of Pennsylvania beer, offered a plea of guilty in municipal court here today in return for a minimum fine of $10 on the charge of selling beer direct to a wholesaler instead of an importer, in violation of the Indiana beer control law.

Deputy Prosecutor Russell Dean rejected the offer and announced he intended to bring Fox to trial along with the others on September 12. The deputy prosecutor said:

"We intend to stick them as hard as we can."

Gets 199 Years

MRS. ELEANOR JARMAN

'TIGRESS' GETS 199 YEARS

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, called the "blonde tigress" by police because of her alleged participation in holdups, was under a 199-year prison sentence today following her conviction of murder in the recent slaying of Gustave Hoch, 71, in his haberdashery.

Mrs. Jarman's companions, George Dale, her alleged sweetheart, and Leo Minneci were convicted at the same time. Dale, accused of being the actual slayer, was sentenced to death in the electric chair, while Minneci received a 199-year prison sentence when a jury in Criminal Court returned its verdict last night.

The 29-year-old divorcee, mother of two children, testified during the trial and denied any connection with the shooting, asserting she was the innocent victim of her two co-defendants, whom she accused of slaying the aged merchant without her knowledge.

Her conviction and that of her companions marked another victory in the city's drive on crime. In recent weeks the campaign has resulted in three death verdicts and 229 penitentiary sentences.

Recluse Near Death, Suspect Arrested

ERIE, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Josephine Bergstrom, 80-year-old Swedish recluse, lay in a dangerous condition in a hospital this afternoon, suffering injuries she told police were inflicted by a man who entered her home and beat her brutally, early today.

Police held Wendel Hirt, 29, found in the woman's bedroom when they arrived. He said he had been attracted to the house by the woman's screams.

Ohio Senator's Son Dies After Crash

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Allen Sheppard, 21, the son of State Senator Carl D. Sheppard, of Akron, O., died yesterday from injuries suffered in an auto accident.

Livingston Allis, Jr., of Wooster, O., was killed when the car in which they were both riding left the road and struck a tree.

WIDOW, CHILD, 8, IN FIGHT OVER $900,000 WILL

Reason for Reno Trip To Decide Who Will Receive Fortune

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Is a trip to Reno prima facie evidence of estrangement between husband and wife?

On the answer to this question depends the disposition of a trust fund listed as "upwards of $900,000."

An 8-year-old girl, playing happily in Brighton, a suburb of Rochester, N. Y., will get it all, if Reno is the equivalent of "estrangement."

Or, if a trip to Reno is merely a business trip, a young woman in Stratford, Ont., very much concerned with the issue, will get the income from half of it for life.

The whole puzzle arises from the will of Horace Eliot Wadsworth, millionaire sportsman and heir to an automobile fortune, one of the strangest ever filed in New York.

STRANGE CODICIL

An even stranger codicil to the will at first eclipsed public interest in the disposition of the fortune. In the codicil Wadsworth directed that "the best detective agency" be employed to investigate his death and $100,000 reward be paid for bringing his murderers, if he was murdered, to justice.

But it is the disposition of the fortune that is interesting the lawyers, and some of the biggest law firms in the country are interested in the case. Wadsworth made his will after he had been separated by divorce from his first wife, the present Mrs. Thomas R. White, of Brighton, N. Y., and before he married again.

He directed that if he married again and was "not estranged or separated" from his second wife the money should be placed in equal trust funds for the second wife, Elizabeth Baker Wadsworth, of Stratford, Ont., and for Mary Elizabeth Wadsworth, 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. White.

Wadsworth died in Reno on August 10.

RENO RESIDENCE

Trips to Reno generally are held to be for one purpose. But in the several days Wadsworth had spent in the divorce capital, he had done nothing to establish legal residence or start proceedings.

Ordinarily his failure to obtain a divorce, if that was his intention, would leave the widow mentioned in his will with all her rights—but for the phrase "estranged or separated" which crops up repeatedly in the will. No dower rights are involved as Wadsworth owned no real estate.

That is the question which possibly will lead to a legal battle. Kenneth B. Keating, Rochester attorney, is already reported to be in Reno, in order to obtain the whole fortune for the little girl.

The law firm of Elihu Root, former secretary of state, is representing the Wadsworth estate. Lee McCandliss of the law firm headed by John W. Davis, once candidate for president, is representing Elizabeth Baker Wadsworth.

INSULL TRIAL DELAY SEEN

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Denis Lazarimos, one of the attorneys for Samuel Insull, said today it would be a long time before the Insull extradition case is tried, because it will be necessary to obtain all evidence from America.

The Court of Appeal has approved the detention of the former Chicago utilities operator pending proceedings to determine whether he is to be extradited to face trial in the United States on an indictment charging violation of the bankruptcy laws.

Lazarimos said:

"Until the charges are in the hands of the defense we cannot move, as Mr. Insull remembers nothing definitely concerning bankruptcy matters, because of the time which has elapsed."

Forest Harness, representing the United States Attorney General's office, announced yesterday that he would allow Insull to see the indictment in order that he might prepare a defense.

Son Gone, 'Richest Man' World's Poorest Now

BANCROFT, Neb., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Edward J. Meyers, Bancroft blacksmith, who some years ago gained fame as America's "richest man" through his letter outlining his philosophy of life, is ready to renounce the title now.

Meyers has lost a son. The clothing of the son, Lloyd L. Meyers, of Columbus, Neb., was found on a bank of the Loup River west of Columbus, but a search of the river was futile. It is thought that Lloyd was drowned while swimming.

The elder Myers, broken-hearted over the apparent tragedy, told friends:

His letter, printed in many of the nation's leading newspapers, asked:

"I enjoy the greatest of all blessings—I have a wonderful wife—a little home, a beautiful daughter, a son grown to maturity and now in life's game for himself. Rich? Why, man alive, who can possibly be richer?"

Lloyd was the son mentioned in the letter. He later married and was the father of three children who, with their mother, live with relatives in Norfolk, Neb.

LOADED, UNSOLD PRODUCE . . . ROBERT STILLEY, 24, CAME HOME TO DEATH

Today

Paris, London, Berlin and Rome within forty hours.

DISPATCHES from London have repeatedly reported the English as "smiling" at Ireland's hostile attitude toward Britain. The smiles are partly explained by the news that Irish sales of goods abroad, England being the principal market, have dropped by nearly $150,000,000 during the first seven months of this year.

If, however, the Irish have eaten their own butter, ducks, chickens, eggs and beef, instead of sending them to England, that would not be such bad news.

BOYS TRAPPED ON CLIFF HAULED TO SAFETY AT ROPE'S END

TWO-DAY VIGIL OF PERIL OVER FOR SCOUTS

3 Tied Selves to Bushes To Prevent Slipping Off Narrow Ledge

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Three Boy Scouts, who clung for their lives to a tiny ledge 400 feet up on the rocky side of Wallface Mountain, told today how they were saved from death after two days of privation and peril.

The Scouts—Robert Glenn, Tyler Grey and William La Due—were nearing exhaustion and a probable fatal plunge down the perpendicular cliff into a gorge when rescuers, in a thrilling feat of mountaineering, hauled them to safety at the end of a 225-foot rope late yesterday.

Lifted to a higher ledge, they were brought down along a wild Adirondack trail.

PARENTS SUFFER MOST

The boys, sleeping late today, were in better condition than their parents, who endured two nerve-wracking, sleepless days and nights.

Robert J. Glenn, father of one youth, who remained at the mountain side, was ill. Mrs. Glenn was recovering from "two terrible days." She said:

"We are thankful to have them back."

Aside from cut hands the young climbers had no injuries. A few minutes of warm sunshine as the sun swung over the canyon yesterday afternoon warmed them and warded off the effects of exposure, the La Due boys father said. Hot baths and warm food, and fresh sheets at 2 a. m., today put them at once into a sound sleep.

Five men who hauled them up the cliff to safety also slept late, exhausted by the work.

TORN AND BLEEDING

When the boys reached the top their fingernails were torn and bleeding from clinging to their ledge.

Young La Due said:

"We had no idea at all of climbing the mountain when we started out for Haystack Mountain with three other fellows.

"But when we got to Wallface, we remembered hearing that an old German mountain climber claimed to have ascended the cliff 50 years ago. The other fellows went on, but we decided to stay and see if it was possible.

"If we could have got 200 feet higher, I think we would have reached the top. But the rock sloped out over our heads and prevented further climbing.

"When we started back we found that a key stone which we had used to get up over had been kicked loose and was gone. So our way down was cut off."

TIED SELVES TO BUSHES

During the night, La Rue continued, they tied themselves to a bush so they would not slide off. They slept about an hour, but La Due did not sleep at all. In the freezing wind the three clung together, taking turns at standing in the middle. They were clad only in light hiking clothes.

La Due added:

"It was a thrilling experience. when we saw the ropes hanging down with the package of food for us, but that was nothing as compared to the thrill when I was actually swung out into space on the end of the 200-foot rope. I was the first to leave the ledge, then Lyle. Robert was last."

They were hauled up to a ledge directly above the one on which they were trapped. From the higher position there was a difficult but not impossible trail down which the youths climbed with the aid of their rescuers.

Five men, braced against large boulders, drew the scouts up slowly as the latter helped by pushing against the rock wall with their feet. Their experience in scout craft helped them to loop the rope securely about their bodies.

SHOWER OF ROCKS

Once a shower of loose dirt and rocks rained down as one of the boys was suspended in mid-air, but he was unhurt. Another of the boys narrowly escaped death when one of the ropes about him snapped. He was supported by a second rope, however, until he could be safely drawn up.

All three were off the ledge within an hour after the rope was dropped to the rescue party from a plane. Each boy was in the air about 10 minutes.

Scores of volunteers had wound up the mountain trail to the formidable cliff which had never before been climbed to so great a height. State police, United States Coast Guard, state forest rangers and veteran mountain climbers from all over the Adirondack region were on hand with airplanes, breeches buoys and other rescue apparatus.

Jury Probing Walker Affairs Discharged

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The federal grand jury which since June has been investigating the financial affairs of former Mayor James J. Walker, was discharged today without returning any indictments.

The principal witness before the grand jury was Russell T. Sherwood, whose absence for many months prevented him from testifying before the Hofstader Legislative committee about alleged financial dealings he had with Walker.

REDSKIN FAILS TO LASSO DEER

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A Mohawk Indian's knowledge of wild animal nature met today with the same failure the white man has had in attempting to rescue a seven-point buck deer which has been trapped for six days on a rocky ledge in the gorge af Watkins Glen State Park.

Lowered cautiously by a rope from the top of the 200-foot precipice to the ledge 50 feet below, Chief So-Lat-Dowanee, in full tribal dress, failed to come within lassoing distance of the frightened animal, whose alarm was intensified by a news reel photographer, who followed the Indian down the cliff.

Meanwhile, park workmen started to camouflage the bridge which was constructed Tuesday, across the narrowest part of the gorge in the hope the animal would use it to escape from its tragic predicament. Moss and evergreen boughs were placed along its 25-foot length and a trail of salt laid to encourage the buck to try the path to freedom.

JIMMY'S BETTY ILL IN FRANCE

CANNES, France, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. James J. Walker left today to spend a month in Evian, a resort in Southern France, where Mrs. Walker, the former Betty Compton, has been ordered by her doctor because of delicate health.

A close friend of the former New York Mayor said the Walkers had expected a baby, but that hope was destroyed following a severe intestinal illness which she suffered recently.

Mrs. Walker, who often has expressed a desire to have children, has been despondent since the illness, the friend said, and failed to respond satisfactorily to treatment.

WHITE HOUSE DOG BITES MAN

He explains that while passing the mansion yesterday, he reached through the fence to pat Major, President Roosevelt's German shepherd.

Major bit. Seven stitches were taken in the lacerated fingers of Johnson's right hand.

Major is credited with snapping at Senator Hattie Caraway last April. Since then, however, an operation was believed to have cured his biting tendencies.

Johnson, an attorney, said he contemplated no legal action against the White House.

SEA OUTLAWS RESCUE GIRLS

HULL, Mass., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The code of the sea must be heeded even by a maritime outlaw, and to that fact five girls probably owed their lives today.

The girls put out in an outboard motorboat yesterday. When they were several miles off shore, the motor stopped and their efforts to start it again failed.

Darkness came. The girls, in tears, clung to each other in the bottom of the boat. Suddenly they heard the roar of powerful motors and a long, shadowy hull hove to alongside.

The lone and uncommunicative crew of the craft passed a line to the disabled boat and towed it ashore. Without waiting for thanks the rescuer roared away. The craft was of a type used by rum runners.

The rescued girls are Florence T. Breslin, Ellen Goodwin and Mary Lyons, of Boston; Rita F. Ryan, of Somerville, and Helen Chmielinski, of Brookline.

More Love Missives By Claire to Be Read

Screen Star Insists She Thought Broker Was Single

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—More love letters beautiful Claire Windsor, blonde film star, wrote to Alfred C. Read, young broker, were to be read today in a dramatic love triangle suit being tried in Superior Court.

Mrs. Marian Read, Oakland (Cal.) socialite, sued Miss Windsor for $100,000, alleging the actress had stolen Read's affections.

He kissed her the night they became acquainted on an eastbound train, she admitted.

KISSED ON TRAIN

Scene of the first kiss was the observation platform of the train. Miss Windsor said:

"I pushed him away the first time."

Mrs. Read's attorney asked:

"But you were not resentful after the first kiss?"

"No."

"They were very affectionate kisses?"

"Yes."

She declared Read led her to believe on that romantic night that he was a single man.

Read spent several days in New York with Miss Windsor and then departed, declaring he would go to Reno to obtain a divorce.

LETTER AS EVIDENCE

A letter Miss Windsor wrote Read three hours after he had left New York was read into the evidence:

"Darling:

"You have been gone only three hours; it seems strange to come up to my room and not call you to let you know I am here, and in a few minutes I'll be eating alone.

"Everyone seemed to know you were gone, for many came up to me and asked if I felt blue.

"I miss you dreadfully, my sweet. Give my best to Frank and my devoted love to you.

"CLAIRE."

'LOST' PIGEON STILL MYSTERY

A proper sequel to George M. Cohan's stage success, "Pigeons and People," today co-starred a tired-out carrier pigeon and the Pittsburgh Police Department, with the police in more or less of a quandry.

The pigeon alighted on a window of Mercy Hospital, fatigued and bearing this message with the designation NPA:

"August 30, 1933, U. P. Marshall, 2351 Reed street, Pittsburgh. Stop on the 29 on count of being hurt."

A police investigation netted the pronouncement that there was no such number or person in Pittsburgh.

However, U. P. Marshall, a Negro janitor employed at the Frick Building, was awakened at the address by a reporter and chuckled at the police. He "cleared" the mystery with:

"That there pigeon landed at the Frick Building Tuesday. I fed it, tied the note to its leg and let it go yesterday. That's all there is to it."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 31.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

See picture in the papers of an old boy eating 54 ears of corn as an appetizer, and a woman 71 years old stored away 45. Since we give 'em the vote, there just is no end to women's cleverness. Men just can't hardly beat 'em at anything.

If Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will get busy and promote a lot of these corn-eating contests (there is no reason why it can't be made as popular as bridge, as it has much more to recommend it), well, with a lot of these contests, they won't have to be plowing up every third row of corn.

Long Island better have this kind of parties, then they can't throw anything at the senators but the cobs. Yours, WILL.

LINDYS REACH SWEDEN

International News Service.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 31.—At the invitation of Crown Prince Gustav, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived in Sweden from Denmark today to visit the homes of his ancestors.

They ferried across the sound from Elsinore, Denmark, and were met at Helsingborg, on the Swedish side, by a royal limousine which took them to the summer palace at Sofiero.

The Lindberghs lunched with the Prince and renewed an acquaintanceship established when the heir to the throne visited the United States in 1926.

Among the spots the Lindberghs are expected to visit is a town 60 miles from Sofiero, where the Colonel's father was born, and where his father and sister died a few years ago.

Temperature changes since yesterday were slight, but towards warmer over the plains states and the upper Mississippi Valley. Maximum temperatures of 90 degrees or higher occurred yesterday over the east Gulf Coast, in Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and North Dakota.

'OTHER WOMAN' TO TESTIFY IN 'TUB' TRIAL

Lamson Sent Bouquets To 'Dizzy Blonde,' Says Florist

By ERNESTINE BALL
International News Service.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 31.—Sara Kelley, the "other woman" in the Lamson murder mystery trial, has been cast by the defense to play the role of platonic love.

It was going to be a "natural" the defense said. Sara Kelley would come into court and convince any jury that David Lamson's visits to her in Sacramento were for business and professional reasons only.

But yesterday the prosecution put on the witness stand Miriam M. Johnson, Sacramento florist. She evidently does not believe that life is just a bed of roses for a business woman. She keeps her telegrams and bills in perfect order—incidentally she said that David Lamson had paid all his bills for flowers sent to Sara Kelley.

DRINKING HINTED

The lady florist did not seem to have the impression that David Lamson and Sara Kelley were playing a scene from platonic love when they came into her flower shop about two weeks before Christmas. Mrs. Johnson said:

"They appeared to me to have been drinking."

She saw them having breakfast one early morning in a coffee shop. Sara Kelley had shown her a snapshot of herself and David Lamson at a snow carnival in January.

There were two poems from Sara Kelley entered by the prosecution with the intent of convincing the jury that all was not platonic between David and Sara.

They are certainly evidence that as a poet Sara Kelley has little regard for herself, for in the margin of the one all about love and life, she has scribbled, "Lousy, but you get the idea."

The other verse—evidently her "thank you" for the box of spring flowers David sent her—might have been written by Sara Kelley when she was a co-ed at Stanford, instead of the self-styled "dizzy blonde" divorcee of the Lamson murder trial.

DEFENSE CONTRADICTED

But the prosecution will attempt to show that David Lamson did not live in that modern sophisticated world where a wife regards flowers for her rival as a mere gesture.

Frank J. Taylor, associated for six years with David Lamson in the Stanford publishing business, was not very happy on the witness stand yesterday as he revealed that Lamson had added "we cannot get along and I don't care what happens."

HUEY SHIELDS BRUISES FROM CAMERAMEN

List of Celebrities Who Didnt Hit Him Continues to Grow

International News Service.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 31.—After a dramatic homecoming from the battle of Long Island, in which a newspaper photographer was manhandled, Senator Huey P. Long today maintained a guarded silence.

His response to questions concerning the setto at the Sands Point Bath Club, of Long Island, was:

"I have nothing to say."

One of the Senator's guards pushed a photographer down an embankment as he tried to take a picture of the "Kingfish" and his wounded forehead alighting from the train. Long then departed for his home.

The Senator refused to comment on an offer to appear as an attraction at Coney Island and in a rematch at Chicago of the notable Bath Club bout.

RECOUNT ENDING

A recount of the ballot boxes of last November's Long-sponsored election on the Fifth Constitutional Amendment was to be completed today.

Examination of 36 ballot boxes revealed a total of 2,958 votes in favor of the Long organization which were allegedly fraudulently returned. Recount of 120 boxes in all showed a discrepancy of 14,258 votes, authorities said.

Huey, returning home from the Long Island and Milwaukee wars, was reported to have added another escapade to his list yesterday by bowling a conductor on his train over into the laps of two nuns.

The conductor himself, George Laws, was authority for the story of the playful Louisiana Kingfish. Laws said:

"I was bending over talking to two nuns when suddenly I heard a furious grunting sound behind me and someone struck me, throwing me into their laps.

"I scrambled up and recognized the 'Kingfish.' He didn't stop or bother to apologize, but just dashed on into the dining car."

HONOR REFUSED

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The list of men who did not punch Senator Huey P. Long lengthened today as the saga of the Kingfish and the shiner remained a mystery tale without a denouement.

Noted fliers, a police chief, socially prominent professional men—all have been named as the person who scored the knockdown in the Sands Point club's washroom—but all have declined the nomination. Here are some of them:

1—Alford J. Williams, six-footer, former crack pilot for the Navy, former ace footballer for Fordham, now a Gulf Oil official in Pittsburgh. Told by the Daily News of a belief that he was the socker, he replied very calmly:

"It's news to me. Furthermore, it's news to me that any of my friends would think such a thing of me."

2—Clarence Chamberlin, another famous flier, said he was in the washroom at "just about" the critical moment. But did he do the hitting? Oh, no! Did he see it done? Oh, my, no!

CHIEF SAYS NO!

3—Police Chief Steve Webber, of Port Washington, L. I., weighs 200 and has a large right fist with what some newspapers called a bruise on its knuckles. Denying "officially" that he was the man, he said:

"I don't want to be popular. I'd rather hold my job. I was in the washroom, but you've got to say I didn't do it."

4—Robert B. Thomas, Park avenue lawyer, as quoted in the New York Herald-Tribune:

"I'd be perfectly willing to take credit if I'd done it, but I wasn't there."

5—Kenneth M. Murchison, a socially prominent architect, was quoted in the same paper as saying he didn't do it, but knew what happened and thought the man who did the punching "deserving of commendation."

Maybe Popeye Could Explain Huey Mystery

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Did an architect design a shanty for Huey Long's eye?

Did he charge Huey for the lumber?

Or was Huey slugged by the midget who sat in Morgan's lap?

Find the man who struck Billy Patterson. He may be the culprit who painted the memorial wreath around the senatorial optic.

It may have been Popeye who started the knuckle blizzard after an overdose of spinach. Still, you can't blame Huey for being puzzled by Long Island hospitality.

First, they name the island after him. Then, they smack him purple.

New Police Trial Board Replaces Old System

The new police trial board system, created by an act of legislature, and described as the most drastic change in the city's police code in history, will be inaugurated next Wednesday, Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., announced today.

In the future, the policeman whose conduct has warranted his suspension will be tried by a jury of three men from the ranks, to be selected by the safety director much in the manner in which court juries are picked.

The jury of three replaces the old police trial board, which was composed of the director, the superintendent, inspectors and captains.

Each week, from a hat containing the names of 25 department members on slips of paper of the same size and texture, the director will select a panel of seven names.

From the seven, the jury of three will be selected by the director. The policeman to be tried will have the right to challenge any of the seven jurors.

The hearings will be conducted in the presence of the jury and witnesses only.

ULTIMATUM ON COAL CODE ISSUED

tion of the United Mine Workers of America.

Morrow said:

"We are working to complete our task at the earliest possible moment. I am sure that no blame is attached to the operators for delay and we have in mind the prompt co-operation with the NRA."

Asked as to the statement of President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America, regarding the broad scope of unionization of the mines, he answered:

"I cannot make any comment on the statement of Mr. Lewis."

Union operators, who for years have had agreements with the United Mine Workers, are working with their conferees from the nonunion areas in efforts to speed the proceedings. Writing these agreements is comparatively easy, since the broad principles have been laid down.

When the operators agree upon tonnage rates these rates will be taken up with the miners and will become part of the contract.

According to Gen. Johnson's plan, once a uniform wage scale was agreed upon, competition would be on a basis of efficiency, it was declared, and no longer on the basis of wages as between one local mine and another, but between one field and another.

Meanwhile, so-called "captive" mines such as those operated by the H. C. Frick Coke Company, United States Steel Corporation subsidiary, and the mining affiliates of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation are declared to be "out of the picture." Deputy Coal Administrator E. K. Simpson declared these mines were not included in the agreements.

Johnson Reports on Ford to Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—New conferences between mine operators and union spokesmen on the soft coal code agreement were undertaken today at the National Recovery Administration.

Hugh S. Johnson reported by telephone to President Roosevelt that he expected the compact to be ready for signature upon the chief executive's arrival here four days hence.

The NRA director also gave Mr. Roosevelt the requested report on Henry Ford's non-signature of the automobile code, which takes effect September 5, but just what Johnson told him was not reported.

Unless Ford signs, he can not get the NRA Blue Eagle, and would therefore be exposed to loss of patronage from consumers pledged to patronize the co-operating establishments; from the government, which has been a big buyer of Ford products, and from all industries operating under codes, since they are under pledge to do as much business as possible with code signers.

HEARINGS HELD

A number of hearings on new agreements were opened by the administration today. Among them were codes covering the country's air transport lines, boiler making factories, pottery and textile bag manufacturers. At the pottery hearing a demand for tariff protection against foreign products was made with a request that the administration propose higher duties on imports.

The National Labor Board, under Senator Wagner, of New York, arranged to hold hearings this afternoon on various labor complaints, one of them from Hollywood charging that terms of a truce recently laid down by the board for settlement of the motion picture studio strike were being violated.

Before the coal conference opened, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, said he had been waiting two days for word from the coal operators, who all that time had been conferring among themselves and had not revealed whether they were ready yet to sign contracts for union recognition in the Appalachian territory. This, Lewis and others had said, formed a basis of the agreement reached last Monday night.

FREE DRUGGIST ON PAROLE

F. J. Bocchicchio, once owner of a drug store in Frankstown avenue, was paroled for one year by Judge John P. Egan on condition that he pay back to the City of Pittsburgh $976.

Bocchicchio pleaded guilty to false pretense. He was accused of charging the city for prescriptions which he faked in welfare cases.

Controller J. P. Kerr, testifying, admitted it was difficult to determine just how much the druggist owed the city, but $976 was agreed upon. Kerr said he believed the defendant had been punished enough.

The settlement will really bring Bocchicchio $300, for the city has been holding $1,275 due him pending the trial.

U. S. ADVISERS SENT TO CUBA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A. A. Berle, Jr., legal adviser to the Farm Administration on sugar matters, and John Laylin of the Treasury, will be sent to Cuba as advisers to the American embassy in connection with Cuban Economic re-organization.

Formal announcement of the mission was made today by Secretary Hull at a press conference.

Berle is one of President Roosevelt's professional counsellors. His continuance as legal adviser on sugar recently has been protested by domestic cane refiners on the ground of "bias and prejudice," based on the contention that he was associated with interests in Cuba, which competed with the domestic refiners.

Their functions, Hull said, will be to analyze the Cuban financial and economic situation for the guidance of the American government. Laylin will leave tomorrow for Havana. Berle is going Saturday. They expect to stay but 15 days, assisting Ambassador Sumner Welles.

RULING ON RACE BARRIER ASKED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—George Crawford, Negro, under indictment in Loudon County, Va., for the murder of Agnes B. Ilsley and Mina Buchner, today asked the Supreme Court to set aside an order of the First Circuit Court of Appeals ordering him to be held at Boston, Mass., for extradition and trial.

Federal District Judge James A. Lowell, in Massachusetts, ordered the release of Crawford on the ground Negroes did not serve on grand juries in Virginia and would not serve on the trial jury. Shortly after his ruling, impeachment resolutions were passed in the House ordering an investigation of his conduct.

Counsel for Crawford urged the high court today to pass on whether Virginia's practice of excluding Negroes from grand juries constituted such an infringement of the constitutional rights of Crawford as to warrant refusal to extradite him.

Machado Ordered To Return to Army

HAVANA, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Former President Machado and six other retired Cuban army officers were under orders today to return from exile or their hiding places for active duty or be liable to prosecution as deserters.

The commands were taken as presaging military reorganization and were announced by Horacio Ferrer, new Secretary of War.

Astor's Magazine To Be Named 'Today'

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(INS.)—Vincent Astor will call the weekly he is to begin publishing this fall "Today," and is using the title by courtesy of Arthur Brisbane, columnist, whose column carries the same masthead.

Raymond Moley, former Assistant Secretary of State, who resigned to take an editorial position on the new Astor publication, announced this here today as he started back to New York after a run up aboard yacht, the Nourmahal. Moley said:

"We picked this as a name we would like to use. We are using it through the courtesy of Mr. Brisbane."

ARMY SPY FACES 20 YEARS

International News Service.

CRISTOBAL, C. Z., Aug. 31.—Convicted as a spy of Communist tendencies, Corp. Robert Osman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was in charge of military authorities at Fort Sherman today under a sentence of two years at hard labor and an order to pay a $10,000 fine.

If the fine is not paid, according to the official ruling of the court-martial board which heard his case, Corp. Osman will be confined at hard labor for an additional 18 years, making 20 in all.

The soldier was convicted of violation of the espionage act of 1917, one of the most serious of all military offenses.

CODE ON COAL ASSURED TO ROOSEVELT

boarded the yacht at 11:45. The group of personal friends accompanying him were already aboard. Mrs. James Roosevelt, Sr., his mother, went on deck to kiss her President son goodbye.

So did Mrs. Anna Dall, his daughter, and her little children, "Sistie" and "Buzzie."

As the yacht shoved away, a child's cry of "Goodbye, Pop" caught the President's ear. He smiled broadly and called back, "Goodbye, Sistie." It was the granddaughter in the midst of the crowd waving a farewell.

The President's own flag was on the mast and Mr. Roosevelt remarked that he thought it was the first time in history that the flag of four white stars on the blue field had been on a private yacht.

MOLEY AT DOCK

Among those at the dock was Raymond Moley, who recently resigned as Assistant Secretary of State to become the editor of a new magazine to be published by Vincent Astor. As the yacht backed away and turned around to go down the Hudson beneath the two high bridges of Poughkeepsie, two vigilant destroyers under command of Capt. Walter Vernou, the President's naval aide, put on steam and picked up the trail in the rear.

No stops are to be made on the cruise, which is destined to end Tuesday morning on the Potomac River near the dome of the United States Capitol.

Those lining the rail with Mr. Roosevelt as the yacht pulled out were Astor, Judge Frederic Kernochan, of New York; Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt; George St. George and Lytle Hull, of Tuxedo; W. R. Stewart, of New York; Dr. Lester Heiter, of Mobile, Ala., and Gus Gennerich and Robert Clark, of the Secret Service. This is the same group which accompanied Mr. Roosevelt aboard the Nourmahal on the cruise in southern waters last February.

REFUGEE SLAIN, NAZI HUNTED

International News Service.

MARIENBAD, Czechoslavakia, Aug. 31.—The entire Marienbad police force was mobilized today to locate the murderer, alleged to be a German Nazi, who shot and killed Professor Theodor Lessing, famed German philosopher and noted pacifist who fled his fatherland because of the anti-semitic policies of Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

The self-exiled German was slain last night in his bed room on the third floor of a local boarding house by an unknown assailant, who fired into the room from a ladder placed against a window.

One of two shots fired struck Prof. Lessing in the head.

The murder of Lessing, who was of Jewish descent, caused other German refugees here, of whom there are many, to fear for their own safety. Special precautions were taken to guard them.

Prof. Lessing, who has written bitter articles against the Hitler regime, was deprived of his salary and his property was seized by Nazis. He had said he often received death threats.

STATE LAGGING IN GOOD ROADS

Pennsylvania is falling behind in mileage of extra-width, high type roads, according to a survey announced by the Highway Committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club. It said:

"Only 83 miles of three and four-lane roads were to be found on state routes in Pennsylvania at the beginning of last year, while New York had 1,104 miles, New Jersey 333 miles, and Ohio 177 miles. It is surprising to learn that this state, second only to New York in population and wealth, is at the very bottow of a list of representative states in mileage of three and four-lane modern highways.

"More distressing is the knowledge that the Department of Highways expects to spend a large part of the road funds now available for rural pavement, and permit the main road system to continue its decline."

EXCHANGE BANK PAYING 5,000

More than 5,000 depositors in the closed Exchange National Bank, 240 Fifth avenue, today were notified they are to receive an additional dividend of $600,000.

The distribution amounts to 16 2-3 per cent of their original deposits and increases the total paid to 65 per cent. The bank paid previous dividends of 33 1-3 per cent and 15 per cent.

Cards mailed to the depositors bear dates on which they may come to the bank to receive their checks, drawn on the First National Bank. The dates will extend over a week's time.

The Exchange National Bank closed its doors on October 19, 1931, following the failure of the Bank of Pittsburgh, which precipitated the first epidemic of closings in this city.

NRA PLAN AIMS AT 'FAMILY' STORES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A tentative plan by which the nation's small stores, especially those family-operated, would bear a share of the labor load imposed under a general retail code was worked out yesterday at the Recovery Administration.

In general terms, this provision suggested that in stores where not more than five persons work, be they members of the employer's family or hired workers, only one of the five might be considered an executive. This would require all but one member of the family to work the hours set in the code.

FAMILY STORE

A small store conducted entirely by three members of one family, without such a provision might be operated by them, working any hours they desired, without hiring additional helpers.

Under the suggested provision one member of the family would be an executive and the other two might work only the stipulated hours, ranging, perhaps, from 40 to 48, dependent upon hours of operation, with the result that a part-time employe, at least, might be necessary.

A controversial provision of the druggists' code, which would require retailers to sell at prices not less than 21 per cent under the retail price as set by manufacturers on trade marked items, was being considered for the master code.

LURE TO BUYERS

The effect of this would be to prevent the use by one trade of another trade's standard items as a lure for buyers. A department store, for instance, might not sell a cosmetic for less than cost to attract customers. Nor would a drug store be allowed to offer an article of wearing apparel at below cost for similar purposes.

This suggestion was being opposed vigorously by others than the druggists, but it was still receiving NRA consideration, as was the more general provision of a 10 per cent mark-up above invoice cost as suggested by other retailers.

It was said privately that both provisions might be in the final code, expected to be ready for Gen. Johnson the middle of next week.

500 PUSH NRA DRIVE HERE

Five hundred businessmen and trade association representatives braved today's rain to "sell" the Blue Eagle to 2,400 non-codesigners in the downtown business district and several hundred more in Herron Hill, Oakland and Squirrel Hill.

This sales army of the local recovery campaign committee was told by Frank C. Harper, general secretary, that Pittsburgh was shown by the Boy Scouts' survey to be as well signed up as any city in the country. He stressed the importance of 100 per cent compliance with the NRA, pointing out:

"It might really jeopardize the whole recovery movement if only 5 per cent of the employers were allowed to remain outside the Blue Eagle ranks."

Three hundred and seventy-three new NRA pledges yesterday brought the total of co-operating employers in the Pittsburgh post-office district to 17,873, according to Postmaster William M. Turner.

The 10 member banks of the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association today signed the banking code of fair competition and put it into immediate force, according to an announcement by W. O. Phillips, manager.

Under the present stipulation of the code, employes cannot be worked more than 40 hours a week, Mr. Phillips said. Many of the banks have been observing this rule since the middle of August, he explained.

NRA DENIES BAN ON FORD MEN

International News Service.

DETROIT, Aug. 31. — NRA headquarters here and in Dearborn today emphatically denied a report that Ford Motor Company workers had been barred from an NRA parade because Ford has not signed the motor industry code.

Abner Larned, Detroit NRA head, said:

"Nobody is barring anybody from the parade."

Another official explained that it was "assumed, of course, that any business concern which had not signed a code would probably not be interested in the parade," which is to be held tonight in downtown Detroit.

At Dearborn, Ernest G. Miller, local NRA chief, declared he "did not believe it." He said:

"Ford employes, many of them, are on our local NRA committees and nobody has ever questioned their presence there."

Henry Ford, himself, is honorary chairman of the Dearborn committee, an honor which, however, he did not formally accept.

5,000 Tenants Face Eviction in Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—As a result of a dispute between tenants and landlords over rents 5,000 persons in 1,500 families may be homeless in Gothenburg October 1.

City officials are attempting to mediate to prevent the tenants, mostly working men and their families, from becoming a burden to the city, but are helpless under existing laws to stop mass evictions.

GREEN SCORES PICKETING BAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said last night that "we will certainly oppose the decision" granting an injunction restraining striking union workers from picketing bakery shops in New York.

When told of the action of Supreme Court Justice Strong in Brooklyn, Green said:

"I can't understand this decision. The courts always have held that picketing is perfectly proper and perfectly legal.

"We certainly will not accept that decision as final. I don't believe that it is in line with the many court decisions rendered in picketing cases.

"Without going into the merits of this particular case, we know that labor has the right to picket and has a right to defend itself."

Six pickets were arrested in Brooklyn after Grover Whalen, chairman of the National Recovery committee in New York, had asserted the belief that picketing of factories and shops operating under the NRA was a criminal offense.

LIBERALS SEE COAL STRIFE

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Strife in the nation's coal fields, especially in Illinois, was envisaged by liberal and Socialist leaders last night unless the NRA coal code guarantees the rights of independent unions as well as the United Mine Workers of America.

In behalf of the men and women, the American Civil Liberties Union telegraphed Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, and Dr. Leo Wolman, of the labor advisory board, as follows:

"Protest strongly against reported provision for collective bargaining in coal code granting exclusive recognition to United Mine Workers with check-off system.

"We submit that such provision directly violates section seven giving workers right to select own representatives. Independent unions in mining industry should be provided for.

"If reported provision adopted, strife will follow, particularly in Illinois field, and court test inevitable. Urge your careful consideration of this point."

The reference to Illinois fields results from the formation there a year ago of the Progressive Miners of America, after a schism in the United Mine Workers.

PRICE CONTROL CONSIDERED BY OIL BOARD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A base price of between 5 and 6 cents a gallon for gasoline at wholesale at the refinery was understood today in authoritative sources to be planned by the administration as one of the first major steps toward stabilizing the oil industry under its NRA trade code.

This would make the price of crude oil run from $1 upward, in accordance with the price control ratio formula in the code which stipulates that the cost of a barrel of crude oil of set quality (36-36.9 mid-continent gravity) shall be 18.5 times the wholesale refinery price of a gallon of gasoline.

The code empowers President Roosevelt to fix the base price of gasoline for a test period of not to exceed 90 days and it was said reliably that this base—one of the topics for discussion by the planning and co-ordinating committee of the industry today in its first meeting—would be between 5 and 6 cents, possibly 5½ cents.

It was intimated that no set recommendation would go to the President on how long the test period should be, with the explanation that an indefinite time within the 90-day limitation would be desirable to permit the government to move fully into controlling production and find bases upon which future price regulations could be based.

Secretary Ickes, as oil administrator, presided over the session of the planning and co-ordinating committee of the industry. Representing the government on this group are James A. Moffett, former vice president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; Donald Richberg, labor counsel of NRA, and M. S. Benedum, Pittsburgh oil operator.

END NRA CREDIT PLAN STUDY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation, last night concluded a tentative exploration of means of expanding credit to members of the NRA and indication was given that a formal announcement of steps to be taken might be expected within the next day or so.

In addition to a telephone conversation with President Roosevelt in Hyde Park, Jones conferred during the day and last night with Eugene Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and representatives of the comptroller of the currency.

During a personal conference with the President on Monday, Jones discussed ways and means of creating a medium for temporarily expanding credit for participants in the NRA movement to take care of their needs during the period between increased overhead and the first returns from higher prices under the recovery program.

Jones said no formal decision had been reached as to what would be done.

Several Thousand Silk Workers Strike

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 31.—(INS.)—Several thousand silk mill workers here went on strike today on order of the Associated Silk Workers. A similar order for a nation-wide strike has been issued by the American Federation of Silk Workers, which may affect 30,000 workers in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, New England and parts of the South.

The Paterson NRA forces have been working to avert the strike.

Oyster Workers Put 'R' In NRA

BIVALVE, N. J., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The "R" in September intensifies the "R" in NRA by sending 7,000 men back to work in the oyster fishing industry of Delaware Bay and nearby waters tomorrow.

Four hundred boats, scraped, painted and with gear in perfect order, will scoop sea food which by the time fishing ends next April is expected to have added $7,000,000 to Southern New Jersey's income.

Shucking has increased greatly as a side industry and the output of opened oysters from the Maurice River cove runs to about 5,000,000 quarts a year.

Like other industries, the oyster fishermen are working on a code under the NRA.

HE'S READY FOR REST

A. EDWARD HUFNAGEL

With a record of 46 years continuous service with the Pittsburgh postoffice, A. Edward Hufnagel, of Mt. Troy road extension, has retired. He entered the service when Station B, now known as the Arsenal Station, was established. Now he thinks:

"I might as well take a few years for myself and take it easy."

Ohio Employes Fail to Get Pay

COLUMBUS, O.—(INS.)—State employes recently found their salaries up a legislative tree. Wrapped up in an intense debate over a maze of taxation proposals, the Legislature dallied on the biennial appropriation bill until beyond the date the state employes were to have received their salary checks.

Sandwich Price War Stirs Rush Call to Johnson

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 31.—Latrobe restaurant men have sent an emergency call to Gen. Johnson, the NRA chief, because of a sandwich price war here.

A minimum price of 10 cents for sandwiches had been agreed upon, it was stated, but two restaurants advertised five-cent sandwiches. Another followed with three-for-a-dime and the war has been raging merrily.

POTTERY CODE HEARING ON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(A.P.)—The pottery industry's code of fair practice comes up for hearing today before NRA officials.

Indications are that few changes will be necessary since a majority of the industry seems to be in accord with the code as submitted by the United States Pottery Association.

In its present form, the code bars child labor, provides for a minimum wage of $13 weekly and a 40-hour work week.

It also exempts certain classes of workers, including helpers, dressers, packers and apprentice finishers from the minimum wage provisions. Engineers and firemen, exempted from the 40-hour clause, are to be paid time and one-half for all work over 40 hours.

Twins Born in Same Hour to Two Sisters

FERROL, Spain, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—Candidates for some sort of record, two sisters gave birth to twins in the same house and at the same hour today.

The sisters before their marriage were Josefa and Mathilde Rey. Josefa had a pair of boys, and Mathilde baby daughters.

U. S. BARS CODE FOR TEACHERS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The National Recovery Administration today tentatively rejected a proposal of educators to bring 1,000,000 school teachers under a code of fair competition.

The proposal was presented to Thomas C. Hammond, in charge of the President's re-employment campaign, and to John Hancock, executive officer of the Recovery Administration.

Officials of the National Education Association and associated state boards were informed their proposed code would be considered only if legal opinion were presented showing that schools came under the code, and a showing can be made of benefit to the nation as a whole.

The present opinion of Recovery Administration officials is that public schools cannot be brought under a code, because they are creatures of state and local governments.

Shoe Industry Code Submitted to U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A final draft of a code of competition for the boot and shoe industry today was presented to the Recovery Administration.

HORNE'S SEPTEMBER SALE OF HOUSEWARES

What About Prices for Fall?

This store has taken a long range view of current price trends. We saw ahead and anticipated our Fall stocks, as far as possible, at the favorable earlier prices. These advantages are not arbitrarily confined to any one month, but will be available to our customers as long as possible.

New Federal taxes and the operation of the National Industrial Recovery Act has influenced some prices already, and will influence others as the season progresses, but we will do everything in our power to curb unwarranted advances, and temper the necessary price increases to the public pocketbook.

Our interest lies in making it as easy as possible for people to purchase all they need at this store. Immediate profits are not as important to us as continued patronage, which for many of our customers, extends over a lifetime. We believe that you will be very happily surprised to find how many prices here have NOT been raised—for the present, at least.

This is a time when a reliable store can render an important service to its community in keeping prices fair and in accord with circumstances and conditions. This we will do.

Modern Metal Colors In Misses' Wool Frocks

Rose-Rust, Bronze Green, Copper Brown

Nature is at her richest in early Autumn, so these glowing metal colors perfectly match her mood. And they are at their best in smart but simple fuzzy woolen frocks which are going back to college, out to fall sports meets, and jaunts downtown.

There are many slim, young models at this one price. And any busy girl will welcome the fact that they all have easily removable scarfs of velvet, satin or necktie silk, so they may have a continuous change of neckwear and yet no white collars to launder.

The Prime Minister has been away three months. He headed the Canadian delegation at the London conference.

Baroness Producer Talks to Actors Here

Titled Guest Favors 'Truly Creative' Theater

Stage work should be creative and exciting in order to stimulate the imagination, according to Baroness Rosalba de Anchoriz, director of the Paravent Players, Providence, R. I., who visited Pittsburgh today to consult Charles L. Woolridge, Jr., director of the Masquers of Calvary Episcopal Church.

Interested in the Masquers' plan to present on October 17, 18 and 19, "The Mask and the Face," which her group produced last year, the Baroness viewed a short rehearsal and talked with members of the cast at the Calvary parish house.

For seven years the Baroness, previously associated with the New York stage, has directed the Paravent Players in a little theater she built. Under her direction the Players took second prize with Molnar's "Marshall" in a recent national Little Theater tournament held in New York.

A truly creative theater, the Baroness believes, cannot defer to the box office. She says:

"A little theater in the early stage of its development should be a voluntary affair. Only in this way can the best be attained. Since a good theater is universal, I select the best plays of every type. In producing these plays, I allow the setting to express the play, so that at times my setting is subjective, then again it is literal."

Although her interest is centered on the stage, Baroness Anchoriz believes the screen possesses "marvelous potentialities as a vehicle of expression," but that these "limitless possibilities" in the field have been neglected.

In private life the Baroness is Mrs. Maurice Joy, wife of the editor of the Provincetown News.

2 WOMEN HELD IN POISONING

International News Service.

AKRON, O., Aug. 31.—(INS.)—A man known as Clement E. Smith, 35, a rubber worker and World War veteran, died in People's Hospital here today as the result of a potion of poison which, physicians declared, would have been sufficient to kill more than 10 persons.

Two women, who were in the man's apartment when he was stricken, were held by police on charges of suspicion. They were Ritta Rebholz and Mabel Richey, both 30.

According to police, 125 grains of a deadly poison were found in the man's stomach in a post-mortem examination conducted immediately after the man died.

WE ARE most fortunate in having Jean Campbell, R. N., a graduate of The School of Nursing of one of our leading hospitals, who will tell Pittsburgh women how they may eliminate ugly fat without the use of any harmful drugs, exercises or rigid diet.

Miss Campbell has made a serious study of reduction so that women may attain the slim, lovely figures that are so fashionable nowadays. She advocates the use of VANNAY, the newest, safest and surest method known to science. Listen to her on Station WCAE each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9 A. M.

Come in and see Jean Campbell, R. N., at our Main Store, 5th & Liberty Avenue. (There is no obligation whatsoever.) Let her tell you just how you may acquire a figure that will enable you to wear the latest and most charming fashions. See her any day this week between 10 A. M. and 4 P. M'ARDLE FLAYS 'CAVE MEN' OF ORGANIZATION

P. J. McArdle, Independent Republican candidate for mayor, struck at coercion of political jobholders in raising campaign funds, and at the abuse of public works programs, in two addresses last night.

The exaction of political tribute he named "cave man tactics," at a meeting in South High School, Tenth and Carson streets, saying:

"Yet all over this city persons connected with the Regular Republican organization have resorted to such unprincipled actions."

RELIEF HELD UP

Taking sharp issue with the handling of relief funds, McArdle charged:

"Of $300,000 appropriated more than a year ago the first money was not spent until just a few weeks ago—in other words, the administration placed this important relief fund on the front porch of the campaign."

McArdle blamed recent public improvement programs as an important factor in increased municipal expense, in a radio address.

TAX BOOST LOOMS

He said:

"If demands for improvements or new services are met without thorough consideration of their merits and of the willingness and ability of the public to pay, a high tax rate becomes inevitable.

"As the demand for improvements or additional services increases, opportunity for public officers to utilize public funds for political purposes increases also."

Costly organizations built up for the execution of a program have invariably been maintained for long periods past the time required for the work, he said.

OTHER SERVICES HURT

This policy results, he stated, in the curtailment of other necessary services—though without loss of political benefits. He continued:

"The city is now going through such an experience. Men who have been regular city employes for years are reduced to a time schedule of work which will not produce a living, while others, under the guise of a relief work program, are assigned to work which is the ordinary routine of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers, done under the supervisory forces, uselessly costly and largely a duplication of forces already provided."

This work is being paid for from the sale of bonds for which the public will be taxed for the next 20 years, McArdle said.

Edward O. Tabor, Charles Wolff, Howard B. McNutt, and Robert N. Waddell, councilmanic candidates on the Independent Republican ticket, also spoke at the South High meeting.

Herron Man Charges Newspaper 'Bossism'

Mitchell B. DeGroot, advertising expert, attacked Pittsburgh newspapers as having saddled Mayor John S. Herron with a bogeyman of bossism and machine control, in an address yesterday. He said:

"Herron, they say, is a fine character, public-spirited, but part of the system.

"But is there any system of bossism quite as vicious as the public press?"

Taking upon themselves to tell the people who should hold office, newspapers here have presented a one-sided interpretation of news for many months, DeGroot charged.

DeGroot assailed Herron's two independent opponents as political opportunists. Each says the other is not an independent, DeGroot said, and:

"The fact is they're both right. Neither is independent."

Mackrell 'Corrects' Herron Forecast

Joseph N. Mackrell, Progressive Republican candidate for mayor, said last night he wished to correct Mayor John S. Herron's prediction as to whom Mackrell would pick as director of the Department of Public Safety, if elected.

Speaking in the Eighteenth, Thirtieth, Thirty-second and Nineteenth wards, Mackrell said:

"This much I can tell the Mayor. I will not do as he has done and pick out a man so opposed to United States war veterans that he resigned from the American Legion."

After thanking the United American War Veterans' Association for its indorsement, Mackrell advocated the independence of the city controller from the city administration. He said he favored giving the controller a solicitor and engineer of his own for his investigations.

This would afford an unusual check on municipal expenditures, he said.

Smith Manager Assails Gangs For Whispering

Joseph A. Richardson, campaign manager for Judge Ralph H. Smith, candidate for Common Pleas Court, today issued the following statement:

"Political gangster forces, typified by Senator James J. Coyne, seeing their rule threatened by the election of such men as Judge Ralph H. Smith, are trying by fair means and foul—principally foul—to avert the danger which threatens them.

"Poisonous whisperings and scurrilous attacks which these gangsters dare not make in the open are a part of their fight against Judge Smith. These men, without character themselves, have no conception of public men whose characters are clean.

"Judge Smith during his entire career symbolized the spirit of the independent voter and the war on the rackets by which political gangs live. The friends of Judge Smith who know him personally will dismiss scurrility without consideration. But they should do more, not so much in the interest of Judge Smith, as for the principle of decency in government.

"They should take active steps to combat this propaganda and acquaint all their friends with the judge's sterling character and his two-fisted fight through his life on the racket world.

"Judge Smith expects the opposition of Senator Coyne. He welcomes it as plainly drawing the line between the principles of public service as conceived by Judge Smith and Senator Coyne. But we demand that the fight be in the open, and will combat with every legal recourse any resort to villification."

ETNA VOTERS ACT

The Independent Republican organization of Etna has indorsed the candidacies of Judges Frank A. Piekarski and Benjamin Lencher, for County Court, and of Judges Ralph H. Smith and Harry H. Rowand, and Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, for Common Pleas Court.

The Regular Republican organization of Millvale has also indorsed the candidacies of Judges Piekarski, Smith, Rowand and Lencher.

NEGLEY BACKED

Attorney William A. Negley's Juvenile Court candidacy has been indorsed by the Daylight Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star and the Dormont Chapter of the Order of the Star and Crescent.

LINDSAY TELLS HEAVY DUTIES OF JURIST

Urging careful consideration of the qualifications of judicial aspirants, Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for Common Pleas Court, outlined a typical year's work in that court at Carrick High School last night.

The judge would be called on to try over 100 jury cases, and 100 divorce cases, Lindsay said, in addition to miscellaneous cases and passing on motions. He would have to write about 95 opinions, and sit in at hearings and decisions involved in consideration of a general argument list, Lindsay stated, and probably have to serve in Criminal Court.

INDORSE MRS. M'BRIDE

The Swissvale Regular Republican organization has indorsed the candidacy of Mrs. Lois McBride for Juvenile Court, P. J. Green, chairman, announced today.

URGES DIET CAUTION

Expert diet guidance for children in foster homes should be an essential part of the program of the new Juvenile Court, Gustav L. Schramm, candidate for the court, said in two addresses last night.

Ignorance on the part of foster parents has often resulted in undernourishment of the children and consequent ill health, Schramm said. He spoke at Carrick High School and Beltzhoover School.

POLITICIAN NECESSARY

University professors and other theoretical experts on government cannot gain results without the aid of the practical politician, Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans, candidate for Common Pleas Court, declared in an address today.

Evans said he put the politician above the expert, but that both were necessary for the well-being of government.

MUSMANNO BACKED

The candidacy of Judge M. A. Musmanno for Common Pleas Court has been indorsed by the Allegheny committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, E. C. Stewart, secretary, announced today.

MACKRELL INDORSED

The Point Breeze Mackrell-for-Mayor organization unanimously indorsed Joseph N. Mackrell's candidacy on the Progressive Republican ticket, at the home of Mrs. Fannie B. Harnack, North Linden avenue, last night. A. W. Lloyd presided.

Kane Charges 'Campaign of Lies' to Henry

John M. Henry, Democratic candidate for mayor, is conducting a campaign of "lies and innuendoes," Representative John J. Kane, candidate for Council, told a meeting at Columbus School, Irwin avenue, last night.

Kane, running on the Democratic ticket headed by William N. McNair for mayor, also charged Henry with stealing his platform from McNair's speeches. He said:

"Henry has been repudiated by friends of the President for the part he played in the 'Stop Roosevelt' drive.

"He has been repudiated by the United American Veterans' Association. In the near future, organized labor will meet to settle with this shifty person.

"A few days ago he was boasting of his political wetness. But he bolted John M. Hemphill, wet Democratic candidate for Governor in the last election, supporting dry Pinchot.

WARNS DEMOCRATS

Congressman J. Twing Brooks warned voters to beware of "so-called Democrats not on the McNair Roosevelt Democratic ticket" at a meeting in Columbus School last night. He said:

"I wish to remind you assembled Democrats that the best way to insure the bringing of the Roosevelt New Deal into Pittsburgh is to carry on the fight of William N. McNair, candidate for mayor, and his ticket."

MEETINGS LISTED IN PRIMARY BATTLE

Democratic candidates on the ticket headed by William N. McNair, for mayor, will address six meetings tonight.

McNair, John M. Huston, for council; James L. O'Toole, Jr., for County Court, and Thomas A. Dougherty, for jury commissioner, will speak in Hazelwood School, Second avenue.

McNair, John J. Kane, for council; Dean A. Marshall Thompson, of the Pitt law school, for Common Pleas Court; John Heinz, for sheriff, and Vincent L. Marino, for coroner, will speak in Mifflin School, Ellwell street.

Representative Thomas J. Gallagher, Walter R. Demmler, Kane and Huston, for council, and Andrew G. Smith, for Common Pleas Court, will appear at Snodgrass School, Sweetbriar street, Duquesne Heights.

Demmler, Huston, and Kane, and Austin L. Staley, for County Court, will speak at the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, Forbes street, Squirrel Hill.

O'Toole, Dougherty, Marino, and William S. Cooper, for director of the poor, will address a meeting at Braddock Township School, Braddock Park.

Demmler and George E. Evans, for Council, and Staley will speak at Rochelle School, Knoxville.

They will also speak at Spring Garden School, Spring Garden avenue; Lockhart School, Lockhart street, and Clayton School, Clayton avenue.

P. J. McArdle, Independent Republican candidate for mayor, and the councilmanic candidates on his ticket will carry their fight into the Fourth Ward, when they speak tonight at Frick Training School, Fifth avenue and Boquet street.

They will also speak at Shakespeare School, Aurelia street, and Carrick High School, Parkfield street. The meetings open at 8:30.

The Regular Republican party has announced the following revised list of meetings for today:

Twenty-second Ward, Allegheny High School; Twenty-fifth Ward, Columbus School; Eleventh Ward, Traffic Court; First Ward, Monongahela House, Margaret Brent Civic League; Fourth Ward, Republican Women's Organization, Hotel Schenley, at 12:30; noonday meeting at Hotel Henry, W. Y. English, speaker.

Attorney William G. Negley, candidate for Juvenile Court, will speak tonight in Rumanian Hall, West Homestead, and on the Roosevelt Civic Club boat excursion.

Van A. Barrickman, Democratic candidate for Common Pleas Court, will speak at St. Wendelin's Church, Carrick, tonight. A schedule of his speaking program follows: September 1, Blythesdale; September 2, East Elizabeth, Kennywood Park and Ex-Service Men's League at McKeesport; September 4, addresses United Mine Workers at West View Park; September 5, Larimer School; September 6, Arsenal High School; September 7, Baxter High School; September 8, Friendship School.

Judge M. A. Musmanno, Common Pleas Court candidate, was to speak today at veterans' meetings in the Eighth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth wards, and at Franklin School, Wilkins Township, and the Mt. Rise Baptist Church.

Attorney Raymond D. Evans, seeking election to Common Pleas Court, was to speak today at the Nazarene Baptist Church, Tioga and Dunfirmlene streets; Lawn Township Civic Association; the outing of Lost Comrades Post No. 1768, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Turtle Creek, and a picnic of the Amerita Club at Eddie Ray's farm.

Mrs. McBride, Juvenile Court candidate, speaks at noon today at McArdle headquarters; at the Munhall Protective Association, Munhall, at 4 p. m.; Perry High School, Perrysville avenue, at 8 p. m., and in the Sewickley High School.

SOCIETY WOMEN DELIGHTED WITH ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS TREATMENT....NO THYROID, NO LAXATIVE SALTS..NO DIET

LYNN FRANCIS

Famous for her acting in "Passing Present" writes:

"I want to acknowledge my gratitude to you for the help I have received from Vannay reducing tablets. I have taken them daily for three months, and I have lost in weight and especially in measurements. I only needed to lose ten pounds, which I did within the first nine weeks. But where Vannay helped me most was in losing several inches off my thighs—and an inch and a half off my hips.

"I have tried thyroid, exercise, and heavy massages unsuccessfully—as well as strenuous dieting. So I can recommend Vannay tablets wholeheartedly. They are the only means of reducing that I have found successful as well as harmless; in fact, since I have been taking Vannay, I have felt infinitely more alive."

A NATIONALLY known writer has lost 53 pounds of fat in three months, a prominent doctor's wife lost 14 pounds in 30 days. Many prominent society women are reducing easily and safely by the scientific Vannay treatment.

Vannay is an absolutely harmless tablet that contains no Thyroid extract, Iodine or laxative drugs of any kind. It was developed by a great physician who has specialized in research with the Pasteur Institute of Paris and famous clinics of America.

Now it is absurd for anyone to take dangerous drugs, or a daily dose of laxative salts that rushes food through the body half digested, and leads to chronic constipation. Vannay is a safe, natural regulator of the digestive ferments (Lipases) which control the production of fat in all human bodies.

You don't have to starve yourself or go through painful exercises. You simply take the tablets each day and continue to eat three hearty meals. The fat disappears at just the places where you want to lose it.

Start the treatment at once and all your fondest dreams of health and slim loveliness should come true.

The BIG SWING IS TOWARD GAS HEAT

Present low gas rates make possible substantial savings in the cost of Automatic Gas Heat.

Extra cleanliness all through the house, and an extra room in the basement—with Automatic Gas Heat.

Automatic Gas Heat brings extra comfort, extra convenience and complete freedom from all furnace-tending drudgery.

New thousands are planning to heat their homes this year with Gas—the modern fuel that everyone wants because of its cleanliness, convenience and healthfulness

The pronounced trend toward Automatic Gas Heat in this territory is being greatly stimulated this year by reason of the low gas rates now in effect—rates which bring the cost of Automatic Gas Heat down to a point where it is little if any higher than heating with old-fashioned bulky fuels.

Those who have always wanted Gas Heat (and everyone wants gas heat who knows the comfort, convenience and cleanliness of it) find that at current low gas rates they need no longer deny themselves the many advantages it brings. That's the reason so many are turning to Gas Heat this year—that's the reason 1933 is destined to be a big Gas Heating Year.

Find out how inexpensively you can heat your home this modern way. Ask your Gas Company or heating contractor for a check-up of your heating plant and for an accurate estimate of the cost of Automatic Gas Heat. It's FREE.

Send in the coupon. Do it now.

Then plan to spend this winter in complete comfort, free from all the dirt and dust and bother and fuss of furnace tending.

FREE OFFER

Your Gas Company will give you, free of charge, an accurate estimate of the cost of Automatic Gas Heat for your home. Send the coupon today.

You can enjoy Automatic Gas Heat with a Gas Boiler or Furnace, or by changing your present heating plant over to Gas with a Conversion Burner.

See the interesting Natural Gas Exhibit at the County Fair. Building No. 3, South Park

Your Gas Company will be glad to supply you or your heating contractor — without cost — with reliable engineering data on your present or contemplated gas heating installation.

SWEEPING AUDIT OF POOR BOARD ADVOCATED

A wholesale audit of the books of the Poor Board "to uproot irregularities of the past" was advocated by William S. Cooper, Democratic candidate for the board, in an address at Clairton High School last night.

Cooper discussed alleged mismanagement in the administration of the board since 1931. The directors, he said, had built a pig pen at a cost of $70,000, estimated by a court-appointed committee of attorneys as an excess expenditure of $50,000.

THANKS VETERANS

Joseph M. Stack, Progressive Republican candidate for Council and junior vice commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Pennsylvania division, thanked the United American Veterans' Association for its indorsement in an address at Overbrook School last night.

He congratulated the veterans on their indorsement of Joseph N. Mackrell, Progressive Republican candidate for mayor, and assured them Mackrell would carry out the clauses in his platform regarding ex-service men.

PLEDGES BALLOT CARE

Promising a business administration, with special attention to the guarding of ballot boxes, Robert K. Cochrane, Progressive Republican candidate for sheriff, addressed the Rotary Club of Swissvale last night.

Cochrane, county commander of the American Legion, thanked the United American Veterans' Association for its indorsement.

"WATCHDOG" NEED SEEN

Stating that he had begun the fight to give the people new representation on the county board of poor directors in 1931, Bernard L. Flynn, candidate for the board spoke in Homestead and McKeesport last night.

Pointing to the court order that $40,000 be repaid to the county, Flynn said a "watchdog" was needed on the board.

PLEA TO INDEPENDENTS

Vincent C. Neeson, independent candidate for jury commissioner, asked a large independent vote to offset the organization vote in controlled districts last night. He spoke in Homestead, McKeesport and North Side.

SEES JURY BOARD POST

Promising a non-partisan, efficient administration of the office, J. J. Watkins is campaigning for jury commissioner on a platform of cleaner politics. Watkins is a resident of the Twentieth Ward and is engaged in the printing business.

'Soup and Fish' Renters Decide To Get Code

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The dress suit renting industry has decided to get itself a code. As Lou J. Harris, once a prosperous soup-and-fish renter, phrased it:

"It can't do us any harm."

"Take this last fiscal year. My average weeks have been pathetic, terrible, if you know what I mean. Oh, my, oh, my, what a fiscal year! For weddings we used to get the guy that got married, the guy that gave the bride, the best man, ushers—all of 'em. Now we're lucky if we get the bridegroom."

BRITISH GUEST HAILS TRADE GAIN HERE

The upturn of business and trade in the United States, especially in the Pittsburgh district, is gratifying to Sir Harold Hartley, British railroad executive, he declared in an address at a luncheon in the Duquesne Club yesterday. He was guest of honor at the luncheon, given by C. F. Deasy, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Sir Harold is in the United States studying industrial research and railroad operating practices. He said in part:

"I consider it a testimony to the importance and strength of your industries that the territory of which Pittsburgh is the center has led the United States in the first step toward improved conditions. We are enjoying a similar turn for the better in England, although on a smaller scale than here. We are all hopeful about the future.

"Pittsburgh is unique among the cities of the world in possessing two such outstanding research institutions as the Mellon Institute and Carnegie Institute of Technology. The Mellon Institute stands as a monument to one of your great Secretaries of the Treasury, a great Ambassador, and citizen of Pittsburgh.

"In England we think highly of Mr. Mellon and he stayed with us only too short a time. We want more like him. Whenever Pittsburgh and the scientific activities and interests of your city are mentioned in my country, the name of Mellon is inseparably associated therewith."

As chairman of the National Fuel Research Board of Great Britain, Sir Harold commended especially the constructive work done by the coal research laboratories at the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

NRA CODES SEND 15,000 BACK TO SCHOOL

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—National Recovery Act codes, which are turning from 15,000 to 20,000 boys and girls from factories and mills to the state's public schools, have achieved in several months what a century of legislative effort failed to do.

This group of children, from 14 to 16, goes into the full-time schools just 100 years after the first child labor legislation was submitted to a Pennsylvania General Assembly.

While NRA codes extend the eight-hour day to all workers in industry and give local educators the task of absorbing the 14-to-16-year-old group in the schools this year, the Pinchot administration is preparing to preserve this gain. Both Gov. and Mrs. Pinchot are militantly against child labor as is Miss Charlotte E. Carr, Secretary of Labor and Industry.

ASSEMBLY TO ACT

Indications are increasing that the subject is one which the next special session of the Legislature will be asked to consider. The Department of Public Instruction is stressing the desirability of keeping in school all children under 16.

Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent, announcing himself "squarely on record" in favor of the NRA ban against employing boys and girls under 16, said:

"This point of view should be embodied in our state law at the earliest opportunity."

Meanwhile representatives of both the Public Instruction and the Labor and Industry departments are holding district conferences with school directors and outlining suggested plans for fitting the young factory and mill workers into regular courses of study.

MOSTLY IN EAST

Most of the 15,000 boys and girls affected are in the industrial communities of Eastern Pennsylvania, where they must be taken into the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth grades.

Most of the 15,000 boys and girls, Dr. Rule says, "are of the type who no longer desire to go to school." They will require special guidance and supervision.

In view of this, the department is urging school and shop courses which will serve the former industrial workers and will attract them to remain in school voluntarily after they reach the compulsory age limit of 16.

PENNA. ORDERS MILK PROBE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—With a state investigation of the relative profits of milk producers and distributors ordered by Gov. Pinchot, dairymen are making last-minute preparations for the re-hearing on the protested Philadelphia milk-shed code here tomorrow.

Producers from several sections of the state formed the milk code protest committee last night in a move to strengthen their position by co-ordinating the efforts of farm organizations and individuals.

At York, the farmers' organization of York County delegates full authority to a committee to protest the milk-marketing agreement which went into effect last Friday. Approximately 1,500 producers pledged it full support "even if a state-wide strike ensues."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Secretary Wallace last night called upon a Chicago dairy to show why its license to operate should not be revoked for selling milk below the prices fixed in the milk trade agreement for that area.

His order cited the Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc., as having sold milk since the agreement went into effect August 1, at prices below the fixed schedule.

STORE GROUPS ON BOAT RIDE

Employes of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company and their guests held a moonlight excursion last night aboard the steamer Washington.

In addition to the dancing, with music by Hardesty's Californians, a feature of the outing was the awarding of two electric clocks by the Kroger company.

Two New Detours On Lincoln Route

Two new detours on the Lincoln Highway, on improved roads around bridges under repair near Arendtsville and Bendersville, have been announced by the Department of Highways.

In Westmoreland County, oiling is under way on Route 66 between Apollo and North Washington, and on Route 356 between Freeport and Weinals Crossroads.

KENTUCKY MOB FLOGS ROBBER

SMITHLAND, Ky., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A report of the flogging of Louis Skinner, prisoner who was forcibly removed from jail, was on its way to Gov. Ruby Laffoon today, dispatched by Judge Charles H. Wilson after an investigation.

Jailer James Martin said he was awakened late Tuesday night by a large crowd of masked men, who demanded he unlock the jail. The jailer said he refused, and was choked by the men who took away his keys.

Judge Wilson said Gov. Laffoon would be required by law to suspend Martin, and that the jailer would then have 10 days in which to file for reinstatement.

Skinner said the mob whipped him and tried to force him to reveal the identity of his companion in the robbery of Murray Rummage, farmer. Skinner said the men tied a rope around his neck and suspended him from a tree. He was released before being seriously hurt and returned to jail.

The prisoner said the men threatened to come and get him again and kill him if he would not talk. Skinner and another prisoner, Hubert Taylor, also charged with robbery, were removed to the Paducah Jail last night for safe keeping.

DOUBLE MOTIVE IN MURDERS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Gang vengeance and an opium smuggling plot were advanced by police today as a double motive for the assassination of Harry Mackley and Frank Keller, former New York and St. Louis hoodlums.

Warrants were issued for the arrest on murder charges of Morris Solivinsky, Jack Weinstein, Charles Sherman and Jimmy Collins.

The four men sought were identified by police as members of a gang headed by the late Morris Moll, or Morris Marks, slain last June in New York. Mackley and Keller were believed to have been involved in the killing, police said, adding they also had been involved in a narcotics smuggling plot.

Detectives said the killing of Mackley and Keller last Monday was apparently in revenge for the execution of Moll and also resulted from their efforts to enter the narcotic traffic.

Homeless Stabbing Victim Near Death

Airplane Carrying 3 Feared Lost at Sea

MEXICO, D. F., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The airplane in which Mack R. Ayres, of Los Angeles, was flying two passengers and about $5,000 for a road workers' payroll from Mazatlan to La Paz, Lower California, today was believed lost at sea.

No reports of them have been received since Tuesday morning, although a widespread search was conducted.

GIRLS' TEAMS LEAD TO RIOT

READING, Pa., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Two sets of baseball teams showed up at a municipal playground diamond, but the only "score" read: "One crushed skull, one arrest and one error."

The trouble started yesterday after someone in the city recreation department issued permits for two games.

Two girls' teams showed up first and started playing. Then the boys' nines arrived.

Oliver Landis' skull was crushed, presumably with a bat; George Klemmerer, 25, was arrested and charged with assault, and—the error was charged by the participants to the recreation department.

GUARD RETURN OF CAMPERS

BRADFORD, N. H., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Ninety girls and 16 counsellors from an exclusive camp in North Sutton entrained here yesterday under heavy guard for their Philadelphia homes.

Three weeks ago one of the campers, Betty Downes, 15-year-old daughter of James R. Downes, Pennsylvania Railroad official, was threatened with kidnaping, and the camp, on the shores of Lake Kezar, was overrun with National Guardsmen, police and private detectives. A guard was maintained until today, when the girls prepared to return home.

DICK LEIBERT SPOILS WEDDING

By AIRCASTER

Fan letter from Mentor, O., to Dick Leibert, Radio City organist:

"Dear Sir: You did not answer my telegram requesting you to play the Wedding March from Lohengrin on August 23. Maybe you did not know that your failure to do so caused my boy friend and I to postpone our wedding. Please telegraph when you can do this so that we can get married according to our original plans."

McCarthy Grabbed

The publicity releases emanating this week from the National Broadcasting Company offices cheerfully tell of the plans for having Clem McCarthy, sports oracle, broadcast his own inimitable description of the Hopeful Stakes and the Saratoga Cup turf classics.

Unfortunately for the networks, the oracular Mr. McCartney will do neither. Clem, as will be officially announced tomorrow, has been grabbed off by the new directorate of WMCA. He thus becomes exclusively the ace sports commentator for that outlet, with a nightly period in which he will air his views on all phases of sports activity. Clem contibutes a bit of radio history by becoming the first famous radio artist to be employed by the Federal Broadcasting Company, whose Jock Whitney is a very close pal of McCarthy.

Artist Roundup

A roundup of famous artists of the air, to be heard in six consecutive broadcasts, to sing the praises of an automobile, is announced by CBS to begin September 23, and run across the nightly chart at 9:15 for 15 minutes. The first broadcast will feature Bing Crosby, the second Ethel Barrymore, and the third, Morton Downey.

Willie and Eugene Howard will be heard on the fourth, and Ruth Etting, Raymond Paige's orchestra, on the coast, and Jacques Renard's music, in New York, will make up the fifth. On the sixth show, which will consume a full hour, all the foregoing talent will be combined.

Reisman for Grofe?

The cigaret firm employing the Ferde Grofe orchestra has signed a nine-week renewal with NBC effective October 4, and will retain the same personnel with the exception, the reports have it, of the Grofe band. The new contract, it is said, will bring Leo Reisman's orchestra back into the picture.

* * *

That sauve gent, Alexander Woollcott, is coming back to the air. He renews acquaintance with the radio audience in his old familiar role of "The Town Crier" at Columbia September 13, and thereafter will be heard Wednesday and Friday nights.

Christy Walsh and the all-American football series, which last season lent no little impetus to the interest in gridiron activity, likewise returns to the air via CBS for a series of weekly presentations on September 22.

'American' Drama Of Gangster in Love on Radio

"A Kiss in the Moonlight," drama of a gangster in love, is heard on six nearby radio stations today and tomorrow.

Joe Kelly, notorious racketeer, abandons his treacherous trade to marry a winsome girl. The two live happily for a time, but a gangster's fate intervenes.

Friday—WFBG, Altoona, 3 p. m.

Friday—WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WKNB, Youngstown, 4 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, 5 p. m., and WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

If any have doubts of the efficacy of the NRA, be convinced by Vincent Pessolano, New Kensington. He was out of work three years and now he's got a job. From now on NRA has a dual meaning. He says for him it's also "No Republican again."

* * *

Never knew there were so many poetry students among the globe-trotters. Four more versions of "Midnight on the Ocean" arrived today. No two alike. Let's thank Mrs. Wilbur Stevens, Anthony Sarotta, Edith Wellings and Mrs. C. W. Kibler. Do you like this line?

"And everything that one could see
Was hidden out of sight."

* * *

Now will you old-time Carnegie residents think way back when your borough was called Rich Valley. That was before it was called Mansfield Valley. Mrs. Lydia B. Aspinal, Rosslyn Heights, has a memento from her grandmother's brother. He brought it home from his sailoring job on the first steamboat to ply the Monongahela River. When was that? Have any of you early settler or rivermen ever heard your fathers talk about it?

* * *

Mrs. D. C. Thompson, Ingram. No truth in the rumor that the County Fair will not be open this evening. The Fair won't close possibly until 11 each night, certainly open till 10.

Some of your friends might have complimentary tickets but everythings free anyway.

The commissioners have authorized the statement, "There can be no deviation or misunderstanding by anyone as to money. The fair is free in every way. This includes parking space."

J. C., Tarentum. A complete program of the events and exhibits can be had from the County Commissioners office.

Mrs. S. A. Buchanan. Afraid that you were too late to enter your exhibit.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Two diversified early evening programs are those of the Banjonians—six banjos and a piano—and the songs of Patsy Shannon.

Dr. Springer promises some more verbal fireworks during his 7:15 forum.

FAIR TO CLOSE OCTOBER 31

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A Century of Progress exposition will close definitely October 31, President Rufus C. Dawes said today despite requests from all sections of the country that it be continued next year. Dawes said:

"It will be impossible for us to hold the fair over.

"We have obligations to our bondholders and to the institutions which have been promised shares in the fair's surplus that cannot be risked."

Dawes revealed that he had received in recent weeks as many as a dozen letters a day urging that the fair be continued. They come from industrialists, societies and individuals.

Georgia Governor Wins Roads Fight

BUCHANAN, Ga., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A civil jury held yesterday that Georgia's new highway board, born of a martial law regime, is legal.

It upheld the contention of the state that Capt. J. W. Barnett, ousted by Gov. George Eugene Talmadge as chairman of the highway board, had abandoned his office. It established a precedent in Georgia and gave Talmadge another victory in the courts.

11 O'Clock Daily—Second Floor

FRANK & SEDER

Full Speed Ahead!

• The New Deal *is here! It's not a matter of talk, ballyhoo or legislation . . . It's no longer a guess or a hunch . . . It's here! . . . A thousand commercial statistics give you the incontestable facts . . . It's time for Full Speed Ahead!

• The country, almost to a man, has united under the slogan: "We Do Our Part" . . . There is a fever of activity in workshops, factories and offices . . . Employers have stopped firing, and begun hiring . . . The codes have put hundreds of thousands back on the job . . . Thousands of others have received raises-in-pay . . . The slogan everywhere is Full Speed Ahead!

• The job facing business today is the moving of commodities from manufacturer to consumer . . . Purchase by the consumer is the last vital step in the cycle of distribution . . . Giving the consumer the MEANS to buy was the purpose of the Blue Eagle . . . Giving the consumer the CONFIDENCE to buy . . . the URGE to buy is the purpose of FRANK & SEDER.

• Beginning tomorrow, Friday, we launch a month-long selling event, destined perhaps to be our most important contribution to the economic welfare of this community. . . Important first, because it will give impetus to the Recovery Program . . . and secondly, because it will be the means of saving thousands of dollars for the families of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania.

• Our store and warehouses are filled to overflowing with staple merchandise for Fall and Winter, bought months ago, at the market's lowest levels, to be offered during this event at prices that may be impossible to duplicate later on . . . and in spite of constantly advancing markets, we will feature special purchases of new, fashion-right, quality-right apparel and home-furnishings at consistently lower prices.

• "Where do we go from here", you ask . . . and the emphatic answer is AHEAD! The Recovery drive has been successfully launched . . . but the test of its final success is up to YOU . . . There are many things you need now, and will need in the Fall . . . We ask you to BUY NOW . . . not only to help sustain the flight of the Blue Eagle, but because you'll reap the benefit of savings before prices advance further.

• The old order has gone! The tide has turned!

• FULL SPEED AHEAD!

Electric Power--Greatest of All Rackets

$5,000,000 Annual Toll Exacted From Pittsburgh's Electric Power-Users by Foreign Utility Barons

Pittsburgh's Underworld Kings, Like Al Capone, Pikers as "Collectors" From Old Mr. John Q. Public

By WILLIAM N. McNAIR
Roosevelt Democratic Candidate for Mayor of Pittsburgh

ROBBERY by violence—robbery at the point of a gun—is always more spectacular than robbery by falsification of bank or corporate records.

Gangs shooting their way to strong-boxes create more headlines than the stories of millions of dollars obtained by fraud or trick.

And that is why the name of Al Capone stands out in the memory of most people more vividly than that of his fellow-citizen and fellow-crook—Samuel Insull.

And for some psychological reason, which I will not undertake to explore at this time, John Q. Public in the past has always taken for granted robbery by such utility racketeers as Samuel Insull while keenly resenting and opposing the violent and spectacular methods of the Capones whose loot by comparison is trifling.

Chicago didn't have to buy bootleg liquor and beer and dope from Capone. Chicago wanted to.

The people of Chicago did not have to buy worthless stocks and bonds issued by the scores of Insull subsidiaries—but they did that very thing because Insull had cloaked himself with an atmosphere of respectability and a halo of righteousness and the people of Chicago, not knowing the truth—being unaware of the false-work structure that their idol had built—bought his securities by the hundreds of millions.

To the lesser degree the story of Chicago is the story of almost every American community.

Pittsburgh had and has her Capones—racketeers in crime and vice who wrest tribute through violence and fear.

Every so often, the front pages of Pittsburgh newspapers are featured by headlines devoted to the story of banditry. Public sentiment on more than one occasion has been aroused by tales of swift and anonymous death and by the publication from time to time of bits of evidence which gave some indication of the profits that were being amassed by extortion and gun.

Loot In Two 'Sizes'

Pittsburgh, too, had her counterpart of Chicago's Big Six, formed for the purpose of ridding this city of the local Capones, the slot machine and numbers' kings and others engaged in levying tribute from patrons of the underworld.

Chicago's Big Six during its campaign "to get" Capone never mentioned the name of Insull, who then was filching hundreds of millions of dollars from men and women in all walks of Chicago's life while Capone was collecting his hundreds of thousands.

Pittsburgh's Big Six likewise failed to mention the loot of the utility racketeers while it was creating headlines with tales of petty tribute garnered by our local lords of the underworld.

Those who know what takes place in Pittsburgh's demi-monde know that the total of the combined underworld rackets of Pittsburgh would be but a few hundred thousand dollars.

Excess profits collected by the Duquesne Light Company in one recent three-year period alone amounted to $15,881,400, or at the rate of more than $5,000,000 a year.

These are not the figures of guessers, not the calculations of denouncing politicians out "to get" the Duquesne Light Company or any of the other New York and Chicago-controlled local subsidiaries.

These figures were put out this year over the signatures of friends as good as the Duquesne Light Company ever had on the floor of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Read the quotation below from the report of the state senate committee investigating the charges made at the special session of the legislature last year. This was a committee packed with such friends of the utilities as Senators James J. Coyne of Pittsburgh, William S. Rial of Greensburg and other Republican organization leaders. Here is what they said over their own signatures:

"The testimony reveals that the Duquesne Light Company, despite the ruling of the Public Service Commission that a seven per centum return was reasonable, has for years charged sufficiently high rates to enable it to earn and pay dividends since 1923 of about 14 per cent annually.

"This was despite the fact that in 1927 the property of the Duquesne Light Company was reappraised and its book value written up a total of over $24,000,000, against which there was written a reserve of about $9,000,000, making the net write-up over $14,000,000.

"This reappraisal was made after the Byllesby interests became the dominating factor in the subsidiaries of the Philadelphia Company and after the Byllesby interests assumed, in part at least, managerial supervision of these subsidiaries.

"The domination resulted in managerial contracts being made by the subsidiary companies of the Philadelphia Company with the Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation, as a result of which the subsidiaries have paid out to the Byllesby company management and engineering fees running into millions of dollars.

"The fees paid to the Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation were paid under contracts which required the subsidiary companies to pay for management at the rate of two per centum of the gross revenue, excluding intercorporate transactions.

"Your committee does not question the right of a utility to place upon its books the real value of its property, but the testimony before your committee showed that in such appraisals there were included 'intangibles,' so-called.

"An intangible of special interest is 'going concern value,' which as claimed by the Duquesne Light Company in its annual report, approximated $10,000,000.

"Counsel for Utilities contends that management contracts for the fees paid thereunder are BEYOND THE JURISDICTION OF THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION UNDER THE PRESENT LAW.

"The abuses disclosed in the testimony before your Committee demonstrate the urgent need for corrective legislation."

This is a verbatim extract from the report signed by State Senators James J. Coyne, William S. Rial and other friends of Pittsburgh's utilities.

Even THEY could not hide the facts. They had to admit them and place them in the record.

The subsidiaries of the Philadelphia Company referred to in the report as being compelled to pay exorbitant managerial supervision fees to the Byllesby Corporation are the Duquesne Light Company, the Pittsburgh Railways Company, the Equitable Gas Company, the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, and other affiliated companies.

Wouldn't you think that a Republican candidate for mayor and a Republican candidate for council now seeking election and re-election, in the face of figures admitted by Senator James J. Coyne and proving that the utility corporations are filching millions of dollars from the pocketbooks of Pittsburgh gas, light, power, transportation and bus users would consider that of sufficient importance at least to mention it in their campaign platforms and speeches?

Volumes of other startling facts were forced into the record of that Senate investigating committee, proving the existence of a gigantic racket operated by the Pittsburgh utilities trust through servile, fearful and grateful lawmakers and showing gifts to such men as William D. Ainey, chairman of the Public Service Commission.

Almost everyone is familiar with the facts in the Ainey case. First there were presented to the Senate committee facsimile copies of hospital bills incurred by Ainey at Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore in the amount of more than $3,000, which bills were paid by the late Arthur W. Thompson, head of the utilities trust in Pittsburgh.

The committee heard testimony concerning a visit of Ainey to Thompson's office and of how Thompson went into the room where Ainey was seated after cashing a voucher for a large sum of money.

There was evidence concerning gifts of huge sums of money to Ainey from Mitten, head of the utilities trust in Philadelphia, and of a trip in royal style to Europe, financed by the Quaker City corporations.

Judge Ainey, the Public Service Commissioner whose long hospitalization at Baltimore wasn't any expense to him.

Arthur W. Thompson, who as a Pittsburgh utility chieftain, received and paid Judge Ainey's Baltimore hospital bills.

A copy of the Johns Hopkins Hospital record of the charge made for Mr. Ainey's hospital care. It tells its own story.

The committee attorney, O. K. Eaton of Pittsburgh, charged that another member of the commission, James S. Benn of Philadelphia, deposited $888,000 in his bank accounts during his 11 years on the Public Service Commission.

Benn as well as another commissioner, S. Ray Shelby of Uniontown, went to court to prevent examinations of their bank deposits.

The committee also received evidence showing:

That the Duquesne Light Company's excess profits in four years were nearly $23,000,000.

That it valued its property at $152,000,000 for rate-making purposes while at only $112,000,000 for state-taxing purposes.

All kinds of candidates are at the present moment engaged in going from one end of Pittsburgh and Allegheny county to the other, denouncing vice and underworld graft.

Why is it that none but candidates on the Democratic ticket make mention of the utilities graft?

Isn't it significant that no man seeking a Republican nomination for office has raised his voice in protest against the huge toll being taken from the people of Pittsburgh by the subsidiaries of the Philadelphia Company, controlled by Messrs. Moritz Rosenthal and Victor Emanuel of New York, W. L. Mellon of Pittsburgh, and John J. O'Brien of Chicago?

The reason for this impressive silence is not hard to find. It is because these utility magnates, in addition to being the fiscal agents of Pittsburgh's light, heat, power, gas and transportation companies, are also the fiscal agents for the Republican party in Pittsburgh, Allegheny county and in the State of Pennsylvania.

When election time rolls around utility barons are always counted on to furnish much of the money to finance the campaigns of Republican candidates for mayor, council, judges, governors and for members of the Pennsylvania legislature.

That is the reason for the deadly silence about the millions of dollars that are being filched annually from Pittsburghers.

And that is the reason why, if you want to help break this damnable monopoly levied on every man and woman living in this community, you must turn to the only agency that can become a medium of relief. That medium is the Democratic party.

The evidence is conclusive that the Republican party has been taken over almost one hundred per cent by the utility racketeers. The Republican party is not the party of the people but the party of Mellon, Rosenthal, Emanuel, O'Brien, et al.

Relief In The Ballot

On September 7, 12 and 16 you will have an opportunity to take the first step toward ousting these financial pirates. On any one of these days you can change your registration from Republican to Democratic and thereby make yourself eligible to vote for the choice of Roosevelt Democrats for the various city and county offices at the primary on September 19.

Every person on this ticket is pledged to a war of extermination against utility racketeering. If you are one of the victims of the utility racketeers, by affiliating yourself with the Democratic party you can by your vote help drive them out of control of the government of the City of Pittsburgh, the County of Allegheny and the State of Pennsylvania.

With this in mind, the common sense policy is to change parties. That's what the people of the United States did last year in electing President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The Roosevelt Democratic candidates are:

U. S. PROVIDES RIVER PROJECT FUNDS HERE

Appropriations for locks and dams at three points near Pittsburgh have been turned over by the Public Works Administration to the United States War Department, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington.

The money is a part of $70,000,000 to be used in 90 river and harbor projects in all parts of the nation.

Money is provided for a new lock and dam at Montgomery Island, Ohio River, for which a contract has not been let. Money is also made available to continue the construction of Allegheny River dams Nos. two and three, near Aspinwall and Oakmont, respectively.

Work has been going on for some time on the two later projects. An appropriation is also made for miscellaneous work in widening and straightening the nine-foot channel.

A series of high loft locks and dams on the Kanawha River is included among the projects approved. United States engineers here say the action gives definite form to a program of improvements already started here.

WADDELL RAPS FUND USE

Terming P. J. McArdle "an independent and courageous citizen," at a meeting in the Independent Republican headquarters, William Penn Hotel, Robert N. Waddell, councilmanic candidate, today said the present city administration is carrying out the policy of the Kline administration and is using relief funds for campaign purposes. He said:

"The majority of members of City Council have transferred $300,000 of the bond issue of 1932 to a proposed scheme to relieve the unemployed. This $300,000 is a campaign fund and is used for that by the administration.

"Ward chairmen in every instance when an unemployed man or woman has been placed on the payrolls have the full say. The first appointment under this fund was Justus Schrodel, chairman of the Twenty-fourth Ward."

Lois D. McBride, candidate for Juvenile Court Judge, also addressed the meeting. She termed the existing conditions in the Juvenile Court to a system "which allowed our children's court to become a sort of step-child of the County Court."

FLOOD SERVICE BILLS HELD UP

Bills amounting to $406.50, presented to the County Commissioners for payment by the Pittsburgh Flood Comm' 'n, were tabled by the Commissioners until further explanation is made of some items of expense.

One bill presented in behalf of W. T. Mossman, amounting to $250 for special service, was held up pending explanation on the special service.

The bill of Wilmer M. Jacoby for $45.95 was held up until Mr. Jacoby presents a receipt for Pullman service and explains a $16 expenditure listed as "other expenses." The Commissioners approved a $60 bill for F. W. Lyon for engineering service and two bills for F. I. Livingston, amounting to $50.55, for clerical services and office expense.

LOW POSTAL PAY CHARGE DENIED

Records of the United States Postoffice today showed that substitute clerks and carriers receive 53 cents per hour after all deductions, although some of the workers have gotten little time.

The Pittsburgh Labor Council, through P. J. McGrath, secretary, recently charged that the substitutes were getting starvation wages, as low as 43 cents per day over a three-week period.

Records of the postoffice from August 1 to 15 showed the substitute clerks averaged $36.02 for the period, and substitute carriers, $24.39. The extra employes who report regularly naturally get the most work, postoffice officials said.

Increased work for the substitutes is expected as a result of the action of the new postmaster, William M. Turner, in restoring vacations and the retirement of a number of veteran carriers.

2 'Blind Baggage' Tourists Fined For Complaint

It's almost unbelievable the indignities Robert O'Neal, 24, of Steubenville, and Thomas Lane, 25, of Detroit, had to submit to early today on their trip from Newark, O.

There they were asleep in a Pullman car on the Pennsylvania Railroad and nobody wakened them till they reached Pittsburgh. And Steubenville was their stop.

So they raised the dickens with the train crew, it seems.

But in Central Police Court today they were fined $10, with an option on 20 days. They were, it was testified, "blind baggage."

EXPECT THRONG AT OUTING

With thousands expected, a special detail of state police from the Greensburg barracks will aid in directing traffic at the Roosevelt Day picnic, Kennywood Park Saturday, David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, has announced.

Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor will come from Washington for the occasion to address Pittsburghers gathered to pay their respects to the President and the "new deal." O'Connor will touch on closed and restricted national banks under his control.

Mrs. J. Wood Clark, vice chairman of the county committee, will be in charge.

HAY FEVER Sufferers Find Great Relief

"PITTSBURG"-FRIGIDAIRE AIR CONDITIONING

In the vast majority of cases, those who suffer from hay-fever or pollen asthma find relief in air-conditioned rooms. Dr. Isabel Beck, in Medical Journal and Record of August 3rd, 1932, reports the result of an investigation. 54 patients were included, ranging in age from 4 to 65 years. In 29 cases hay-fever was uncomplicated. In 25 cases it was complicated by pollen asthma. Filtered atmosphere relieved 83.4% of the hay-fever sufferers and 84% of the pollen asthma sufferers in varying degrees.

Come to 110 Jenkins Arcade and Find Out What Relief You May Have

It is unnecessary to remind the hay-fever or the pollen asthma victim of the misery he or she suffers. Nor is it necessary to enlarge upon the value of any relief that can be offered. Possibly an air-conditioned atmosphere will give you no relief; but the chances are greater that it may. Find out for yourself by visiting our office where a complete installation is in operation. Both "Pittsburg" and Frigidaire back this equipment with their national reputations. You will not be obligated by your visit.

Wives Should Try to Keep Their Individuality

Why will a man admire—in some other woman—things that he "won't stand for" in his wife?

That's what Leonie would like to know.

For years now she has minded what the Big Boy said. She agreed meekly when he decided no beauty shop was going to get any of his money. She went around in mousy clothes, because he snorted at the idea of classy ones. And—

But we'll let her paint the picture. When you've looked it over maybe you can tell her what's wrong with it—and how to fix it.

Dear Elsie:

Will you please give me a little advice? I am at my wits' end trying to figure things out.

About five years ago my husband went into business with a partner, who is also married. When this partner became one of the firm he wanted us wives to have a share in the business. It doesn't really amount to much, but he wanted it that way.

Well, this other family had practically nothing, but as soon as they began to make a few dollars they began getting high ideas. She began to nag her husband and tell him she wanted a better home, a car, furs and nicer clothes. And she finally left him. His sister got them to go back together again, after their little girl got sick, by persuading him that the baby needed her mother.

PUZZLED BY HUSBAND

Now, the point is that while she was carrying on like that, I was satisfied with what we had until we got some money in the bank. But she got her car and other things . . . and went in for beauty in a big way. Then she began to boss the business, even telling my husband what he should do, what time he should stop for her husband in the morning, etc.—and she also began to find fault with me.

Now, I have been a better wife than she has. I keep my house and my children clean. I try to be cheerful and pleasing as possible. I never have spent any money in a beauty parlor, because he always claimed that if I painted, dyed my hair or smoked, he would leave me.

But regardless of all this, it looks as if my husband is getting sweet on this woman—in spite of all the things she does that he tells me he wouldn't stand for me doing. I get preached at every time I spend a nickel, but he seems to think it is all right for her to have everything. Why is he like that?

LOST INDIVIDUALITY

When I asked him about it, he flew off the handle and said I was "jealous" of her. He even tells all his friends that he'd never stand for his wife bossing him—yet he lets this woman boss him. If I ever say anything about the business, he tells me to "mind my own business." Am I jealous, do you think? Or am I right, when I feel angry? And what can I do? LEONIE.

Why does he admire another woman for doing the things he "won't let" you do?

Because, in spite of what he says, he admires spunk and individuality. He admired it in you once. But because he himself—whether he is willing to admit it or not—was jealous, he didn't want you to look slick and peppy, because he didn't want anyone else to notice you. He was afraid if they did he might not stack up so well. So he tried to keep you mousy. But—in doing so, he cheated himself. For you lost that very individuality that attracted him in the first place . . . You weren't stimulating and interesting any more.

And the remedy? Don't row with him. But stop letting him order your life. Be yourself. Flatter him. Tease him. Laugh with him . . . and go quietly out and get yourself a facial and a new haircut and some pretty clothes. Learn to be a person again, instead of just a piece of household furniture.

Fay King Pities the Whole Tribe of Love-Nest Ladies

By FAY KING

I always disapprove of love-nest ladies.

They are either in slave-nests or show-nests and neither is substantial. Those you find in slave-nests are satisfied with dismal little hideaways where they drudge and endure for selfish men who take it all for granted and give nothing.

Those you find in show-nests are in gawdy setups that can last only as long as their fickle patrons will foot the bills.

Not one in a hundred of the love-nest ladies ever ends up with anything like what she deserves for her protection and comfort. Even the "smartest" have ended up destitute, writing memoirs or having benefits.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Choosing the Correct Lead

There are some players who stand out for their ability to choose the Opening lead that is the most difficult for an opponent to fathom. One of these is Mr. Oswald Jacoby. An example of his ability to select the right lead occurred on the hand below, which was being played by South at a contract of six diamonds:

♠ A Q 5
♡ A 7 5 3
◇ Q 5 3
♣ K J 10

North / West / East / South

♠ 6
♡ Q J
◇ K 10 9 6 4 2
♣ A Q 4 2

Mr. Jacoby was sitting West and chose as his Opening lead the nine of hearts. This gave the Declarer a difficult problem. With a correct guess of the diamond suit or an even break, there was only one sure loser in the hand—namely, the Ace of trumps. To make the rest of the tricks, however, it was necessary to finesse either in hearts or in spades. The Opening lead of the nine of hearts certainly looked like the top of nothing, for it appeared improbable that Mr. Jacoby would make such a lead away from the King.

The Declarer, after studying the situation, played the Ace of hearts, and then took the next trick with the Ace of clubs in his own hand and finessed the spade. Had the Queen of spades held the trick, South could have discarded a heart on the Ace and made his contract, provided only that the trumps broke. However, the King of spades was in the East hand and East returned a heart, which Mr. Jacoby won with the King. The Declarer cannot be blamed for making the wrong guess. Even if Mr. Jacoby had held the heart King, there was also a chance that he held the spade King, in which case nothing would have been lost by the refusal to take the first finesse.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Having the Knave and two small cards of the suit bid by my partner, am I obliged to lead a small card against an adverse suit bid in order not to mislead my partner as to the number of cards I hold of his suit? In other words, if I lead the Knave, does that give him the impression that I have only two cards of the suit he bid?

Answer—Not necessarily. The lead of a small card from three to an honor is usually best, but very often the bidding has been such that the lead of the honor is indicated. There is no definite rule which can be laid down for this situation, although in general the low card is to be preferred.

Household Hints

Tumblers in which milk has been served should be rinsed out with cold water before washing; otherwise they will appear cloudy.

Some of the best substitutes for meat are dried peas, lentils, and butter beans. All these can be made into delicious rissoles, "sausages," etc., by soaking all night, boiling till soft, mashing them up with a sprinkling of herbs and seasoning, forming into shapes required and frying till crisp.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Waits at the Larches for Mrs. Ticer

"There is nothing the matter," I said lamely, and was glad indeed to hear Mrs. Ticer's voice in the hall outside, as she came back from the telephone.

"We will talk about it later," he said, with decisive finality, and then he rose and drew forward a chair for Mrs. Ticer, with the same delightful, deferential courtesy he would have used to the first lady of the land.

But my neighbor shook her head decisively, as she thanked him.

"I can't stay a minute," she said. "I've got to get down to the harbor, right away. But don't you hurry your telephoning, Miss Graham, I'll start walking down, and 10 to 1 I'll have a lift before I'm fairly out of the gate. I know pretty nearly everybody in this neck of the woods."

She laughed jovially, and Hugh smiled down at her, even as he touched a bell which brought a Chinese servant to the door.

"Tell John to bring the car around," he commanded, and then he turned back to Mrs. Ticer.

"Just tell John where you want to go, and he will wait for you until you have finished your errands and bring you back here. I hope we can persuade Mrs. Graham to stay and wait for you."

"Oh, no!" I protested, "I must get back home as soon as I have telephoned."

"I guess they can do without you over there for a minute or two," Mrs. Ticer said, with the freedom of her long association with me. "I won't be more than five minutes at that errand. I don't like to have you driving around alone with that foot. I'll tell you that."

"I can't fly in the face of such care as that," I told her smiling, "although I really am able to walk home. Instead of driving, if necessary. But I will stay here until you return."

"That's a load off my mind," Mrs. Ticer observed, as the houseman came back with the announcement that the car was at the door. With an excuse to me, Hugh escorted Mrs. Ticer to the door, and, I knew, put her in the car impressively.

When he came back I was upon my feet, stick in hand, ready to go to the telephone.

"What are you doing?" he demanded fiercely, as he rushed up to me and put a supporting hand beneath my elbow.

"Thank you! How strong you are!" I said gratefully.

"Give me that thing!" he said, and reaching across me, took the cane from my hand and tossed it upon a couch.

"You cannot know how seeing you with that makes me feel," he said. "You, who are so full of life and joy, to be tied down to a stick! At least, while you are in my house you shall not use it. I can spare myself the sight of it, and you the use of it, that long; unless"—with quick concern—"I am fatuous to a degree. Perhaps you prefer the stick?"

The servants were not in evidence as we walked down the hall to the telephone, and I wondered if he had sent them to some other part of the house. Neither was Lee Chow to be seen, and when Hugh had seated me comfortably before the telephone, I inquired for the high born Chinese, of whom secretly I stood in so much fear.

"He will be down before you go," he said. "I have sent word to him that you are here, because he has spoken of you so often lately, and has been so regretful that he did not see you when he called."

Correct Manners

Letter of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been asked by a lodge to send out a letter of thanks to members who have donated various things to an affair which has been given by the lodge.

I would appreciate it very much if you will be kind enough to send me some form of thank-you letter that I could use. B.

Dear Mrs. Anthony:

I have been asked by our lodge to tell you of our deep appreciation of your kindness in giving such a generous gift to the fair that we gave last week. Your thoughtfulness and co-operation are highly appreciated, and it was such friendliness as yours that made the occasion such a great success.

Best wishes and the friendliest of greetings from us all.

Faithfully yours,

Shower Plans

Dear Mrs Beeckman:

My sister-in-law has just announced her engagement, but no date has been set for the wedding . . . although it will take place the early part of this winter.

Would it be proper for me to give her a shower? If so, do you think September would be too early? M.

It isn't supposed to be very good form for a close relative of the bride-to-be to give her a shower, but this is a matter that each one must decide for herself. The planning-to-give-a-shower can have a very "obvious" appearance, and this is a thing to be realized, even if we decide to disregard it.

September might be a bit too early for a shower when the marriage is to take place in the early part of the winter. October would be better, I think.

Yellowed Ivory

If the ivory articles for your bureau have yellowed a bit, wash them with white soap and water and place while wet in the sunshine. Keep wetting with soapy water several times during the day and letting dry in the sun. Continue this process for several days. Then rinse and the ivory will be as white as when new.

ROMANCE LIVES in the magic of a lovely skin

And the magic of that schoolgirl complexion may be yours with the aid of this daily skin care

YOU may have lovely features; you may dress exquisitely; but his eyes may turn to a woman who has that priceless charm you may lack . . . a glamourous skin. For such a skin is rich in appeal.

And—nothing—nothing can help more to bring out the hidden wealth of skin beauty than olive and palm oils as blended in Palmolive—the soap of youth.

The secret of Palmolive's beauty results lies not only in its beauty ingredients—(olive and palm oils)—but also in its exclusive blend—a blend unlike any other—a blend which has made this the biggest selling beauty soap in all the world.

Olive oil—nothing else—gives Palmolive that soft, rich green color, a color that assures you of natural purity and safety. Olive oil, too, gives it a velvety lather which penetrates the tiny pores, freeing them of accumulations easily . . . leaving skin soft, smooth, gloriously clear and fresh. Palmolive truly casts a veil of loveliness over your skin.

Buy three cakes today. Then start this 2-minute treatment recommended by over twenty thousand beauty specialists: every morning and evening, massage a rich lather of Palmolive Soap gently into the skin with your hands; rinse it off with warm water, then with cold. Do that twice every day for a month. Feel it! Smooth, velvety. Look at your reflection! Why, such a skin is truly an invitation to romance!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Persistent Hiccough May Be Warning of Trouble

"Oh, I have the hiccoughs, slap me on the back," is a remark often overheard. A slap on the back may be sufficient to stop a simple hiccough. If this measure fails there are many other suggestions that will be quickly offered to the sufferer.

Dr. Copeland

As a rule, hiccoughs will last for a few minutes and subside regardless of what measures are taken for its relief. But occasionally a severe attack of hiccough is reported. The attack may last for weeks. Such a case was reported in the newspapers recently. The victim suffered from hiccough for more than 21 days.

Hiccough is a spasm caused by contraction of the diaphragm. It is brought about by an irritation of the nerves that supply the diaphragm and other muscles used in breathing. It commonly follows excessive irritation of the stomach, and is especially liable to occur after a heavy meal. It is believed by some authorities to be caused by an infection and involvement of these nerves. The infection can be traced to a diseased liver, gallbladder, stomach, or of the tonsils or teeth.

Occasionally it is encountered in a patient who has recently undergone an abdominal operation. For example, it may be a complication that sets in within 24 hours after a diseased appendix or gall-bladder has been removed. It may be a sign of some severe disorder of the body involving the central nervous system. It is often a symptom of hysteria, epilepsy, shock, tumors or injuries of the brain.

Hiccough is sometimes seen in children. Here it is usually traced to a chilling of the body, gas pressure or other digestive disturbance. To prevent hiccough in children, instruct the child to eat slowly and carefully.

Rest after meals for a half hour is advisable. Daily bowel evacuation is essential. Omit from the diet all irritating foods.

In severe cases of hiccough it is always best to consult with a physician. When persistent hiccough is neglected it becomes difficult to cure. At times it is necessary to resort to mild anesthesia, or the use of a hypodermic injection of some strong sedative to control the spasms of the diaphragm.

Bear in mind that persistent hiccough may be a warning sign of some disturbance in the body. The irritation may be due to some disorder of the lungs, or it may be in the liver, stomach or other organ located below the diaphragm. Repeated attacks of hiccough are nature's way of warning. Take heed of this sign.

Answers to Health Queries

E. F. C. Q.—What causes a burning in the mouth and a coated tongue?

A.—This may be due to hyperacidity and constipation. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

Mrs. E. J. Q.—What should a woman 77 years old, 5 feet tall weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 132 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

POLITICS

Philadelphia Drift to Democrats Heavy

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Those who have been speculating as to the probable Democratic registration in Pittsburgh, and the drift which would be shown from the Republican party, may get some measuring rod from Philadelphia.

Mr. Shields.

The first day's registration figures from the eastern city show that one in every three registrants affiliated with the Democratic party. Last year the registration figures showed only one in eight registered as a Democrat.

That is a tremendous and significant swing away from Vare domination in eastern politics. It takes on added significance because Philadelphia did not go Democratic while Allegheny County did in the presidential election.

* * *

Philadelphia Less Violent in Party Wars

From that it might be taken that the Democratic registration here would show an even more pronounced gain than in Philadelphia, something almost inconceivable.

Against this suggestion is the fact that Pittsburgh is confronted with a three-way fight for the Republican mayoralty nomination, in which two candidates are making every effort to restrain independent Republicans from jumping the traces and joining the Democrats. Councilman P. J. McArdle and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell both realize that bound up in their chances for success is the retention within the Republican party of members who have heretofore been anti-organization.

Philadelphia, while it has a municipal fight, which might be figured to keep Republicans within the ranks, does not go into its party civil wars as violently as do Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

* * *

Trouble for G. O. P. in Second, Sixth Wards

There will be trouble for the Republican organization at the primary in both the Second and Sixth wards, former Congressman P. J. Sullivan, of the Sixth, having joined Alderman Thomas M. Geary, of the Second, in turning to McArdle.

Both defections can be charged to Senator James J. Coyne or his ally, P. J. O'Malley. There has been bad blood between Coyne and O'Malley on the one side and Sullivan and Geary on the other for some time, culminating a few weeks ago in a fight between O'Malley and Geary and within the last few days in the removal of Sullivan's son-in-law, William McNamara, as a police magistrate.

The magistracy went to George Metzler, Sixth Ward chairman, who has followed Coyne's lead both in Harrisburg and Pittsburgh. McNamara was made a statistician in the Mayor's office, which, the Mayor called a "promotion." Apparently McNamara and his kin couldn't see it that way and McNamara is quitting the city service.

* * *

Sullivan-Coyne Feud Of Long Standing

Perhaps this upset over Sullivan may have been responsible for the asperity with which the Mayor greeted newspapermen in his office yesterday, though he was extremely cordial later at his headquarters.

The Sullivan-Coyne feud goes back a long ways. Sullivan was supported in victory against John M. Morin, who had represented the Thirty-second District for 10 years. The next election he was challenged by O'Malley, and again won. Last year, however, Coyne

COUPLE ADMITS ABANDONING INFANT

Unmarried Mother, Man Held for Court, Baby Ill

A young woman and a man admitted in Morals Court today that they had abandoned their 3-months-old baby. They were held for court.

Virginia Hodge, 28, of Broadhead street, held back her tears as she testified.

"I kept the baby until my money was exhausted. I couldn't even buy milk for her. And I was sick and the baby was suffering from malnutrition."

William Acker, 30, of North Millvale avenue, admitted he was the father of the baby. He said he and Miss Hodge had left the infant on the steps of a Howley avenue home in April.

The baby is now ill of measles in the Zoar Home. The police said the mother's questions in the neighborhood as to her baby's condition led to her arrest.

FIREMEN PARADE SATURDAY

Plans for a parade of firemen from 100 companies in Allegheny County at the Allegheny County fair Saturday night were made at a meeting of a committee of the Veteran Firemen's Association last night. A large amount of equipment and 30 bands will be in the procession.

The parade was arranged by a committee headed by Mark Roberts, of Carrick. Other members are W. H. Sharah, William D. Alcorn, Bethel Township; Jesse L. Humes, Tarentum; James Steel, Wilkinsburg; Fred Mehringer, Cherry City; John Sentz, West Park; Leo Schnet, Castle Shannon; Alex Andres, Etna; Harper Cain, Ingram; Thomas King, East McKeesport; Martin Klein, Pittsburgh; John Stinner, Glassport; Frank Chmeileski, Liberty; A. Pinchot Prepares For Fayette Visit

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot cleared his desk at the Capitol today preparatory to his departure for a 10-day vacation.

The Governor planned to leave for his country estate at Milford this afternoon. On Monday, he will participate in a mass meeting and celebration of bituminous miners at Uniontown. The remainder of the rest period will be spent at Milford.

COUNTY'S FAIR OPENS DESPITE SHOWERS

Air Exhibition, Polo Contest Facing Postponement

With everything from horses and pigs to eggs 'n' cakes 'n' needlework at their proper posts, Allegheny County's first fair opened at South Park's new fair grounds today for a four-day stand.

An element of uncertainty as to the program, however, was caused by rain. Postponements were possible on such events as the polo game and glider exhibits, officials stated.

The official ceremonies opening the fair and the inaugural of field activities featured this afternoon's program. The closing hour is 11 p. m. On subsequent days the fair grounds will open at 10 a. m. Activities each day will begin at 11 a. m.

First on the opening day's program of field shows—at 2:30 p. m.—was a gala exhibition by the new Allegheny County mounted police, followed at 3:30 by an aeronautical show featuring Army planes and the glider exhibit, and at 4:30 by the polo game.

MASSING OF COLORS

With the massing of the colors of two score posts of veterans' organizations, patriotic exercises will be held at 7:30 p. m., and at 8:15 p. m., county veterans' drum and bugle corps will participate in a competition before a committee of judges headed by Col. W. W. Gill.

Winding up the day's field activities will be a display of aerial fireworks from a plane piloted by Maj. Hal Basley, manager of the Municipal Airport, at 9:30 p. m.

Tomorrow's field show will consist of an exhibition of horse show entrants, a polo game, aerial stunts, mounted police artillery and infantry drills and fireworks.

Saturday will be marked by an athletic carnival for boys, men and girls of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia highspotted by 12 amateur boxing bouts, and a rodeo show by Troop F, Pennsylvania Cavalry.

Monday, the final day, is to be known as "Volunteer Firemen's Day" and will feature volunteer firemen of the county passing in review.

13 DIVISIONS

Divided into 13 departments, the various exhibits include: horse show; dog show, with a special one for the "mutts"; wild life, livestock, farm crops, vegetables, fruit, poultry, rabbits, pigeons, bantams, eggs, apiary products, home economics, flowers and draft horses. In addition, artcraft and cattle and farm products from county institutions are to be on display.

The grounds may be reached via Brownsville road, Rute 88, Library road, or hourly by Pittsburgh Motor Coach and Brentwood Coach Company buses with a combined bus and trolley fare of 30 cents. Fifty-cent round trips from Grant street and Liberty avenue—40 cents for children—are to be operated by the Pittsburgh company.

IV.

It had been a triumphant day for the mine sweeping fleet!

We had changed our method of sweeping—no longer toiling back and forth across the lines of mines—a slow but comparatively safe process. Instead, we found that we could steam along the lines of mines from end to end, and make 10 times as much speed.

Mr. Hays

No casualties had occurred to mar the first experiment of longitudinal sweeping. It was a wonderfully impressive sight, 36 sweepers, 10 trawlers and 14 submarine chasers in sweeping formation, steaming down the lines of mines, the air reverberating with the constant roar of explosions, and simultaneously, the glistening geysers of white water springing up out of the sea behind the pairs of sweepers.

Further astern, the crackling patter of rifles and machine guns could be heard mingled with the roar of the detonated mines, as the sub chasers filled the floating spheres with bullet holes.

Of course, the usual amount of sweeping gear was blown away in the mine explosions, but we devised a system to reduce delays from that source.

There were five parallel lines of mines, planted at different depths, to form a complete barrage 260 feet deep. In the new longitudinal method of sweeping, we steamed along the length of the lines, five pairs of sweepers abreast, one over each line of mines, and three pairs in each column.

Thus, when one of the leading pairs of sweepers had its sweepwire blown away, it would swerve out of the formation, off to one side of the barrage to make repairs, and the following

Synopsis

The U. S. Navy builds an impenetrable barrier of deep-sea mines across the North Sea, to bottle up the German submarines. After the Armistice the 70,000 mines forming the barrier have to be swept away. The mines are designed to explode electrically, at the slightest contact with any piece of metal. Wooden vessels, used in sweeping experiments, are virtually destroyed by explosion and storm. A protective device is invented, to enable steel sweepers to work on the mine field without blowing themselves up.. But other, more serious dangers develop. Sweepers are destroyed when one mine, exploding, sets off others nearby. Mines become fouled in the ship's sweeping gear and explode close aboard the sweepers. Terrific North Sea storms hamper the hazardous work. Heroic sacrifice of life, heavy loss of ships is all in the day's work. The Navy mine sweepers, battered and shattered by countless explosions' drive doggedly on, day after day. Every one of the 70,000 mines must be destroyed to restore the freedom of the seas.

POLICE STATION ROBBERY FAILS

Hearing a noise in the police station cellar about 2:30 a. m., Gillette thought he would do a little investigating.

Going to the cellar, he said he found D. H. Bradley, 32, Negro, of 612 South avenue, carting away parts of a stop-and-go light and other articles. Behind the station he said he found Bradley's wheelbarrow.

Ruling Follows Park's Action to Enlarge Poll Tax List

No blanket order will be made by Common Pleas Court for the wholesale assessment of voters for the coming election.

That, in effect, was the result of a ruling which Judges Elder W. Marshall and Thomas M. Marshall made yesterday, deciding that the County Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes is permitted by law to investigate persons appearing before the board to be assessed, before they are enrolled. Judge John P. Egan dissented.

The decision was the result of a mandamus action which was brought by District Attorney Andrew T. Park against members of the board asking to force them to place on the poll tax list the names of "all voters of this commonwealth who may present themselves before the board of certification for assessment to the County Treasurer." The court overruled a motion to quash made by the board's attorneys.

PARK'S AIDE EXPLAINS

In the absence of Park, who is out of the city, Assistant District Attorney Chauncey E. Pruger today explained that the District Attorney's office is not interested in letting phantom voters get their names on the tax list, but that the petition was made in behalf of persons who were neither phantoms nor "ghosts." Pruger added that Park, under the law, is required to take such action when called upon.

Judge Elder W. Marshall in his opinion held that the board has a right to assure itself against "ghost" or "phantom" voters or persons who have themselves assessed and who actually vote in scores of districts. Judge Marshall also added:

"There is no provision, statutory or otherwise, against making an investigation of the facts, so long as the investigation is made promptly and bona fide electors are not disfranchised by delay."

Judge Thomas M. Marshall concurred in this view and held that five days ought to be ample to make such investigation.

'NOT IN CONFLICT'

Judge Egan in dissenting held that there is no provision in the act of 1933 giving authority or power to the board to refuse to assess and that there is no provision for an ex-parte investigation or for hearings.

He further contended:

"We are not in conflict with the majority of the court, that the assessment of residents and inhabitants for poll tax purposes is a matter serious enough to require reasonable investigation prior to such assessment. We disagree, however, with the majority when it holds that the court has power to add a statute provisions which have not been placed therein by the Legislature."

The ruling of the court requires the board to take action on all applications for assessmen filed prior to the filing of th Park mandamus.

STATE RELIEF FUNDS CUT MILLION

HARRISBURG, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Reflecting sharp drops in the total of families receiving aid, the State Emergency Relief Board yesterday allocated $4,868,753 to counties for September, a figure which Gov. Pinchot said was "about $1,000,000" below the August total.

The Governor, in announcing the action, said the cut, in addition to representing the effect of a 9 per cent drop in the number of persons unemployed, also showed the results of the board's policy of "investigating more carefully the applicants for aid."

During the meeting at which the slash was made, A. K. Oliver, of Pittsburgh, and W. Logan McCoy, Philadelphia, urged that the increased cost of food be taken into consideration in making the new grants.

CITES FOOD COST RISE

Oliver said the Allegheny board had found it necessary to increase from 90 cents to $1.10 the amount allowed per person per week.

In addition to a June-July drop of 112,808 in the number of unemployed—reducing the total to 1,147,179 in mid-July—the relief board had before it records of a 10.1 per cent drop in the number of persons on relief for the same period. From 393,155 families at the end of June, the total fell to 357,051 at the close of July with a corresponding drop from 1,891,503 to 1,688,505 in the number of persons on relief.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

The board also arranged to launch a new educational program under which persons without jobs will be given instruction in special schools.

Eric Biddle, executive director, reported 30 counties are now wholly or partially on the county-unit plan of relief distribution. He estimated the total will be increased to 50 within a week.

R. E. Wehrheim, Pittsburgh, was appointed field accountant at an annual salary of $2,400. He succeeds E. J. Schwartz, Pittsburgh, who resigned.

Allegheny County's allotment for September totals $788,545.

U. S. to Distribute Meat To States for Hungry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Plans for giving millions of dollars worth of meat to the states to feed the hungry were announced yesterday by the Federal Relief Administration.

At the same time C. M. Bookman, assistant relief administrator, predicted the need for jobless aid would be considerably less during the approaching winter than now.

Bookman disclosed that meat from the millions of pigs and sows the government is buying in its campaign to relieve the hog market would be distributed to the states free in addition to their allotments from the $500,000,000 unemployment aid fund.

The meat, processed at government expense, will be distributed to the states, he said, on the basis of need. Allocations will be based on the number of families on relief rolls and the adequacy of relief being afforded.

FIREMEN'S DOG MOURNED

Every dog has his day, but it isn't every day that a dog like Pal dies.

That was why children from blocks around No. 54 Engine House at Perrysville and Bonvue street were trooping into the house today to console the firemen.

He was owned by Joe Leacock, of 131 Bonvue street, but everyone thought him a member of Engine Company No. 54.

Pal, a collie, had been the company's mascot 10 years. When he was younger, Pal went tearing along on runs with the company, but the last few years time had dulled his ardor.

With advancing years Pal had time to get acquainted. He always had a kiss ready for the youngest children and a paw out to shake with the older ones. He was a good politician.

WOMAN FREED IN TORCH TRIAL

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Mary Peters, of West Newton, was acquitted of murder of three men she was alleged to have burned to death in a shack last July. Judge C. E. Whitten directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

The tragedy occurred during a drinking bout in the shack of Harry Nichols, in which Nichols, Byron Austin and Harry Kramer were burned.

Mrs. Peters claimed Nichols pursued her with a club and she hurled a lighted lamp at him and fled, slamming the door. A latch fastened the door automatically and the men burned to death from the fire caused by the exploding lamp.

HITLER WOMEN SNUBBED, CRY

NURNBERG, Germany, Aug. 31. (AP)—Tears were shed today by thousands of enthusiastic Hitlerite women who learned on reaching Nurnberg for the Nazi convention that Chancellor Adolf Hitler would not make an address to them, as scheduled originally.

In response to tearful questions of "why?" the women received only a shrug of the shoulders from each official to whom they applied. Presumably the action was in line with a general policy which excluded women from all positions in connection with the management of the convention.

The women thought they were neglected, but no such complaint came from the thousands of boys here for the party congress.

Of an estimated 3,000,000 youthful Hitler followers, 60,000 of the best behaved were rewarded by a free trip to Nurnberg, where they encamped outside the city in 180 camps.

Loss of 112 at Sea Costs Line $475,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—American claimants for damages from the sinking of the steamer Vestris in November, 1928, with the loss of 112 lives, one of the worst disasters in maritime history, will receive $475,000, or about 17 per cent of their claims, it was revealed today.

There were more than 1,000 damage suits against the Lamport & Holt Co. as a result of the Vestris disaster and claims totaled $5,000,000.

Liability for loss of life was limited to loss of husband or wife or parents or children. Loss of brother or sister was ruled out.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—To prevent visitors to the White House—and its occupants—from being injured by falling masonry, the office of national parks and buildings today began spending its first public works dollars on repairs to the executive mansion cornice.

Approximately $6,000 will be spent, Arno B. Cammerer, director of the parks office announced, with about $2,000 of it going for two new cornerstones to replace badly weathered stones.

GIRL KIDNAPED, ESCORT SHOT

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Miss Katherine Prince, 21, was kidnaped by two Negroes who shot her companion, Mace Carver, through the neck as they sat in an automobile on a lonely road east of Dallas last night.

Miss Prince was still missing today and a search for her body was instituted in the fear that she might have been slain.

Carver's car was found shortly after midnight. In it was his hat, the woman's purse and her hat. Carver, semi-conscious, was found at the side of a road and was taken to a Dallas hospital, where his condition was critical.

NEW SUSPECT IN INSURANCE FRAUD HELD

Another alleged leader in the automobile accident insurance ring was held for further investigation in Central Police Court today charged with conspiracy to defraud.

Angel Sampegnaro, 48, of 1211 James street, was arrested yesterday after county detectives fired a volley of shots during an automobile chase in Ardmore boulevard. Sampegnaro is accused by detectives of being the "slugger" who battered alleged auto victims into the appearance of having been in an accident.

He and Stephen Oliveri, 32, of 3800 Frazier street, the latter previously arrested and purposely released on bond, were captured after a four-mile chase which ended near East McKeesport when Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd and Detectives George E. Brubach and Andrew Carciere opened fire on the car.

BULLETS END FLIGHT

Bullets from the revolver of Brubach, a crack shot, finally halted the men as they attempted to flee on foot.

Since his release Tuesday on $1,500 bond, Oliveri had been kept under constant surveillance, Inspector Boyd said. Yesterday afternoon Boyd and his men trailed him to a farm house near Forest Hills, where Sampegnaro lay in hiding since the capture of 10 members of the ring.

Oliveri took provisions and clothing to Sampegnaro preparatory to their flight to New York, according to detectives. When the two men observed the detectives approaching, they hopped into their car and sped into Ardmore boulevard with the sleuths in pursuit. In the chase the detectives were joined by Police Chief J. W. Tuttle, of Forest Hills.

'DUKE'S RIGHT HAND'

Detectives said Sampegnaro was one of the right hand men of Frank Gemellarro, 45, known as "The Duke," and described by the sleuths as the "brains" of the ring whose operations, thus far, have been traced to New York. Gemellarro and eight others, including his wife, Rosie, 45, were held for further investigation in Central Police Court yesterday morning.

Sampegnaro said he was brought to Pittsburgh from South Brooklyn by Gemellarro to stage fake automobile accidents, according to detectives. In two of these, Sampegnaro participated himself, and one was said to have been settled by an insurance company for $500.

CHEATING 'RING'

Gemellarro, according to detectives, was even cheating the members of the ring, telling them he received less in settlements than he was actually getting.

Sampegnaro is said to have slugged the actors who were to take the parts of accident victims, using a wet burlap sack to make bruises and a cheese-grater for brush burns.

Books and records seized in the ornately furnished headquarters at 3466 Bates street, were being scanned by detectives and Assistant District Attorney J. E. Kalson. Boyd said some of the members signed statements in which they admitted they staged accidents, inflicted injuries upon each other and then collected from insurance companies.

Some of the prisoners are involved in more than 200 similarly faked accident cases in New York, which, according to Boyd, also involve many physicians and attorneys. Their names have been turned over to representatives of large eastern insurance companies.

HERRON HURLS CHALLENGES AT ENEMIES

Councilman W. Y. English today asked questions of the opposition to Mayor John S. Herron and his councilmanic slate, in a noon meeting in the Regular Republican headquarters in Hotel Henry.

Declaring the opposition candidates are dodging the truth and asserting that Council in the last two years has reduced taxes 24 per cent, English said:

"We challenge Mr. Mackrell to reveal to the public his income from the office of Register of Wills. How much did he reduce his fees and charges since the depression? Is it true when Mackrell was a candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention last year that he accepted and received the political support of Senator Coyne and his friends?"

Apparently satisfied with the absence of an answer to these questions, English said:

"We challenge P. J. McArdle to reveal the name of the man who paid him thousands of dollars when City Council abolished his job as an investigator. Was it Senator Coyne? We ask him to tell the public about the McArdle family's bonding business and show the amount of city contractors' bonds which were written and the premiums received by the McArdle family in 1929 and 1930, when McArdle was a member of Council."

Here are some questions he asked Councilman Robert Garland:

"We ask him to tell the public the reason for his vote against the cutting of the corner of Grant street and Oliver avenue at the William Penn Hotel and also to make public who received the contract for furnishing electric conduits for the hotel. Also whether his vote in Council had any influence in giving the order for the conduit material for the hotel, or was it vice versa?"

Again when no answer came from the meeting, English made this suggestion:

"We think Joseph C. Dilworth and the Citizens Committee should turn their attorneys loose on the conduit business."

Real Estate Broker Declares for McNair

C. A. Pearson, North Side real estate broker and politician, today announced his indorsement of the Roosevelt Democratic slate headed by William N. McNair, candidate for Mayor.

In past years Pearson has been active in Republican politics. His father, the late R. T. Pearson, was a former Mayor of old Allegheny.

MALONE URGES NEW ECONOMY

James F. Malone, candidate for City Council, in a speech last night said that Council this year had reduced the tax rate two mills, but had left a deficit which must be met next year. Unless taxes were to be raised, he said, the city must be run with extreme economy, reducing materially the costs of government, which he said now were far too high.

Malone said he was in this campaign free of factional entanglements and would owe responsibility only to the taxpayers if elected. Political factionalism had burdened the city, he said.

Programs of public improvements, costing huge sums, would be advocated by candidates in the campaign, Malone said, but to carry them out would mean increases in the tax rate. The city now has the largest volume of delinquent taxes in its history, he said, and unless there is careful management the size of the delinquency will grow rather than diminish.

Permanent relief, he said, can be achieved only by the elimination of overlapping bureaus and duplication of work. Salary reductions are only temporary expedients, he pointed out, and would be unnecessary if all drones on the payroll were eliminated.

HENRY ATTACKS M'NAIR, COYNE

John M. Henry, Democratic mayoralty candidate, last night told a Fourth Ward audience that if William N. McNair was nominated by the Democrats two Coyne candidates would be in the field in November, asserting that Mayor John S. Herron was certain to win the Republican nomination because of a split in anti-administration ranks.

Henry, agreeing to attacks McNair has made upon Senator James J. Coyne and W. L. Mellon, declared that it was nevertheless true that there was Coyne influence in the McNair campaign. McNair, he said, might be unaware of how strong the entanglement would be, but insisted that the former political relation between Coyne and Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence would have an influence on McNair.

Henry said that McNair had managed Lawrence's campaign for County Commissioner in 1931 when the Democratic leader was supported by Coyne.

Back of Lawrence and Joseph F. Guffey, Henry said, was M. L. Benedum, and success for McNair, he charged meant a continuance of rule by "the utilities and the bankers and the oil and coal and steel barons."

Henry praised the administration of President Roosevelt, and declared that some of the same energy and principle displayed by the President was needed in the government of Pittsburgh.

1,000 Bar Members Back Judge Smith

A committee of 1,000 lawyers, members of the Allegheny County Bar Association, has indorsed the candidacy of Judge Ralph H. Smith for a full term on the Common Pleas bench. The resolution of indorsement reads in part:

"Judge Smith is thoroughly capable as a jurist, very humane in his treatment of all matters that come before him and extremely courteous to lawyers. His integrity is unquestioned and he is an untiring worker."

entered M. J. Muldowney, who had been a member of Council, and Muldowney was nominated while Sullivan retired.

Sullivan battled Coyne in 1931 when the Senator was an unsuccessful candidate for County Commissioner, the affair breaking into physical combat among the followers of the two. Whatever the strength of Sullivan in the ward, it will do everything it can to block Coyne.

The declaration of the former Congressman does not extend to the councilmanic ticket indorsed with McArdle by the Citizens' League. So far he is only for the independent mayoralty candidate.

Picnic Affords Amusing Side of Campaign

One of the amusing sides of the current campaign is the godfathering of the Democratic picnic to be held at Kennywood, Saturday. Mrs. J. Wood Clark, vice chairman of the County Committee, and a supporter of William N. McNair, planned the affair. Yesterday County Chairman David L. Lawrence announced he had arranged for a detail of state police from Greensburg to direct traffic, the announcement being not only intended as news value, but also evidence that the "organization" is running the picnic.

In between the announcements of Mrs. Clark and Lawrence, John M. Henry, bitter foe of all organization Democrats, put out a statement inviting Democrats to the picnic as a tribute to President Roosevelt, the same plea made by the organization.

Showing their capacity for fighting, the Democrats can bicker over who gives a picnic. Perhaps those state police will come in handy to direct traffic among the factions, and keep them out of political jams.

SULLIVAN BOLT COSTS KIN JOB

Mayor John S. Herron's appointment of George C. Metzier as a police magistrate to succeed William McNamara is to be confirmed by City Council tomorrow.

McNamara, a son-in-law of former Congressman P. J. Sullivan, has been ousted because Sullivan expressed himself in favor of P. J. McArdle, a candidate for the mayoralty against Herron, City Hall observers assert.

In announcing the appointment of Metzier last week, Mayor Herron said McNamara had agreed to be transferred to the job of accountant in the Mayor's office at $3,000 per year. McNamara, however, has not yet agreed to accept the accountant's position.

Herron has said that he considers Metzier his leader in the Sixth Ward and expressed the opinion that the "Police Magistrate is the personal representative of the Mayor."

GAIN IN PHILA. BY DEMOCRATS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Democratic enrollment on the first of the three registration days apparently broke all records in the city's history.

Unofficial estimates by members of the registration commission today placed the total Democratic enrollment Tuesday at about 50,000—more than double the Democratic registration on the first day last year.

A year ago the Republicans, on the first registration day, outnumbered the Democratic enrollment in the ratio of more than 7 to 1.

Although exact totals will not be available for several days, registration officials indicated the Republicans this year enrolled about 110,000 electors, the Democrats 50,000 and all other parties 5,000.

FORD V-8 GIVES 18½ TO 22½ MILES PER GALLON

THINK of it . . . real V-8 performance and 18½ to 22½ miles to a gallon of gasoline . . . that's what the big new Ford gives you!

This fact has been proved by a series of sixteen official mileage tests held throughout the country. Tests by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association and leading oil companies show that the new Ford V-8 gives from 18½ to 22½ miles per gallon.

But economy is only one of the many reasons why Pennsylvanians are swinging to the Ford V-8. Its 112-inch wheelbase, its deeper, roomier seats mean greater riding comfort. All-steel bodies mean greater safety, longer life; give outstanding beauty to the new Ford's modern streamlining.

Whatever you want in a car . . . beauty, speed, performance, comfort or economy . . . you will find it in the big new Ford V-8. Drive it; put it to your own favorite test. Your local dealer will gladly supply a courtesy car. Since the new Ford is the only V-8 under $2,000.00, your Ford dealer can afford to let this remarkable car speak for itself. It would be considered a lot of automobile for the money if it were priced several hundred dollars higher.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Maytair —With— Patricia Pitt

Robert E. Lee week at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., attracted a number of Pittsburgh society folks who attended the various activities. And the first annual Mason and Dixon women's golf championship, which opens Tuesday, will find more of them there. Mrs. L. G. Riley and Mrs. F. H. Stephens will arrive there on Monday from Chicago, where the women's national championship was played this week at the Exmoor Country Club. They are two of Pittsburgh's foremost women golfers.

Sunday there will be polo matches at the Greenbrier polo field and another match scheduled for September 10 will be between the Pittsburgh and Greenbrier polo teams. The Pittsburgh four probably will be George Vang, King McCreery, David I. McCahill, Jr., and James Crowder.

Recent Pittsburgh arrivals at the Greenbrier were the H. J. McCarthys, Elizabeth McCargo, Mrs. Binney K. McMechen, the A. B. MacLachlans, the F. W. Ochsenhirts and Martha Dovey.

* * *

Mrs. A. L. Sayre, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Creigh Miller, of Sewickley, is leaving soon for her home in Anderson, Ind., stopping to attend the Chicago Fair en route. Mrs. Miller entertained with two teas for her mother while she was here, and other social affairs, luncheons, teas and garden parties were given by Mrs. George Hofmann, of Sewickley; Mrs. Hal Booth, of Coraopolis Heights; Mrs. Fletcher White, Mrs. Chester Horton and Mrs. J. D. A. Morrow.

Leaving for Home

The B. R. B. Townsends and their children, James and Elizabeth, who have been summering at Hyannisport, plan to return about September 12.

* * *

Dinner Guest

The J. Frederic Byerses, who with their daughter, Nancy, and son, A. McBurney Byers, attended the races at Deauville, are now in Paris and expect to sail for home September 10.

Mrs. W. Harry Brown is in Paris and will leave this month for Vichy.

Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson arrived in France in time for the races, and was joined there by her son, Worthington.

Arrives In France

Summering in Normandy are the Frederic Schaefers of Devon road. The Alexander J. Barrons who have been traveling in Norway and Sweden expect to be home by September 16.

Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger and her daughter, Rita, and son, Henry, are motoring in Austria and Germany. They will return late this month. Rita has been there since early spring, and was joined by her mother and brother in Paris in July.

Ruth V. Bleier Returns From Sojourn in East

Miss Ruth B. Bleier, of Black street, East End, has just returned from New York and Long Island. She was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Aubrey Rockitter, of Brooklyn, N. Y. She was accompanied by Miss T. Claire Schwartz, of Schenley Heights, who was a guest at the home of Armin Feldman, Jr. Miss Bleier has as her house guest, Allen Fields, of New York.

Ladies of G. A. R. Home Boat Ride Tomorrow

The Ladies of the G. A. R. will sponsor a boat ride on the George Washington tomorrow evening as a benefit for the Ladies of the G. A. R. Home at Hawkins. Tickets are being sold by the committee composed of Mrs. Ila M. Armstrong, Mrs. Loretta Newmeyer, Mrs. Lillie Patterson, Mrs. Allena Stuhlfire and Mrs. Mollie Knight.

VISITING STONE MANSE THEY'VE FURNISHED

MRS. G. WILBERT DAVIS

Young clubwomen—Mrs. Davis of the Knoxville Library Club juniors, and Miss Pullen of the Carrick Mothers' Club juniors—in the nursery which the junior clubs of the Allegheny County Federation furnished in Stone Manse in South Park. The stone water jug and pitcher, standing on the dresser, were originals in the old house. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

MISS ELIZABETH M. PULLEN

Throngs of Club Women Visit Old Stone Manse

Several hundred clubwomen went out to South Park yesterday to see the old Stone Manse and its new-old furnishings, placed there after months and months of collecting and assembling by the Allegheny County Federation of Women's Clubs. The workers have done an admirable piece of work and they hope now to perpetuate the old eighteenth century home as an historical relic.

In the living room are two very valuable old clocks, a grandfather's and a mantel clock, both more than 150 years old. An early Chippendale chair, a melodeon of the earliest type, old hooked rugs, a center table with a white china tea set and an ancient Bible on it are also seen in the living room.

The dining room is beautiful, the table set with lovely old china and silver loaned by Mrs. William Anderson, and the corner cupboard filled with other china. An old clock, candlesticks, horn lanterns and other pieces from days gone by add to the picture. An amazing number of antiques have been collected for the kitchen, too—copper scales, a crane in the fireplace, old copper kettles and pots and a flintlock gun over the mantel.

75 Attend Affair In Congress Series

Seventy-five guests were present at the party given by Mrs. R. H. M. Mackenzie yesterday afternoon at her summer home near Beechview. Luncheon was a very colorful affair, the guests being served on the lawn under garden umbrellas. The green and yellow color scheme made a charming setting for the party, another successful link in the Congress of Clubs summer chain series.

Kaednege Society To Begin Year Next Week

Luncheon at 12:30 o'clock will be in charge of Mrs. F. H. Beebe, Mrs. Thomas P. Fleeson, Mrs. H. W. Fulton, Mrs. J. P. Lafferty, Mrs. J. L. Peoples, Mrs. L. V. Sattele, Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mrs. Kenneth Seaver, Mrs. Fred Lowndes and Mrs. Harry Thompson.

Murna Gwendolyn Emeigh Weds Charles B. Pierce

A trip to the world's fair followed the marriage Saturday afternoon of Miss Murna Gwendolyn Emeigh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Emeigh, of Grandin avenue, Dormont, and Charles B. Pierce, son of Mrs. Clarissa Pierce, of Dell avenue and McFarland road, Dormont.

The ceremony took place at 4:30 o'clock in the Dormont Presbyterian Church. Officiating was a fraternity brother of the bridegroom, the Rev. Frederick Luchs, of Mercer, Pa. The altar was banked with palms, ferns and gladioli.

There was a buffet dinner and reception at the home of the bride's parents. The table was centered with pink roses.

The bride wore a gown of white satin having a short jacket. Her veil of tulle was appliqued with rose point and was draped from a cap of rose point. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Helen Emeigh, as the maid of honor, wore blue crepe with a cape of organza and carried red roses and baby's breath. Miss Sarah Ewalt, as bridesmaid, wore pink crepe and carried tea roses and blue delphinium. Joan Shirley Emeigh, small sister of the bride, was flower girl, and wore a frock of lace over yellow taffeta. She carried a basket of garden flowers.

The bride's mother chose a gown of peach chiffon with brown accessories and a corsage of tea roses. The bridegroom's mother wore biege chiffon with black accessories and a shoulder spray of tea roses.

Fenton Laucks, of Reading, Pa., was best man. Ushers were Beam Tosh, Pittsburgh; Frederick Mowry, Geistown; Earl Haupt, of Somerset. All were fraternity brothers of the bridegroom.

The bride attended Carnegie Tech and Slippery Rock State Teachers' College and the bridegroom attended Franklin and Marshall College, Lansaster, Pa.

Mrs. Thompson Chairman Of Ushers, Pages for Federation Meeting

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

To the efficient Mrs. Ronald L. Thompson, of the Dormont New Century Club, has fallen the chairmanship of ushers and pages for the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women's convention, October 9 to 14. There will be 32 ushers, selected from all the junior clubs in the district, and one of their duties (which it is hoped they will fulfill to the letter) is to see that no one enters the convention session while anyone is speaking from the platform. Each usher will wear a neat, appropriate badge for which a special design is being made.

Six pages will be on duty each day and they will be distinguished by snappy little uniforms in the State Federation colors, military blue and silver, an innovation from the mind of Mrs. Thompson, by the way. Over a sports or spectator dress of white, the pages will wear little capes of the blue caught at the throat with a silver button, and a little hat made on military lines, to match. Incidentally, they are to be made by the Dormont New Century Club.

On the opening night and at the convention banquet on Thursday the girls will wear evening dresses in place of their uniforms.

Beatrice Seidel To Be Married On Saturday

Saturday will be the wedding day of Miss Beatrice Seidel and Huber S. Manifold. The bride elect is the daughter of Mrs. Elva Patton, of Greensburg, and her fiance is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. C. Manifold, of Manchester. The Rev. Manifold is to officiate.

Miss Seidel is a graduate of Indiana State Teachers' College and of the University of Pittsburgh. She has been teaching in the Greensburg High School for the past three years. Her fiance is a graduate of Lafayette College and of Columbia University and is now dean at the Pennington School, Pennington, N. J.

After a motor trip through the Poconos, Mr. Manifold and his bride will be at home in Pennington, about September 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Metz Mark Anniversary Tomorrow

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Metz, of Marshall avenue, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary tomorrow.

Miss Sally West Is Married to New Yorker

Miss Sally West, of North Neville street, and Vernon Wendlandt, of New York, were married on Saturday afternoon in the William Penn Hotel. Officiating was the Rev. D. L. Patchell, associate pastor of the Church of the Ascension.

The bride wore white satin with a hat to match having a brief tulle veil. She carried white roses and lilies of the valleyy. Her sister, Miss Mary Bell West, as her only attendant, wore a silver-blue satin gown and carried pink tea roses. Raymond Woodhouse, of New York was best man, and Walter Febry was an usher.

There was a tea after the ceremony, and Miss Isabel Lohr, who poured, wore an ensemble of gray with a corsage of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendlandt will make their home in New York after a trip to Duluth, Minn.

Clarence W. DeMosses Entertain Uncle, Aunt

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. De Moss, of Northminster street, North Side, returned Tuesday night from an eastern trip. Accompanying them were their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kennedy, whose house guests they were in Philadelphia and who will remain in Pittsburgh for a few days.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Mccrory, of Orchard street, Knoxville, celebrated the forty-fifth anniversary of their marriage yesterday.

GAMES TO BE PLAYED AT BUNDLE PARTY

Bridge, backgammon, lotto, mah jong and fortune telling are listed as the diversions for the bundle party to be given next Thursday in the Y. M. and W. H. A. by Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Women. Mrs. Samuel H. DeRoy is general chairman for the affair which is a benefit for Council's Service Shop and is in honor of Mrs. Eugene Friedlander, former Shop chairman.

Melodrama Actor Dies in N. Y. at 76

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Joseph Slayton, veteran actor, died in a Staten Island hospital yesterday at the age of 76.

Slayton appeared for many years in melodramas produced by A. H. Woods. Among the plays in which he appeared were "The Gambler of the West," "The Sign On the Door," and "The Trial of Mary Dugan."

New York Society Couple Divorced

RENO, Nev., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Marion Hopkinson Brooks, prominent socially in New York, obtained a divorce on grounds of cruelty here yesterday from John Brooks, whom she married in New York eight years ago. A property settlement agreement which also arranged for the custody of two children was approved by the court.

SKIRT-LINE NEW FOCAL POINT IN LATEST EVENING FASHIONS

FORMALITY goes on being very good fashion for ladies these nights. Flocks of billowy or bronzy feather accessories and ornamentation, rich fabrics, and little trains are seen everywhere. Metal motifs are staging a dramatic comeback. Muffs, fans, precious jewels are noted—all these signs are unmistakably formal.

* * *

REMEMBER how it took months of schooling to teach us exactly where to look first for fashion interest? By early summer it was everyone's bright accomplishment to know it was upon shoulders, necklines and waists that designing interest focused. Suddenly, with only slight warning, we discover that knowing women are directing their attention to a new focal point. Their eyes go first to the SKIRT! They examine hem-lines carefully, for the most compelling fashions have new devices that are placed below instead of above the waistline.

* * *

THE SKIRT interest is developed in many ways. Sometimes it is by long, fitted hipline, a pleated flounce, slits in the skirt, the hobble silhouette, or very low placement of peplums, tunics, panels, ripples in back, and drapes. This skirt-interest is the most exciting fashion message of the last fall openings. It means an entirely new outlook is necessary. A shopping tour demands keen perception of trends. You'll want to follow carefully whatever developments are broadcasted to you. It's like going back to school again. We're sure women will love it.

* * *

THE LOVELY gown which we've had sketched for you front and back view, illustrates this spectacular new interest perfectly. The silhouette is definitely straight, with pleated frills at the feet and a train in back. The slashed shoulders that tie in a knot are interesting, but secondary in importance to the beautiful skirt.

* * *

THE CORSETIERE is growing more and more important right now for corseting is necessary to the fulfillment of the proper lines of a dress this fall. A white one-piece type for evening moulds the hips and thighs beautifully, and accents the high bust-line. The diaphragm is flat in front—this is very important. The garments are longer than they've been before, in order to properly girdle the figure for the sheath-like fashions we're slipping into now.

RED CROSS AID GIVEN VETS

Sixteen cases of veterans needing relief were restored to the relief rolls of the Pittsburgh Chapter, American Red Cross, during the first two weeks of August, Red Cross officials have informed the Welfare Fund.

The average deficiency of the individual budgets of these ex-service men's families whose disability allowances have been cut under the Economy Bill is $26.21. It will cost the Red Cross an additional $419 a month to care for these 16 new cases.

August is the first month of the operation of the national economy law and the Red Cross expects that October will show the full effect locally of the need for added relief. The Red Cross is preparing new evidence on all claims for the restoration of disability allowances which officials deem legitimate.

Wife Wins Divorce From Navy Officer

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A divorce from Lieut.-Commander Leland D. Webb, of the United States Navy, was granted yesterday to Mrs. Eloise M. Webb, of Washington, and ended a suit bitterly contested since last April.

Charges and counter charges flew fast during the trial, which began with the flying officer of the U. S. S. Lexington bringing suit against Mrs. Webb. He charged there was "too much mother-in-law."

Mrs. Webb filed a cross complaint, accusing him of associating with other women.

A NEW KIND OF SOAP . . .

Dishes Drain Sparkling Dry—No Wiping Necessary

DON'T waste precious minutes waiting for chips and flakes to dissolve. Don't wipe dishes. It's no longer necessary. For now a new kind of soap has been discovered that cuts dishwashing time in half. It's Super Suds. Not chips, flakes or soap powder. But soap in the form of tiny hollow beads so tissue thin that they burst into instant suds.

How Super Suds Saves Time

Think what this means in dishwashing. No stirring, coaxing, heating water extra hot to get soap to dissolve. Your dishpan's flooded with rich sparkling soapiness, right from the start. Grease vanishes like magic. Dishes come shining clean in no time. You don't even need to wipe dishes. A hot rinse leaves them so clear that they will drain dry to sparkling brightness. No streaks, spots, or soap film with Super Suds.

And your hands . . . they stay soft and white, even manicures last longer. For these marvelous "beads" of soap require no stinging hot water to dissolve.

Cut Soap Bills This Way

Start at once to cut down dishwashing time. Buy a package of Super Suds today. Use it for dishwashing tonight. Check by the clock and see how much time you save. Notice too how Super Suds cuts down your soap bills. The big red package (kitchen size) costs but ten cents. And every soap bead dissolves completely—no waste. Your grocer has Super Suds.

Parting of The Ways

"America's Sweetheart" and Douglas Fairbanks, filmland's most famous couple, have parted. "Pickfair," their palatial Hollywood estate, built by love, is to be sold—and the heart of the adorable Mary, who has delighted millions on the screen throughout the world, is sad.

Just as in her own portrayals upon the screen, Mary Pickford's life has touched joy and sorrow. She has known the pangs of want in a humble cottage; she has experienced the regal splendor of living in a palace. She knows what it is to tramp the streets for a job. And she knows what it is to hear the plaudits of rich and poor alike . . . royalty and peasantry.

Hers has been a life of action . . . colorful . . . dramatic . . . intense. And now her story is to be told . . . a new and revealing story, giving a vivid account of that part of her life heretofore unknown, a story devoid of press agent heraldry, a story that will enthrall you with its sweep.

Mary Pickford's life story, beginning in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph next Sunday, will tell of her rise from a poor girl in Toronto to fame and riches . . . her romance and marriage to Douglas Fairbanks. It will reveal how she helped carry him to the higher steps of stardom only to see him prefer foreign lands and foreign friends while she sought home and happiness in America. All will be recounted in this fascinating and amazing true life story.

Don't Overlook This Fascinating Life Story of Reincarnation

Oh where the mighty voices that held sway,
The thund'ring orators of yesterday—
Who thawed the icy tentacles of speech,
And placed its magic warmth in mankind's reach,
Who raised the thoughts of dead eternity
And clothed their bulk in nude simplicity,
Who gave their all that futuure years might sing
A hymn to their unselfish offering.

Oh where the ringing songs of humble men,
Of men who lived and died and lived again,
Of men who sublimated all to life,

In Greenwich Village and in Union Square.

—Robert Marko.

Incidentally

Julius Tannen, who finally got in the radio recently, is the chap who cannot be distressed by hecklers. In "Vanities" once his routine was interrupted by a galleryite.

"What is this?" yelled the heckler, "amachoor night?"

"Yeah," said Julius, "wanna go on?"

There, Now!

David Freeman is supposed to have stifled a ham at a benefit performance the other night. It seemed that this actor strenuously objected to going on after an act featuring white mice.

"You're perfectly right," said Dave, "they may think it's an encore."

It Must Be the Sun

According to one of those silly movie mag interviews, George Raft is quoted (we prefer to believe he was misquoted) as remarking:

"I'd rather drive a truck than be a star!"

Oh, George, stop.

Dunn Good

Jimmy Dunn, one of the more affable screen guys, related this adventure while dining in a "clip" joint in Havana. Dunn unknowingly entered the shady spot, and proceeded to order for two. The dinner he ordered featured two roast ducks. The bill for which was $40.

"Hey!" squawked Jimmy, "what's this? Forty bucks for ducks—are they that scarce around here?"

Practical Joke

The newest wrinkle started by one of the city's more imaginative nuisances—is being done in several speakeasies by some of the better drinking citizens. If a call comes asking for "Joe" or "John" or anybody — the management, not wishing to disturb the party, who is busy spending, tells the voice:

"He isn't here. You may get him at Stuyvesant 9-2454."

The caller, of course, rings that number, which, sad to relate, is the residence of John S. Sumner, the prominent vice-crusader. The poor man, we hear, is being awakened at all hours and is becoming more or less disgusted with the whole business.

Don't you bother disturbing Mr. Sumner. It is probably a safe wager to make that his number has since been changed.

Newspaper Stuff

No gab about reporters is complete without a crack about "Red" Dolan, who jilted Park Row for Hollywood. There was the time Dolan, assigned to an Indian murder story near the Canadian border, wired the paper for expense coin—$500.

Nice to His Mother, Tho

When Mr. Taintor edited the old Globe he described a columnist as "the guy who invades everybody's department for his stuff on the paper—and makes everybody on the paper sore" . . . Life argued that a columnist was a person who really believed that his column is the first thing the readers turn to . . . J. C. says the columnist is a re-write man with a superiority complex . . . and one whose tag escapes us observed that a columnist is a louse who does his knocking after leaving the room instead of before entering it.

Haw!

Believe this or don't—but the publisher of one of the better New York newspapers told it to us himself!

It appears that during a recent week—two of his editors were on their holidays and their assistants were taken suddenly ill and confined to the ailing rooms. In sum, for the first time in the history of that or any other newspaper—it went to press all week without an editor, and gained 11,000 circulation!

Now, turn back to the above paragraph and read that pepigram credited to Life.

Heartbreak Town

Hollywood is appropriately called "Heartbreak Town," to hear some of the victims groan about it. Take the plight of Nicholas Coste, a Georgian, who in the movies in Germany was a tremendous success. Last year year Fox Films sent for him—they gave him a six months contract plus the usual option.

At the end of the six months during which he did nothing because of his faulty English, he was discharged. He came to New York, hoping to get a job on the stage. Finally, without funds, he landed a job with a rival movie company.

Lil Tashman Very Ill in Hospital

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31.—Only a few of Lilyan Tashman's friends realize how serious was the illness that sent her to the hospital, yesterday she received her second blood transfusion. Fearing to excite her, the doctors didn't even tell her about the first. They gave it to her while she was under an anaesthetic.

These transfusions don't mean that the star is in a critical condition, but she is very weak. As one of Hollywood's busiest socialites, Lilyan has led a strenuous life. Her deep sun-tan has given her the appearance of health and her slenderness has been attributed to fashion's dictate.

The star's room at the Good Samaritan Hospital is banked with flowers. A bowl of lilies of the valley and pink rose buds, just the size to fit the bedside table, is from Ed Lowe. Ed calls every afternoon long-distance and sends a wire every morning. He'll probably be back in Hollywood the first of the week.

* * *

A certain assistant director dresses foppishly and those who don't know him are apt to mistake him for a sissy. The other night at a Hollywood late spot, Chester Morris was trying to straighten a fellow out on the subject. The doubter asked:

"You mean to say he's tough?"

Chester exclaimed:

* * *

Some who think it is bad policy for husband and wife to play in the same picture have been criticizing Ruth Chatterton for demanding George Brent as her leading man. The lowdown on Ruth's attitude is not that she objects to other leading men, but that she wants her husband and herself to work at the same time so they'll be able to vacation together. The star registered strong objections when Warners summoned Brent from the mountains to take a part in "From Headquarters."

* * *

A perfect example of Hollywood's friendly-though-separated couples are Esther Ralston and George Webb. The only night Esther has been out since the newspapers carried the announcement of her marital rift was with Webb and her publicity man. The blonde star also lets her husband take care of her non-studio business affairs.

* * *

Hollywood Parade: You'll get a chuckle out of this. Toby and Pat Wing have a number of aviator boy-friends, so they have had a large letter "W" painted on the roof of their Beverly Hills home. . . . Joby Ralston showed such an improvement from her stay on the Arlen yacht that doctors may relent about her taking an extended rest in the mountains. . . . Funny. Some of our American stars seem to be having the time of their life in London while Leslie Howard, a born Englishman, writes of being extremely homesick for Hollywood, California sunshine and his friends in the film colony.

"'Broadway to Hollywood' will go down in entertainment history as the classic backstage story, the sincerest, deepest and truest yarn ever woven of the fascinating world of makeup and make-believe and the joys, heartaches, tragedies and triumphs of the men and women who spend their lives entertaining the world.

"The picture is a symposium of masterpieces. Every one who had a hand in the making of it seems to have surpassed himself or herself, beginning with that pair of incomparable troupers, Alice Brady and Frank Morgan, neither of whom have ever excelled their portrayals of the two Hacketts, from their first appearance at Tony Pastor's to Morgan's passing, on the sound stage in a Hollywood studio.

"Pages of enthusiastic commendation could be written about a hundred features of the picture and its individual situations and performances. "Broadway to Hollywood" is literally ablaze with talent, and the shrewdness of both the casting and the direction is shown in the fact that no player fails to score. All contribute just what was needed to round out a distinguished and powerful drama."

"Don't cry, dear, we're still good actors". (Alice Brady and Frank Morgan will grip your heart!)

Things I'd Like to Do Again

WHILE struggling for an idea for today's column, my mind wandered back to a series of articles that I published some years ago. The title was "Things I'd Like to Do Again," and I discontinued the series very abruptly because the columns were too tough to turn out. Another reason I stopped them was because the customers seemed to like them, which is strictly against the policy of this column.

Now, however, I feel that the time is ripe for another two or three columns along similar lines. I'm still in the hospital, and I have plenty of time to reminisce. So we'll try it once more. Here they are: "Things I'd Like to Do Again" . . .

* * *

Have my father reprimand me severely for wasting my time at a typewriter, and tell me that I'd never be a writer so long as I lived. (I mentioned the episode to him the other day, and his answer was — "Well, wasn't I right?")

* * *

Chase my first picture for a tabloid newspaper. (I spent an entire day in the wilds of Brooklyn, was almost pinched twice, got drenched in the pouring rain, finally walked into the office clutching the picture in triumph—and then they didn't use it.)

* * *

Take violin lessons from a gentleman whose name I vaguely recall as Mr. Vizansky. (Mr. Vizansky charged $4 an hour—and he always used up $3.85 worth of the time trying to find me.)

* * *

Walk with Gertrude along upper Broadway on a Saturday afternoon. (With a Variety in my pocket and a John Barrymore look in my eyes I thought I was a pretty hot number. I have since learned differently.)

* * *

Get my first shave—long before I needed it—in Mr. Breimer's barber shop. (I walked all over the neighborhood and was brokenhearted when nobody even noticed it.)

* * *

Write my first column once again for a newspaper. (There are those who say I've been doing the same one ever since.)

* * *

Stand in that historic and very beautiful spot in old Quebec, and try to forget all about Broadway and its characters. (The young lady who stood with me broke up my thoughts by asking if I didn't think it would be a wonderful spot for a night club.)

* * *

Buy and operate my first automobile. (It was an old Interstate, if I recall correctly, and I ran it for two years without a driver's license. I finally got a license and, on the first day, I was pinched.)

* * *

Have Mr. Edmund Breese, then a great matinee idol and star of "The Lion and the Mouse," attend a birthday party at my house. (I got into three fights in school the next day because none of the kids would believe me.)

* * *

Fall in love with my first chorus girl; a damsel in Andree Sherry's Revue. (She was as homely as Spark Plug—but she was a chorus girl. And that was all that mattered.)

* * *

Take my first Follies girl to dinner—and think it was wonderful when she spent $12 of my money calling up some other guy in Cleveland. (If my wife reads this column, I'm liable to be in the hospital another couple months.)

* * *

Be best man again at Al Jolson's marriage to Ruby Keeler. (Jolson hummed "Mammy" all through the ceremony, and the good doctor thought he was goofy.)

* * *

Act in my first amateur show. (I was the bold, bad duke who was always on the make—and I was unable to get my sword from the sheath as the enemy approached. I ran off the stage.)

* * *

Have a celebrated gunman tell me I was okay because I failed to run out of a Harlem speakeasy while shots were being fired. (He never did find out that I was too frightened to move.)

* * *

Gave an innocent young girl ten of my last twelve dollars in a night club so that she could go back to her dear old pappy and mammy in Virginia. (She was in jail in New York two days later for hitting her sweetie over the head with a gin bottle.)

* * *

Have Eddie Foy tell me that he just signed a two-year contract—the longest of his life—and that he didn't think he'd live to play it through. (He was right. He didn't see it half through.)

* * *

Attend my first Hollywood party. (The butler brought around a huge bottle of pure alcohol and asked me how I wished it flavored.)

* * *

Sit with Barbara Hutton Mdivani, one of America's richest women, beneath the trees on the peaceful island of Bali and have her tell me she was worried about money conditions in America. (She should be worried yet!)

* * *

Cover my first case in Federal Court. (During a recess, after weeks of testimony, I told the plaintiff that we newspaperman felt he had unquestionably won his case. He was overjoyed. Some ten miutes later, the judge threw both him and his case out of court.)

* * *

Take a solemn vow with Walter Winchell that whichever one of us dies first, the other would devote a complete column to a kidding obituary. (So far we're even. I've got a broken leg but he has more gray hair.)

* * *

Stand at a bar in Berlin with one of Germany's most influential men and have him tell me that Hitler's power has gone, and that he would disappear after the next election. (That was only nine months ago.)

* * *

Have a convict in a Louisiana prison camp write me a pitiful letter in which he begged for a subscription to my paper. (I plunked down some $12 for a year of daily and Sunday papers—and a week later, the convict escaped from the camp.)

* * *

Watch with strangely fascinated eyes the movements of a sightless and horribly mutilated leper in front of a little clubhouse for white men in the town of Makascar, in the Celibes Islands. (He earns his meager keeps by appearing there each day before luncheon—and the men toss him coins to have him go away.)

* * *

Tell a young man to forget about Hollywood just because he looked like Valentino, and to stick to his dancing. (George Raft simply refused to take my advice.)

* * *

There they are, my friends. Just memories. Things I'd like to do again . . .

Hollywood's latest enthusiast in the "back to the soil" movement is Baby LeRoy, year-old thespian. His ranch, purchased by his mother, and located 25 miles from Los Angeles, is said to be a self-supporting investment in addition to a playground. Truck farming is the plan.

HURRICANE THRILLS SHOWN

News Reel Presents Graphic Pictures Of Storm

One of the most spectatcular news pictures ever presented comes from Tokio, where the city's millions co-operate with the army in repelling an imaginary raid on the Japanese capital by enemy airplanes. First the entire city is enveloped in a tremendous smoke screen. Sirens scream the warning and thousands rush to cover. Anti-aircraft guns bark from roofs, imitation bombs explode in the streets and on the housetops. Clouds of gas—harmless now, of course, but which could easily be death dealing—fill the air. Then dead and dying in the streets are simulated as first aid is rushed to them. It is all so realistic that it is hard to believe that it is just a part of Japan's education of her people in preparedness.

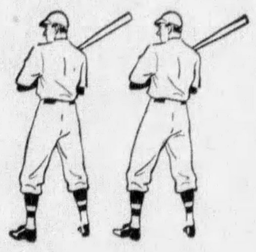
Equipoise, the wonder horse, is shown flashing in first to win the Hawthorne Gold Cup race at Cicero, Ill., to bring his winnings up to the astounding mark of $313,000.

From Long Beach, Cal., comes an exciting race between a fleet of tiny sloops competing in the Star boat regatta. Movie star outshines all the others.

(Note—Owing to the necessity upon the theater managers to arrange their programs in time schedules, it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.)



Alike in looks—but not results

ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH is a big league leader. In Pennsylvania, for instance, it has outsold every other gasoline by more than 2 to 1!

We think this is proof that people find extra quality and extra value in this fine motor fuel. We believe that most motorists can use it as satisfactorily as extra-priced gasolines, and save an appreciable sum on every filling of the tank.

GARBO COMING BY FAST EXPRESS

THOUSANDS OF EXTRA COPIES OF TRUE STORY MAGAZINE BEING RUSHED TO THIS CITY

Containing First Chapters of Garbo Story

"I consider this one of the greatest true stories that have ever been published, because it touches so deeply upon the hidden emotions of so many millions of women and puts the burden of defense up to so many millions of men."

BERNARR MACFADDEN

BECAUSE of the beginning of the Great Greta Garbo Story which it contains, True Story Magazine will be out four days early this month in order better to cover its extra distribution and the enormously increased demand.

Hundreds of thousands of extra copies are being rushed by fast express because practically every part of America and Canada are demanding more than their regular order.

Tonight the distribution of True Story Magazine will begin. Tomorrow morning it will be in the hands of eighty thousand newsdealers, newsstands and stores reaching from one end of the United States to the other and covering practically every city, town and village in the country.

So much for the demand for the True Life Story and the True Love Story of this silent woman who starts sixty million people to arguing whenever she appears on the screen.

Now for the story itself. The True Love Life of Greta Garbo gives the reason for the first time for the sixty million arguments about her. This is no mere sex story out of Hollywood! It deals with the very fundamentals of life and it handles the decision which every woman has to make between her great desire and her greater yearning.

Ready at all newsstands tomorrow, Friday, September 1st.

BUCS PREPARE FOR LONG STAND AT FORBES FIELD

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Harpster Turns to Grid. Steffen Will Help Later. Pirates Back Tomorrow. Cards Threaten Trouble. Birkofer Showing Class. Big Gate at Title Bout.

HARD JOB AHEAD FOR NEW PLAID COACH

With invitations to Carnegie Tech's football training camp issued to 32 players, Howard Harpster, who will step into the head coaching job at the Schenley Park institution this fall, is devoting less of his time to shooting golf in the seventies and more of it to the problems that will beset him when he starts practice next Tuesday. Graduate Manager Clarence Overend has greeted Harpster with the hardest schedule ever arranged for a Carnegie eleven.

Howard Harpster

The new coach catches a tartar in his opener on October 7 with Pop Warner's Temple aggregation, then somewhat of a breather in Xavier, and after that Notre Dame, W. & J., Purdue, Michigan State, Georgetown, New York U and Pitt come along as a succession of major foes unmatched in Skibo gridiron history.

That schedule would tax the powers of even the best balanced squad, and when graduation robbed Carnegie of George Kavel and Bill Sample, kingpins of the backfield and line, respectively, with no replacements near their ability in sight, the furrows in the young mentor's brows became considerably deeper.

MAIN PROBLEM AGAIN IN BACKFIELD

The biggest question mark at Carnegie again will be the backfield. None too impressive since the departure of Dutch Eyth and John Karcis, the offensive quartet was held into some semblance of order by Kavel's all-around brilliance. At least there will be some men of experience to fill out gaps in the line, but the backfield situation is such that Harpster already is planning to use Ken Spencer, fine Plebe center last fall, at one of the halfback posts.

If Spencer's speed and size can be used to advantage in the backfield, he will be a tremendous help. But if Ken cannot pick up backfield ways in a hurry, some absolute newcomer will have to go through.

The Tartan athletic offices expect Judge Steffen, who recently retired to the school's football committee from active coaching, to come to Pittsburgh about September 20 to advise Harpster and give his young pupil the benefit of his 20 years of experience at Carnegie Tech.

BUCS HOME TOMORROW FOR FINAL STAND

Tomorrow the Rovers will be back at their home grounds to begin their final stand, a stay that will be interrupted only by a couple of Sunday jumps until the club invades the West on September 22 to conclude the campaign.

While the race is not what local fans had hoped it would be at this stage, second place, at least, is within reach and it's up to the Bucs to keep hustling in every game. It will require some fast stepping to finish even that high.

CARDINALS MAY BE TOUGHER THIS TIME

Every other club in the National League except the Cubs will appear here during the Pirates' farewell home engagement. One game has been added to the list as the result of a New York washout that forced the transfer of a Giant tilt to this city. The first visitors will be the Cardinals, scheduled for a two-game appearance tomorrow and Saturday.

Frankie Frisch

So far, the Bucs have held a wide edge on the Redbirds. The latter have won only three games out of nine here this year, and the season's series as a whole stands at 10 games to six in Pittsburgh's favor. But the Missourians threaten to be more troublesome this time. Frankie Frisch has them on their toes for a sprint down the homestretch and they're certain to throw the best they've got against the Bucs.

FLETCHER BALKS AT HANDLING ALL-STARS

Arthur Fletcher, who helped Connie Mack run the American League club in the all-star game, was asked recently how he would like to be the manager of a team composed of Gehrig, Gehringer, Cronin, Foxx, Simmons, Ruth, Averill, Dickey and Grove. He said:

"I beg to be excused. I'd prefer to manage a lot of kids. No leader could tell that lineup very much. He'd be drowned in snickers."

Baseball men assert that there have been clubs so good that they didn't need managers. There were the old Baltimore Orioles, for instance, with McGraw, Jennings, Keeler, Kelley, Gleason, Doyle, Robinson and the rest. All that Ned Hanlon had to do was to tell them at what time the game would start.

YOUNG BIRKOFER LOOKS LIKE REAL GOODS

Ralph Birkofer surely has looked like the real pitching goods in his two appearances for the Pirates. Holding the slugging Phils to four hits in their own bandbox park stands out in particular as an exceptional feat of hurling.

It would appear that the Bucs could have profited by recalling the young left-hander from Toronto much sooner. But the local management argues to the contrary, holding that an earlier recall would have found Birkofer unripe and would have served only to retard his development. They figure he could not have got by in fast company without the control which he acquired by regular work in the minors under the smart coaching of Dan Howley, who seems to have done a swell job in this case.

VAN KLAVEREN FINALLY PRONOUNCED FIT

It took Bep Van Klaveren a long time to convince the doctors that the cut over his right eye had healed sufficiently to enable him, with safety, to go through with the match with Billy Petrolle that ended so unsatisfactorily in July. But he has passed the test at last and the show is set for September 27.

Incidentally, the Van Klaveren-Petrolle interruption, together with the recent action of a physician in stepping into the ring during the Gastanaga-Perroni bout to examine a cut over one of Gastanaga's eyes, has brought a decision by the New York Boxing Commission to enforce an old ruling. It prohibits doctors from entering the ring to examine fighters unless requested to do so by the referee or the commissioner in charge.

ROSS AND CANZONERI MAY ATTRACT $100,000

Boxing critics in New York are predicting that when Barney Ross and Tony Canzoneri meet in their return bout for the world lightweight championship at the Polo Grounds on September 12 the gate will run into six figures. The advance sale has convinced them that the receipts on the night of the fight will exceed $100,000, dwarfing the sum taken in at the first match at Chicago.

POLO BATTLE TO OPEN FAIR SPORT CARD

The first sporting event of Allegheny County's fair at South Park is scheduled for 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, when the polo teams of Rosslyn Farms and Monongahela cross mallets—that is, if rain doesn't interfere.

There will be a polo game every day of the fair except Saturday. Harness racing is scheduled on Labor Day and track and field, weight-lifting and amateur boxing are listed Saturday.

Soccer also is scheduled, together with a horse show, rodeo, dog show, aerial exhibition and fireworks, all within the infield inside the half-mile harness racing oval.

Saturday's track meet is set for 2 o'clock. The weight-lifting for 4 and the boxing for 6. More than 150 men and women athletes will compete in the track and field competition.

Today—Rosslyn Farms vs. Monongahela, 4:30 p. m.

Saturday—No game.

Monday—South Park vs. Charleroi Veterans, 3 p. m., and South County Park vs. Library, 7:30 p. m.

WOOD MAY FACE SECOND FOE

ALGONAC, Mich., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The possibility has developed that the Harmsworth Trophy race starting Saturday might see three boats instead of two in competition, the third boat joining Gar Wood in a defense of the prize, Horace E. Dodge, here to defend his Gold Cup title tomorrow, announced that if his Delphine V, a 29-footer, makes 95 miles an hour in a trial run on the Detroit River he will enter it in the Harmsworth.

Should Dodge decide to enter his boat, all he is required to do is to notify the race committee within two hours before the race that he wants to help defend the trophy. Under the rules, each competing country may enter three boats.

RENTNER TRIES RUGBY

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Pug Rentner, Northwestern's 1931 All-America halfback, and Fred Hovde, a Minnesota star of several years ago, will try a little rugby tonight as members of the Chicago Gobs against the Cambridge University Vandals.

CARDS SIGN YARR

HELEN DENIES SHE'S TO QUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Helen Wills Moody does not expect to be out of the world tennis picture for a long time to come. Neither does she regret her action in defaulting to Helen Jacobs in the national championship finals last week.

Smilingly agreeable and answering questions with willingness that contrasted sharply with her sudden withdrawal from the finals and quick departure from Forest Hills last Saturday, the stately young woman who ruled undisputed for seven years returned to her home yesterday.

Give up tennis? The deposed queen of the courts laughed as though the question was absurd. She said:

"Certainly not. That is, I hope I will not have to. I am going to rest for six months. If the doctors say I have fully recovered from this injury I shall play as much as ever. I love the game too much to give it up if I do not have to. My hope is I will be ready for the tournament season next year."

PIRATES MEET PHILS IN TRIP FINAL TODAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

With several of their first-string pitchers back at the home grounds, the Pirates today were fixing their fences for a September seige of Forbes Field which will continue through three weeks of the coming month.

Pitchers Larry French, Heinie Meine, Ralph Birkofer and Bill Harris arrived in town this morning. The sharpshooters were accompanied by Coach Honus Wagner, and Outfielder Adam Comorosky, who still limps on account of an ankle injury sustained about one month ago in Chicago.

BIRKOFER LAUDED

Wagner brought the players in from Philadelphia, where yesterday, the Buccos, inspired by the magnificent pitching of Recruit Ralph Birkofer, subdued the Quakers by the score of 5 to 1. Birkofer was reached for only four hits and would have had a shutout victory had it not been for Gus Suhr's muff of a throw in the last inning. It was the fifth straight victory for the Buccos and it raised them to third place.

Birkofer was the toast of his buddies as they reached the city. The 200-pound southpaw with speed and a fast-breaking hook has copped both of his games since he rejoined the club. Ralph made his major-league debut Saturday at the Polo Grounds. He achieved success on that occasion, although the heat forced him out before the finish. Yesterday in Philly he was a master of the slab.

GIANTS HERE NEXT WEEK

The Buccos will start their long series of games at the Oakland Orchard tomorrow, when the Cardinals invade the city. Single contests with the Redbirds are scheduled for tomorrow and Saturday. The Pirates will move to Cincy Sunday, but they will be back Monday to take on the Reds twice in annual Labor Day games.

The fur will start to fly in earnest Tuesday, when the league-leading Giants arrive. Although most persons have figured the Pirates as being practically out of the race, the opinion is not shared by the athletes themselves. They feel if they get the better of the New Yorkers in the coming series they will be in a good spot.

Scout Carleton Molesworth, of the Pirate staff, returned to the home office today after a long expedition which carried him through six or seven minor leagues. Molesworth was successful in landing Nick Etten, outfielder-firstbaseman of the Davenport (Ia.) club of the Mississippi Valley League, but he says that on the whole there is a scarcity of big-league prospects.

BIRKOFER TAMES PHILS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Recruit Ralph Birkofer pitched like a champion yesterday as the Pirates defeated the Phillies again. The score was 5 to 1. Birkofer allowed only four hits and richly deserved a shutout, the home team making its only run in the ninth on Suhr's error.

The young lefthander was as steady as a clock. He walked only one batter and he fanned five. Frank Ragland, also a recruit pitcher, was found for all of the Pirate runs in six frames. Tommy Thevenow, with four hits, featured the attack of the Pirates.

FOULS RULED OUT

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—It will take more than a foul decision to win Philadelphia's big heavyweight fight next month. The State Athletic Commission announced today that no foul decision will be permitted when Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight champion, meets Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, here on September 27.

BRAVES, GIANTS IN CRUCIAL FIGHT FOR LEAD

BOSTON HOLDS BIG ADVANTAGE IN HURLERS

Associated Press.

Baseball's deep and abiding passion, a truly "crucial" series, gripped Boston and the National League today as Bill Terry's New York Giants ran their pennant chances into the gauntlet of the second place Braves.

The Giants brought a full six-game lead to Braves Field, normally a discouraging outlook for the home folks, but it's been many a long and stormy season since any Boston club could thrill the faithful with a threat even that close.

They play six games in four days, and therein lies Boston's stoutest hopes. Terry's amazing pitching staff has been worked overtime beating off the Cubs, Pirates and Cardinals for the past two weeks, with the seams spreading wider each day.

BRAVES HAVE EDGE

Bill McKechnie's advantage lies in the fact that his strongest pitchers are rested and ready. He has Ben Cantwell, the league's leading hurler, for the single game today with Bud Parmelee, batted out of the box by the Cardinals Monday, his probable opposition. For two games tomorrow, the single game Saturday, and the final pair Sunday, he can rotate Ed Brandt, the veteran Tom Zachary, Fred Frankhouse, Huck Betts and probably Cantwell again in the second game of the final doubleheader.

Only Carl Hubbell, the brilliant southpaw, and Freddie Fitzsimmons, the fat righthander, have maintained their top pitching form for Terry in the bruising series just closed with the Cards.

Setting the scene for the start of today's big battle, the Giants outbelted the Cards, 5 to 4, yesterday. The Braves knocked down the Reds, 3 to 2, to even the series as Huck Betts turned in a neat five-hit performance.

BUCS PASS CUBS

The Pittsburgh Pirates edged almost unbeknownst into third place by two point margin through taking the fourth straight from the Phillies, 5 to 1, while the Cubs slipped to fourth splitting a doubleheader with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Charley Root edged Hollis Thurston to give the Cubs the first, 2 to 1, but Rosy Ryan, in relief, held the Cubs in the second as a rookie shortstop, Linus Frey, drove in four runs in the Dodgers victory, 7 to 3.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

Nick Altrock.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—I see the magnates are going to make the schedule even more intricate next year. Right after the Fourth of July, teacher will ring a bell and declare recess while the American and National League boys toss rocks at each other.

It might be a good idea, at that. In the course of a season you get tired of looking at the same old faces of the athletes on your own circuit. And the umpires, too. In fact, I get so tired of looking at the square-jawed mugs of the upmers on Mr. Harridge's loop that it would almost be a pleasure to squint at old Bill Klem's map for a spell.

And for us American Leaguers that troops around the same old eight cities year after year, think what a thrill it would be to glimpse such garden spots as Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh for a couple of days. In fact, I can't think of anything sweeter outside of a quinine pill.

OAKLAND DROPS RAY KREMER

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League has announced the release of Ray Kremer, former world's series star for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Kremer finished only one of the eight games in which he appeared for Oakland this year after being cut loose by the Pirates.

Schuster Victor Over Jimmy Jones

John Schuster, Linwood Club amateur heavyweight star, defeated Jimmy Jones, of the Krah A. C., in the feature bout of the amateur show staged by the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. on the North Side last night.

In the other bouts, George Martzo, 135 pounds, of the J. L. Thomas Club, defeated Joe Brody, of the Linwood Club, and Billy Marsh, of the Emerald A. C., defeated Jack Devine, of the Linwood Club.

GOLFERS CLASH AT HIGHLAND

By TOM BIRKS

Tomorrow the final round of play for the Western Pennsylvania team championship will be staged over the links of the Westmoreland Country Club. Highland is the defending champion.

Vincent Eldred, professional at the Highland Country Club; Ted Luther, of Valley Heights, and Sam Parks, Jr., professional at South Hills, left this morning for Hershey, Pa., to play in the 72-hole medal play tourney scheduled there tomorrow and Saturday.

Fight Results

At Laurel, Md.—Bob Godwin defeated Joe Knight, 10 rounds; Billy Strickler defeated Roy Bailey, 6 rounds; Pete Bevans won by a technical knockout over Carl Phillips, 4 rounds.

At Norfolk—Benny Bass defeated Stumpy Jacobs, 8 rounds.

At Los Angeles—Maxie Rosenbloom, world light-heavyweight champion defeated LeRoy Haynes, 10 rounds; Billy Papke, Jr., defeated Mickey McFarland, 6 rounds; Babe Triscaro won by a technical knockout over Joey Martin, 4 rounds.

MAXIE IS WINNER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—(INS.)—Maxie Rosenbloom, world light-heavyweight champion, stepped out of his class last night and gave away weight, but his cleverness won for him a 10-round decision over Leroy Haynes, Los Angeles Negro heavyweight.

SOCCER CONFAB SET

The Keystone Soccer League will hold its initial organization meeting next Monday night at the Rosie Club in Bridgeville. All of last season's members are requested to be on hand, and all teams wishing a franchise in the circuit are requested to attend.

BABE IS READY TO GIVE UP

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The habit of writing finis to Babe Ruth's baseball career, a popular winter pastime for years, now has extended to the home run king himself. He said yesterday:

"I guess I might as well hang up my spikes. I can't sign up as a player next year. The legs won't stand it. I might get by at first base, but not in the outfield. I'm through."

While the boys have been guessing him into the management of either the White Sox or the Red Sox next season, Ruth knows nothing about it.

SWIM MEET TONIGHT

Leading swimmers of the Pittsburgh district will compete in an open meet in the Clairton pool at 7:30 this evening. Two Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. titles will be at stake.

M'KECHNIE GETS LONG CONTRACT

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, has announced that Manager Bill McKechnie had signed a new five-year contract.

McKechnie, when he came to the Braves four years ago, told Fuchs he would need at least that much time to reorganize the club on a winning basis. He signed his new contract on the eve of the Braves' crucial series with the top place New York Giants.

Early in the season, long before the Braves started climbing, Fuchs announced that McKechnie could manage the club as long as he wished.

Earnshaw Asked To Stay Away From Park

Retired from American League competition for the rest of the year, Earnshaw disclosed he also has been specifically requested to stay away from Shibe Park and his teammates.

Coast Yachtsman Victor in Regatta

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Glenn Waterhouse, of San Francisco, saved the international star class yacht championship for the West yesterday, piling up 67 points for the series, by winning the fifth and final race with Three Star Two on a choppy sea.

BOOKS FACE TITLE CHANCE

The Books are listed to meet Homewood — what should be the final game of the City League second half title race this evening at Olympia Park. The Books must win this game to clinch the championship and the right to meet Dormont, first half champion, in the post-season series scheduled to get under way next Wednesday evening.

Seventh Avenue defeated Hazelwood in the final game of the Western Electric Mushball League, 20 to 11, last evening at the Taylor Allderdice Field.

SPEIGAL TO BOX

Joey Speigal, his injured back fully recovered, boxes Tug Phillips in a 10-round bout in Canton, O., tomorrow night and also is booked with Pee Wee Jarrell at Dover, O., on Labor Day.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Jack (Buck) McTiernan speaking . . . Telling about his return to the ring after a rest of some 10 months . . . Talking of his hopes for a return bout with Ted Yarosz, who used him as one of the stepping stones to his present eminence in the ranks of the middleweights . . . Says he:

"Why shouldn't I come back to the ring? . . . I've never really been away, just taking a vacation waiting for business to pick up, and when I read in the papers that they're drawing $21,000 gates, I guess the time is ripe . . . I've fought both Yarosz and Vince Dundee, who drew all of that money . . . And a lot of other good ones, too.

"I don't want to make any odious comparisons, and I think Yarosz is a very good fighter, but, in looking over his record, I see that he's 23 years old, my own age, and just coming into his own . . . And the best men he has fought are Dundee, Bucky Lawless, Tommy Freeman, Andy DiVodi and Sammy Slaughter . . . I fought all of these except Slaughter, and, in addition, Ben Jeby, Joe Dundee, Clyde Hull, Sergt. Sammy Baker, Farmer Joe Cooper and Ignacio Ara, and I boxed Vince Dundee three years ago, when I think he was better than he is now, in my ninth 10-round fight, when I weighed only 151 pounds against his 159.

"All told, I've had only 34 professional fights and Yarosz has had 70 . . . I was too young and green when I was fighting all of those stars . . . I had a number of them on the floor and couldn't keep them there . . . I realize I was a bit temperamental, too, and hard to handle . . . For the Jeby fight I wasn't even on speaking terms with my manager, Bunny Buntach . . . But I've got over all of that now and I will go seriously into my work in the future . . . Bunny and I have buried the hatchet, and I think I'm ready to go out and win and keep on winning, and before another six months are over you'll see another big fight in Pittsburgh between a new Buck McTiernan and Ted Yarosz . . . My last fight was with Lawless in Erie last November, and I won it . . . My fights with Jimmy Belmont? Who can explain them? . . . I licked fellows who licked him, but he was my jinx . . . Maybe some day I'll even the score . . . At any rate, keep your eye on me when I get going again."

Who was the best sprinter of all time? . . . If you ask Raymond A. (Butch) Carroll, of Coraopolis, who tied the world record of 6.2 seconds for 60 yards in an indoor meet in Duquesne Garden in 1914, he'll tell you without hesitation Howard Drew, the Negro flash. He saw Drew's heels no less than six times in as many races in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Lost in retirement through the years, Carroll now comes back into the public eye as a candidate on both the Democratic and Republican tickets for Sheriff of Allegheny County in the primaries next month . . . His has been an interesting history . . . He was running for Indiana Normal School when he equaled the world mark in that canival almost a score of years ago, and also played football for Indiana at the time Jimmy DeHart and Andy Hastings were starring for Kiski, Indiana's keenest natural rival.

From Indiana, Carroll went to Pitt, where he was a mining engineering student . . . He continued as a track man there and played one football game for Pop Warner in the latter's first year as coach of the Panthers, in 1915, but suffered a knee injury in that contest and had to quit football . . . When the war broke out he joined Col. Edgar Jadwin's 15th Engineers, along with Sunny Kesner and Alex Brunwasser, Carnegie Tech gridiron stars, and other athletic aces, and went overseas . . . Returning, he did not complete his studies, but went into business in Sewickley instead.

Frank Shea, the great quarter-miler and later track coach of Pitt, was one of Carroll's proteges . . . Among the stars Carroll raced against, besides Drew, were Ralph Craig, of Michigan; Alva Meyer and Donald Lippincott . . . His best story has to do with the time he was ordered released from a guard house in France to make a fourth man on his regimental relay team and also run the hundred in a service track meet, with the promise that if he won the charges against him would be squashed and if he didn't he would be returned . . . He probably broke all records that day, and his buddies cleaned up on their side bets. — HARRY KECK.

EXMOOR CLUB, HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Coming from behind after losing the first two holes, Enid Wilson, of England, took a 1-up lead over Charlotte Glutting, of West Orange, N. J., at the half-way mark of their 18-hole quarter-final match in the women's national golf championship today.

Miss Glutting, who upset the English champion at Salem in the quarter-finals last year, scored birdie 4s to start out with a 2-up lead, but couldn't win another hole as Miss Wilson fired back with two birdies and five pars and made the turn in 37, one over men's par. Miss Glutting scored a 38.

Equaling Miss Wilson's 37 on the front nine, Helen Hicks, of Inwood, N. Y., took a 4-up lead on Lucille Robinson, of Des Moines.

Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, defending champion, also was forced to come back to take a 1-up lead over Mrs. Leona Cheney, of San Gabriel.

Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., and Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, were all square through nine, each winning three holes with medal cards of 40.

McCann Resigns As St. Paul Pilot

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Emmett McCann, serving his first season as manager of the local American Association baseball club, resigned today, effective immediately.

Business Manager W. P. MacMicking said that McCann asserted he was dissatisfied with the way the team had been performing, and that his mother was ill in Philadelphia. The Saints were in Milwaukee today.

MacMicking said First Baseman Phil Todt was appointed to handle the Saints on the field during the rest of the season.

O'LOUGHLINS IN NATIONALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Drs. John and Dave O'Loughlin, P. A. A. stars, have been accepted as entries in the national men's singles net championship and will represent the Pittsburgh Tennis Association in the titular competition getting under way at Forest Hills Saturday.

Elmer Griffin, veteran San Francisco luminary, will be Dr. John's initial round opponent. The survivor of this fracas will encounter Leonard Wertman, Far Rockaway perfo[illegible]r, in the second bracket. Dr[illegible]ave landed a bye and will fight it out with E. Itoh, Japanese Davis Cup alternate, in stanza two.

Frank Broida, Harvard-Edgewood southpaw crack, yesterday added honors of the second annual Stanton Heights invitation man-to-man conclave to the Western Maryland laurels he bagged less than a fortnight ago. Broida downed Billy O'Loughlin, 8-6, 6-1, 7-5, in free-hitting duel before small gallery on the Heights lot.

Russ Unger, rangy Mount Lebanon racqueter, retained his South Park men's singles premiership by trimming Harry Wald, Pitt-Shannopin youth, 6-2, 6-3, 7-5, in wind-up of the District XI parks-playground tournament last evening.

GAIN SEMI-FINALS

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 31.—The annual Green County tennis tournament has reached the semi-final round of competition, with Frank Jamison, Victor Dewesse, Bill Dembo and Andy Waychoff remaining in the running for the title. Yesterday's results follow:

Frank Jamison defeated Dick Fritz, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2; Victor Dewesse defeated Jim Greenlee, 6-1, 6-1; Bill Dembo defeated Martin Dembo, 6-8, 6-2, 8-6; Andy Waychoff defeated George Berryhill, 8-6, 7-5.

DUKES READY FOR OPENING OF CAMP

By JESS CARVER

The Dukes go into football training tomorrow; Publicity Purveyor George (Whirlwind) Kelly has come out of hiding, and the annual Duquesne University gridiron roster sheet is making life miserable for the mailmen.

Whirlwind George, who, like others of his trade, goes into almost complete hiding during the summer, save to pop out unexpectedly from back of a polo pony or pop up from behind a bunker, has done a masterful job on his grid roster this year. It is a magnificent piece of work and must have caused Whirlwind to expend plenty of the old midnight oil. It's a few inches shy of the size of a 9x12 rug and contains all manner of information, save the dope on how the Dukes are planning to beat Pitt.

SCHEDULE TOUGH

Coaches Elmer Layden and Joe Bach will have a varsity squad of some 35 players on hand on the Bluff for tomorrow's initial workout. A tough 10-game card is ahead for the Dukes, all games to be played at Forbes Field save the Wash-Jeff encounter, which will be staged at Washington, and the contest with Pitt, booked for the Stadium.

The season opens unusually early, the Night Riders being slated to go to bat against Waynesburg's tough Yellow Jackets the night of September 15.

The Jackets, by the way, opened their training season yesterday, Coach Frank Wolf calling together a veteran squad, which figures to cut as wide a swath in tri-state circles as it did last year, when it captured the Conference title with a thrilling triumph over Geneva's powerful eleven.

PRO CAMP READY

Tomorrow evening, Pittsburgh professional stars will be herded to their training camp at Newell Grove, near Greensburg, by Coach Jap Douds and Business Manager Richard Corona Guy. They will remain there until time for their inaugural tilt with the New York Giants at Forbes Field the night of September 20.

All the pros have in store for their opening test will be a brush with Harry Newman, who almost single handedly beat the western stars in the all-star game in Chicago last week. A nice outlook, eh wot?

PARISH LEAGUES DISCUSSED

Plans for the formation of a Catholic grade school football league, the organization of a number of bowling circuits, and the banding together of parish basketball leagues were laid at a special meeting held at the St. Johns Lyceum last night, with Father Haber in charge.

The success of the inter-parish mushball league encouraged its sponsors to embrace other fields. Ten grade schools already have signified their intentions of entering the football conference.

At last night's meeting, dates were set for the post-season playoffs for the parish mushball championship. St. John's won the first-half title, but the second-half champion has not been decided as yet. The playoff will get under way September 14. A three-game series will be played.

PLAYER SUSPENDED

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Suspension of Jack Glynn, rookie Charleston outfielder, for the balance of the season has been ordered by President Elmer Dailey, of the Middle Atlantic League. The suspension followed an altercation in which Glynn struck Umpire Walker during a game between Charleston and Johnstown Tuesday night.

VINES BEATEN IN DOUBLES

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines' "comeback" trail continues to be full of unexpected bumps and hidden pitfalls.

Buffeted around in singles this year, Vines also is experiencing reverses in doubles in partnership with Keith Gledhill.

First it was the loss of their national title last week and yesterday it was their setback in the fifteenth annual East-West matches now under way at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club. Partially as a result of that defeat, the West, represented entirely by Californians, today had as dubious an outlook as Vines himself.

With three singles and two doubles matches to be played in the windup of the event today, the East had a 3-to-1 lead.

LOTT, STOEFEN WIN

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Short-legged George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, today started on his fourth term as a national doubles champion, a record equalled only by Bill Tilden since the abandonment of the challenge round, the dividing mark that separates ancient and modern tennis in this country.

Like Tilden, Lott's four titles were won with three partners, but George's feat appeared a bit more impressive than that of the Philadelphia super-star, for he teamed up with his latest partner, lanky Lester Stoefen, of Los Angeles, only two weeks ago at Newport.

Lott and Stoefen gained the title, held last year by Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, by conquering Frank X. Shields, of New York, and Frankie Parker, Milwaukee, 11-13, 9-7, 9-7, 6-3 in a three-hour match at Longwood yesterday.

McKeesport Coach Naming Delayed

The naming of a temporary successor to Bill Sullivan as football coach at McKeesport High School was deferred until next Tuesday by Dr. J. B. Richey, superintendent of schools, today.

Dr. Richey's meeting with the assistant coaches, scheduled this morning, was postponed until Tuesday, when school will be opened and the first football practice will be held. It is expected an assistant coach will be placed at the helm until the School Board meets to select a permanent successor to Sullivan. No date for this meeting has been set.

Thomas Beaten By Bobby Leitham

The bout was evenly fought through the first 10 rounds, with little advantage either way. Leitham put on a finishing drive that apparently caught the officials' eyes, as he landed the sharper, harder blows. Leitham's title was not at stake.

LOCAL SWIMMER PLACES SIXTH AT TORONTO

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Winning Canada's annual 15-mile swim in Lake Ontario was getting to be a habit today with Marvin Nelson, brawny distance champion from Fort Dodge, Ia.

He won the event for the second time yesterday, becoming the first man in the history of the grind to repeat. And in the bargain he clipped more than 19 minutes from the course record by ploughing the distance in 7 hours 37 2-5 seconds.

Nelson's victory enriched him by $5,000, the first prize. A half mile back in second place came Bill Goll, of New York, to win $1,500, with Frank Pritchard, of Buffalo winning third place and $700. Fourth place and $500 went to Harry Clancy, of Cincinnati, formerly of Pittsburgh, with Stanley Pritchard, brother of Frank, taking fifth and $200. Eli Radakovich, of Duquesne, Pa., won $100 for finishing sixth.

Zanesville Hurler Fans 18 Indians

ZANESVILLE, O., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Al Milnar fanned 18 batters last night, helping the Zanesville of the Mid-Atlantic League, to defeat the Cleveland American League club, 7 to 2.

Walter Johnson pitched the first four innings for the Indians and was touched for 10 hits. Averill hit a home run with Cissell on base in the seventh for the visitors' only scores.

Why Ford Is Balky: Plays A Lone Hand

By B. C. FORBES

HENRY FORD apparently is worrying President Roosevelt and NRA by his refusal to sign the automobile industry's code.

Mr. Forbes

He is an individualist of individualists. From the time he, solely by his own hands, made his very first car (over 40 years ago) he has played a lone hand. He is the only important auto manufacturer who has consistently refused to join the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Because of his make-up, apparently, it is impossible for him to be a team-player. His attitude toward other motor manufacturers is reflected by his own associates—although "associates" is hardly the right word to describe Ford executives; "employes" would be much more accurate.

It was James Couzens, before he became Senator Couzens, who made an observation to the effect that Ford wanted only people who would work for him, and that it was not possible for anybody to work with him. It was only one way of saying that Ford was, first, last and all the time, a czar.

But neither Recovery Administrator Johnson nor anyone else need fear that Henry Ford will not comply with NRA's demands regarding both hours and wages. Those of us who know Ford intimately confidently expect him very shortly to announce that he has gone NRA and the automobile industry "one better," probably one-and-a-half better.

He would do this even should it cost him money rather than throw in his lot with other automotive manufacturers. This, notwithstanding that money is a consideration with Ford.

That Ford will refuse to sign up is most improbable.

I WAS impressed by remarks made to me recently by President W. R. Angell, of Continental Motors. His viewpoint represents probably the majority of thoughtful business men at this epochal juncture in the nation's history. Said Mr. Angell:

"I feel very strongly that all of us should do our part and fall in line with NRA's efforts, which I believe are honest. Naturally, we are all apprehensive about the results, but believe that the present administration, with the help of everyone, can bring about conditions very much better than previously existed.

"Although the new order of things, which has been so dramatically introduced in one form or another, certainly presents many problems, I feel that we should not criticize what has been done with the honest object of improving conditions, but should ask ourselves whether, if things had been allowed to work out for themselves without any attempt at control, they might not have been worse.

"The declared intention of the administration is to secure the greatest good and well-being for the greatest number of our people. As long as we know that our government is put in by ourselves and is not in Italy and Germany, we should not grumble any more than is necessary. In any event, we have to go on living and most of us have to go on working. We can at least give thanks that we were not born in Russia.

"A British friend recently wrote me: 'In the end, we can only act as individuals—try to stay decent, keep our friends and keep on working to get somewhere. You remember the saying about money lost, little lost; friends lost, much lost; courage lost, all lost.'

"We have all lost money and perhaps some friends; but if we keep our courage we will certainly find a way."

Texas and Ohio Shooters Victors

CAMP PERRY, O., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—For the second consecutive year, a Texas-Ohio sharpshooting combination yesterday won the long range match for two-man teams, one of the featured events in the national small bore rifle championship tournament.

Thurman Randle, of Dallas, Tex., and L. A. Wilkens, of Norwood, O., scored 785 out of a possible 800 to best 32 teams. Randle accounted for 394 of the scores and Wilkens 391. The match was fired on the 100 and 200-yard ranges.

Father of Three Ball Players Dead

MINERVA, O., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Thomas J. Grimes, 66, father of three baseball players, two of whom achieved big league fame, died yesterday after a year's illness.

Once a baseball player himself, he was the father of Ray Grimes, former Chicago Cubs star; Rob Grimes, former New York Giant player, and Kenneth Grimes, who played with Toledo in the American Association.

NEW YORK—(INS.)—"There is nothing to do but face the facts. We will have to rebuild." That was all Manager Joe McCarthy of the proud New York Yankees had to say today as his team returned from its west'rn trip eight games behind the Wash'gton Senators.

ST. LOUIS.—(AP.)—Paul Dean, strikeout king of the American Association and kid brother of Dizzy Dean, spectacular Cardinal hurler, has been bought by the St. Louis National League Club from its Columbus farm for delivery next spring.

ERIE. — (AP.) — Peter Zane, horse owned by George Thayer, N. Y., dropped dead just as it placed second in the third heat of a 2:25 pace at the Wattsburg Fair yesterday.

CHICAGO—(INS.)—Pete Knight, of Calgary, Alberta, today was leading the broncho riders in point standing at the World's Fair rodeo with a hich total of 1,933 points for five days of competition.

DIXIE GIRL IN FINAL

HAVERFORD, Pa., Aug. 31.—(INS.)—Patty Kilmartin, 14-year-old Miami youngster who entered the tourhament as an "unknown," and Helen Jones, of Boston, a more experienced player, will battle for the second annual Merion Cricket Club open tennis championship for junior girls at the club here this afternoon.

STOCKS SHIFT IN NARROW RANGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Preholiday apathy brought trading in the security markets almost to a standstill today and prices generally shifted about lazily over an extremely narrow range.

Stocks started out with a mild rally, led by the alcohols, but the moderate upward flurry was of brief duration and most quotations soon drifted back to around their levels of yesterday. Many operators had already left town for the protracted week-end and those who remained found little to inspire them to doughty deeds. Wheat was a trifle heavy at one time, but other grains and cotton fluctuated in unimportant fractions. The dollar sagged a bit in foreign exchange dealings, but there was no pronounced pressure against the American currency. Bonds moved listlessly.

Shares of National Distillers got up some 4 points at one time, and those of Schenley, United States Industrial Alcohol and American Commercial Alcohol advanced 1 to 2. Homestake Mining gained 5 and Alaska Juneau was slightly higher. Small gains were recorded by Case, United States Smelting, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, Western Union, Chrysler and United States Steel. Liggett & Myers B was somewhat heavy, and issues of Du Pont, New York Central, General Motors and others eased.

While there were a few technical readjustments of accounts and "evening up" operations reported, in preparation for the three-day recess beginning Saturday, there were no indications of any extensive liquidation. At the same time most traders were said to be maintaining a neutral position with the idea of waiting until after Labor Day to see "which way the cat jumps."

Preliminary estimates of the freight car loadings report for the week ended August 26, which appears the last of the present week, forecast a small but contra-seasonal decrease. A moderate decline, however, would not be surprising to Wall street owing to the recent relaxation in several lines of industry.

Late August and early September earnings of some of the leading industries, it is believed, may show a lower trend due to the fact that confusion still exists over the working of a number of the NRA codes. The financial district hopes the situation may be sufficiently clarified by the end of next month to permit a broad resumption of the forward movement.

Renewed interest in the alcohol group was attributed partly to reports from Washington that, in view of the trend toward prohibition repeal, the authorities will [illegible] legitimate distilleries to [illegible] at peak production at least until final disposition of the Eighteenth Amendment.

COTTON PRICES TAKE DIP

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—There was some selling of cotton here through houses with continental and Bombay connections at the start, while there was also a little pressure from the South, but the offerings were moderate and the market was a shade steadier after the call on covering and trade buying.

December contracts after selling off to 9.59, rallied to 9.61 with the general list showing net declines of about 2 to 5 points at the end of the first half hour.

Trading continued quiet with fluctuations narrow. At midday December was ruling around 9.61 and May 10.05 with active months showing net losses of about 4 to 6 points.

State Cigar Plants Work Under NRA

YORK, Pa., Aug. 31.—(AP.)—The end of the week will find the 167 cigar plants of Central and Southeastern Pennsylvania in operation with adjustments made for participating in the NRA program, to which, said C. M. Ehehalt, of the Manufacturers' Association, all have pledged support.

VALLEY STEEL PAYROLLS ON UPGRADE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 31.—A sharp increase in payrolls of Youngstown district steel plants during the last seven weeks shows the extent of the business climb effects of the steel code.

Failure of steel output to hold in the last few weeks has enabled steel plants here to operate without hiring quite as many men as expected when the steel code was first discussed. It was originally estimated that 6,000 additional men would be required in steel plants here under the steel code's 40-hour week provision. Approximately 4,000 men have been hired; the employment movement has slowed down temporarily.

Republic Steel Corporation has hired 2,200 men for its Youngstown plants since July 1 and 1,380 at its Warren plants since May 1, making a total of 3,580 men recalled by this company in the Youngstown district alone during the last four months.

While the sharp increase in business following the depression low point of last March forced recall of most of Republic's workers, a large number have been called because of work-sharing preceding signing of the steel code. The company still is hiring men, but at a slower rate.

Other Youngstown district steel companies show smaller employment gains. Carnegie Steel Company estimated three weeks ago 600 men would be needed at 75 per cent operations here to place into effect the 40-hour week.

Reserve Bank Report To Show Broader Bond Buying

In view of the fact that the $35,000,000 of government bonds which were bought last week by the Federal Reserve Bank were acquired in about two days, the belief is expressed that today's statement will show that buying during the past week was on a substantially larger scale in furtherance of the administration program to force easier credit conditions. No official figures are available, but those who follow closely the reserve policies are of the opinion that today's report may disclose purchases of from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000. As far as the rediscount rate is concerned no change is expected. Those in position to know the facts hold that with the bond buying program in full swing there is no use of complicating the situation by the useless gesture of cutting the bank rate.

Confusion over the operation of the codes is still an important factor in a number of industries and the Street believes that in some cases it will affect late August and early September earnings. Furthermore, certain industries which were subjected to an abnormal buying wave several months ago in anticipation of the code are said to be showing a letdown in business. This is regarded as temporary.

Bears and bulls drew different conclusions from the fact that several leading issues had a rather wide and thin market on either side. Those trying to sell a few hundred shares of stock found bids from a quarter to a half below the market and for only a limited amount of stock. Similarly buyers at the market were displeased to have to pay up substantially for even small commitments and the offerings in most cases were light. Bears naturally referred to this as a sign of weakness and probable recession prior to a resumption of the forward movement, while those more optimistically inclined held that when the apparent scarcity of stocks was fully appreciated, a concerted buying movement would result. With the public so firmly on the side lines, it looks like a stalemate until some important development shakes the speculative fraternity out of its lethargy.

A situation by no means unusual existed today in which a large percentage of the floor traders were inclined to be extremely cautious and slightly bearish on the near term prospects of the stock market, while at the same time buying of excellent caliber was in progress in a number of issues. From the floor traders' viewpoint the lack of public interest and the difficulty of trading in such a dull market probably were sufficient to account for the slightly sour note sounded from that quarter.

The New York Stock Exchange has approved listing of the securities of the five companies formerly comprising Drug, Inc., dissolved by stockholders' vote early this month. The new stocks are Bristol-Myers Company, Life Savers Corporation, Sterling Products, United Drug, Inc., and Vick Chemical, Inc. Trading in these issues will not begin until such time as the certificates have been distributed, probably in a week or 10 days. There will be no "when, as and if issued" trading in the securities on the Exchange in the meantime.

Announcement that directors of Armour & Co., had decided to withdraw the plan of simplifying the company's capital structure will avert another set-to. A second meeting of the company's security holders is scheduled for tomorrow, but it will be only routine. The real nub of the trouble in the Armour refinancing proposal was that Class A and Class B security holders would have had to make a distinct sacrifice in their voting position in the company.

HOLIDAY DULLS CURB TONE

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Pre-holiday dullness afflicted the curb market today. Dealings were extremely light and price changes narrow, symptoms that usually appear prior to a vacation. The suspension of activity this week-end is to extend from Friday's close to Tuesday morning, and many traders are already leaving town.

With volume so sharply reduced, the movement of prices had little or no significance. Many favorites traveled a fractional range, though a few inactives responded to a thin market with wider changes. The list had a firm undertone, however, and most fluctuations took the upside.

Oils, in response to developments which Wall Street hopes will be effective in solving the industry's problems, tended higher. Standard of Indiana rising a point. There was little activity in the group, however. Liquor shares were firmer after their recent reaction and metals also improved moderately. Utilities maintained a steady course.

MOFFETT SEES OIL RECOVERY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—A sturdy base from which the oil industry can build upward out of chaos to profitable stability was the view that James A. Moffett, administration aide, took today of the trade code under which the petroleum world will function after Saturday.

Moffett, whose membership on the committee to govern the industry was announced formally by President Roosevelt yesterday at Hyde Park, New York, recently gave up his $100,000 a year job as vice president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to help answer oil's problems.

Moffett said:

"I think this code and committee will speed the stabilization of the industry, and I am happy at the opportunity to help carry it out.

"It will put the industry on a sound basis, and I believe it will be so strong that it will be able to stay there with little difficulty, and meet its increased costs of labor."

DUTCH LIKELY TO KEEP GOLD

Amsterdam, Holland, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—Despite numerous difficulties, Dutch banking circles consider it very improbable that the nation will go off the gold standard.

There probably will be a deficit of 500,000,000 to 700,000,000 guilders ($278,000,000 to $389,000,000 at present exchange) in next year's budget, and it may be necessary for the government to negotiate a loan. In addition other financial and commercial difficulties are influencing Dutch currency unfavorably.

Foreign speculators continue their attacks on the guilder, but, as Holland has overcome more fierce attacks in the past, the public and the bankers indicate confidence that the currency is in no danger.

Despite an increase in bank notes in circulation, the gold cover of the Nederland Bank remains as high as 78.30 per cent.

MISSOURI LIFE PROBE LOOMS

International News Service.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 31.—Congressional investigation of the conduct of the former Inter-Southern Life Insurance Company and of affairs of the Missouri State Life Insurance Company loomed today.

J. Dan Talbott, Kentucky state auditor, said he would demand a Congressional probe into affairs of the Missouri Company, located at St. Louis, and that conduct of the Inter-Southern Company also would be investigated if his request was granted.

The Inter-Southern Company, Louisville, was reorganized more than a year ago as the Kentucky Home Life Insurance Company.

Talbott said the investigation would be asked when Congress convenes in January.

He declared he might present his case against the management of the Missouri company through Kentucky Congressmen or Senators, and added:

WARD HOLDERS FORM GROUP

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Officials with fundamental experience in the mail order business was the goal today of stockholders of Montgomery Ward & Co., who have filed incorporation papers at Springfield for a stockholders' association.

Headed by Joseph Zook, San Francisco industrialist and former ward treasurer and director, the incorporators announce they will inaugurate action immediately to seat as directors men of the association's choosing, qualified by actual experience in mail order, retail merchandising and manufacturing lines for the protection of the "mutual interests of the stockholders."

Cleveland Company Bought by Cord

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(AP.)—L. B. Manning, vice president of the Cord Corporation, headed by E. L. Cord, today had announced that the company had purchased the capital stock of the Smith Engineering Company, of Cleveland. The Smith company holds the exclusive license to manufacture, use and sell the Smith controllable pitch propeller for airplanes.

pair of sweepers in that column would steam up and take the lead. As fast as one pair of ships was blown out of commission, there was another pair behind it, to take up the task.

Thousands upon thousands of fathoms of sweepwire were blown away every day. And that seemed our only remaining worry. Both British and American mills were producing special wire for us at their maximum capacities, but still the supply was inadequate.

Busy Days

By the middle of August, when we first tried the longitudinal method of sweeping, a little more than half the barrage had been cleared away. The best part of the summer was now gone. The days were rapidly growing shorter.

We had lived on the mine field for a good many months, with only a few hours ashore on rare occasions, but every officer and man in the Suicide Fleet was determined not to quit until the last mine in the North Sea had been accounted for.

When time came for the annual examinations of enlisted men, for higher ratings, we precedingouldn't even take time out for code. That, but got the promotions men, but a the same.

Other Y he examinations are usually companied in port, but we couldn't spare the time. Nor could we transfer the examination candidates from their various minesweepers to the flagship, to appear before an examining board, for a storm was raging at the time. So, that new invention, the radio telephone, with which each sweeper was equipped, was used.

Each candidate for examination sat at a desk on his own ship and was asked questions and answered by radio telephone.

Sailors Loyal

Aside from the delays caused by the gales which bore down upon us with increasing violence and frequency, work on the second half of the mine barrage progressed swiftly. Progress was made only through the rare loyalty of the sailors.

We were using up sweepwire and kites faster than they could be supplied, as I've said, and when a long day's work on the mine field was over, and all hands and hearts ached for sleep, it was often necessary for one vessel, whose kites and wire had all been expended, to plunge alongside one of the more fortunate ships, and divide the remaining lot of sweepgear.

The day's sweeping was fatiguing enough, but after a day of it, to have to spend part of the night, and somttimes ALL of it, getting ready for the next day's work, was a terrific tax on the most willing of crews.

It was now a critical season af the year. The equinoctial storms would begin within a few days, and after they had descended upon us from the North, the winter weather would set in upon the North Sea with such fury that it would be impossible to finish the job until another year and we all wanted to get home. Every minute must be saved.

"How many of you can be ready to go out again in 24 hours?"

It was a heart-breaking question, after 39 stormy days and nights at sea, but every ship in the fleet, except three that were virtual wrecks, hoisted an affirmative signal.

Work in Hurricanes

The following weeks were weeks of misery for the sweepers. Storm followed storm in quick succession, and each new gale piled the seas up higher and higher.

For a brief breathing spell, the fleet sought shelter on the lee side of Sanday Island near the coast of Norway, but many a heavy anchor chain snapped like cotton twine.

In Kirkwall, two of the three sweepers we had left behind were blown ashore. A great British transport, bringing soldiers home from the North Russian expedition was wrecked on a reef, and some of us went to her rescue.

In spite of the hurricanes, we kept on sweeping. It seemed incredible that the tiny sweepers could actually be working as they perched for a moment, like a seagull, on the crest of a mountainous wave, and then completely disappeared from sight as they slid sidewise into the deep valleys of the seas—pitching and rolling sometimes as much as 50 degrees to port and starboard—and 50 degrees is more than half-way over.

The nights were worse than the days, for then it was necessary to lie to, just off the edge of the mine field and wait for morning. The deep water, the soft bottom and mountainous seas made a poor anchorage. It was impossible to anchor for the night.

We tried to keep a marker buoy in sight by playing a flickering, sputtering searchlight on it, as the little ship plunged and rolled and drifted, for it was imperative that we know our exact position in the morning.

You will remember the laugh we had on the Flamingo after such a night, when she stood faithfully by a buoy, only to find the next morning that the buoy was adrift, and she'd followed it for 20 miles, through the darkness and storm.

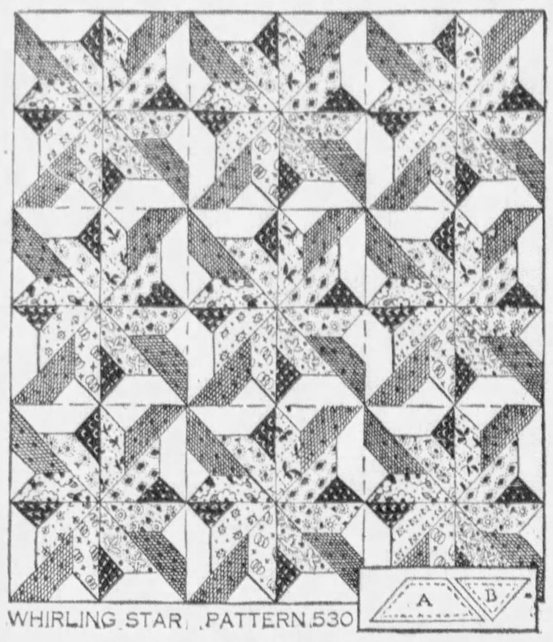
At last, after months of explosions and storms and casualties to ships and men, and in all that time there was never a murmur, never a complaint, our efforts were rewarded.

The Patuxent and the Patapsco, who had marked the mine field for us with a series of buoys, planted the last marker near the coast of Norway, and we were close upon her heels. As the indomitable little sweeper reached the last buoy, the goal of a long year's ambition, the end of a mine field as long as from New York to Boston, as the sturdy sweepers, pair by pair steamed past the final buoy and hauled in their sweepwires for the last time, a flock of hats flew up from every ship, steam whistles and screaming sirens were tied down and a radio operator with a sentimental spirit rigged a phonograph to the fleet's radio telephone system and regaled the sweepers with the strains of "Home Sweet Home!"

And so the mighty wall of mines 250 miles long—70,000 sensitive spheres of TNT that had baffled the enemy's submarines and brought the World War to a close, was cleared away. The Navy's obligation to humanity—to the Freedom of the Seas—had been fulfilled.

Tomorrow: "Mystery of the Cyclops." Lieut. Hays tells of the mysterious disappearance of a giant Naval vessel and her crew of 300, and offers his solution.

TWO-PIECE PATTERN



WHIRLING STAR, PATTERN 530

By LAURA WHEELER

The Whirling Star is one of those quilts that has always delighted the quiltmaker's heart. When finished, it forms a beautiful and seemingly intricate pattern that invariably arouses admiration. Actually, it is made of but two very simple pattern pieces that, joined in a simple arrangement, form a block that is among the easiest to do. Added to this is an economical feature—it is made to the greatest part of scraps of material, which, while adding interest to the making, form a colorful quilt.

Pattern 530 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

Today we are going to print several of them. Lots of them are full of good ideas, and almost every captain has more good news about his patrol, the good times they are having and the many ways they are finding to help others.

Don't forget, fellows, that we want news for the Mail Box all the time. If you have something to say to all the members, write us a letter and tell us. And if you draw cartoons, pictures, or can sing or play we would like to know about it.

Here's an interesting letter from Sidney and David Siegel and Harry Segall, all of 3151 Breckenridge street, Pittsburgh. They say:

"We have heard so much about your club that we wish to join it. In the Segal families there are already two members, and we three boys don't want the girls to beat us. Harry's sister, Rae, has been elected to be captain of our patrol. Please send Rae her captain's button and instructions for this office. Her address is the same as ours. She was the one that induced us to join this wonderful club."

Indeed we would like to send Rae her armband, fellows, but we don't have 10 pledges from members of her Patrol yet, and that is one of the rules, you know. But we're sure that you have many friends you would like to ask to join. Let us know when Rae has been elected by at least 10 membrs.

Adele Rodina, of Box 899, Hollidays Cove, W. Va., writes:

"We have started a Junior Patrol and I have been elected captain. We have 11 members. They all live in West Virginia except me. I live in Pittsburgh. I am on my vacation in West Virginia. I am sending 10 pledges. We have started a library and are going to study butterflies. We are going to send a food basket to any of our members when they are sick. Our club colors are orange and black."

Your armband will soon be on the way, Adele. We have just been thinking—when you come back to Pittsburgh, wouldn't it be a good idea for the members who live in West Virginia to elect a new captain? Then, when you come back to Pittsburgh you can form another Patrol club here at home. That's a wonderful idea to send a basket of fruit or flowers to your members who are ill.

Pauline Bell, of Grindstone, Pa., has six members in her club now. She only needs four more to get a beautiful armband.

A letter inclosing a badge and a membership card for Thomas Friered, of 1519 Heaman street, Pittsburgh, didn't reach him, and the postoffice sent it back to headquarters. Any one knowing where Tom lives please let us know.

Helen Kleber, of 4032 Howley street, Bloomfield, sends 10 pledges and says in her letter that her club has two banks for dues—one for boys and one for girls.

Shirley Walton Davis, of 248 Vernon Court, Sharon, Pa., is a new member who wants to start a Junior Patrol club. She has been reading the Mail Box and became so interested that she told her mother that she was going to start a club. When you have been elected by 10 registered members, we will send you a captain's armband, Shirley.

Eugene S. Schrecengost, of Box 103, R. F. D. 1, Leechburg, Pa., sends a dandy drawing of the boys in the boat going down the river.

Lawrence Madden, of East Brady, doesn't send any pledges for all of his friends who want to join the Junior Patrol. If you can't get pledges, copies of the pledge will do just as well, you know.

Pete Walsh, of 468 Francis avenue, Monongahela, Pa., sends in only three pledges and has enough other friends who want to join to start a patrol. Copies of the pledge are O. K., Pete—send in all you want.

Leo Szwedko, of Box 469, R. F. D. 2, Sharpsburg, sends in one more pledge and a cartoon.

"IF THE SHOE FITS—WEAR IT!"

Aunt Bella Turns on the Wolves at Her Heels

By Aunt Bella

I am asked many puzzling questions by pauper, by prince and by those Who consider my answers of value more precious than gold, I suppose.
And yet, after all, I am human—I make no extravagant claims,
You'll never catch Aunt Bella saying, "I'm smarter than some other dames."
However, it goes without saying that to hold the position I've got
A dame cannot be just as umchay—in fact she must know quite a lot.
It therefore behooves all my readers (who stop long enough to reflect)
To treat one that's in my position with proper regard and respect.
Let's have no more venomous letters like some I have recently seen
If you cannot refrain from indulging in insults more bitter than gall,
'Twould be better, my friends, if you didn't write to Aunt Bella at all!
My motto is, "Live and Let Live, Boys!"—and henceforth I'll say 'twould be grand
To trade in your hammers for horns, boys, and give Aunt B. a big hand!

But all in all, there's probably nothing that adds more to the charm of life than a door bell out of order.

JOY IN HOUSEKEEPING

By Winifred Black

"Yes," she said, "I've a bit of experience keeping house.

"I've lived in a queer old London house with a scrubby little garden, one bathroom, not so very good, an out-of-date kitchen, four maids, a butler and a chauffeur to do the work that one good old-fashioned colored man would do here in America and call it a map.

"I've roosted in a Swiss chalet. I've had a villa on the Riviera, with bougainvilla all over the place and roses and heliotrope running wild.

"I have lived in a California bungalow and existed in a smart New York apartment with a door man in livery and an elevator boy, hotel service and all the rest of it.

"I have idled away a long summer in an Adirondack camp with a birch bark canoe and an Indian guide and what have you. Why I've even been 'intellectual' in a high shouldered, New England house—white of course, with green blinds and a fan light over the front door.

But the finest housekeeping I ever had in my life was when I kept house in the woodshed. I was somewhere between 10 and 11 years old, and I didn't care for the way things were going at home.

My mother had been dead for many months and I just couldn't get used to the house without her. Every time I went into the old-fashioned sitting room and saw some of the plants she used to love, withered and dying, I had to go somewhere and have a crying spell.

My aunt came to live with us and I didn't like her. I thought she made too much of a fuss over my father.

"I never seemed to be anything to her but dad's daughter. I wasn't a person at all and I got so tired of 'don'ts and does' that I made up my mind that I wasn't going to live in the house at all, any more.

"We had a perfectly good woodshed with all the old fishing boots and rods, and things in one corner, and I made up my mind that that woodshed was the very place for me and my cat, my dolls and books—and into the woodshed I went.

"I picked out a corner for my house.

"I swept and cleaned and dusted and I lugged my own little rocking chair down the back stairs and put up a curtain at the window of my corner, and then I built me a little brick stove with an oven and everything. I built it all myself.

"And I cooked on that stove and the things that I cooked tasted all right.

"My father was away when I moved into the woodshed, and when he came home again I invited him to dinner with me.

"I had ham and eggs, and for dessert some preserved figs.

"I preserved those figs myself. I didn't have any fruit cans to put them in, so I just climbed up on the old-fashioned sideboard in the real dining room and took two dozen whiskey glasses from the top shelf of the sideboard, I preserved one fig in each glass, covered it with parrafin and there you are.

"When I served my father a fig in a whiskey glass he laughed—but he looked as if he really wanted to cry.

"When my aunt went away I came back into the big house, but I was never quite so happy there again.

"I liked my little house in the woodshed, and I liked the things I cooked on the little brick stove I made myself."

The pretty woman sighed.

"I wonder why I have never been quite so happy anywhere again," she said.

I wonder, too—don't you?

Things Haven't Changed Any

We can't see what all this dope agitation is about on the race track. Say, way back in 1870, a hoss wouldn't run anywhere except toward the red and green lights.

Mules used to balk in front of drugstores too. When Richard offered his kingdom for a hoss he knew he would find a needle in the saddlebags.

Every time a hoss sneezed in front of the judge's stand he would cough up three bushels of sponges, a yard of chamois and a windshield wiper. The jockey always carried a bucket of water. Any place he got off he could go into the window washing business.

Long about 1914 we used to drop into Phil Jolly's beer saloon across from the Long Island station in Brooklyn. Phil was so old then that salt wouldn't save him. He talked about the old needle days on the jungle tracks.

"They would put so much dope into a nag," said Phil, "that he thought the blue grass of Kentucky was pink and white kitchen linoleum.

They had to time the treatment. If a race was postponed 10 minutes the doped goat would dig a hole in the track under the impression that his grandmother was a ferret. He would tunnel right in for the winter.

"I bet on a hoss once that ran six times around the track winning a different race each time. He had enough chemicals in him to blow up a boiler. They couldn't stop him and had to declare him in on every race. The jockey would still be on him if the hoss hadn't tried to run under a low bridge. The hoss ran all night and showed up for the first race the next day. He won that one too. But, at the finish line he did a double-front somersault and laid there with his legs curled up like a roach in a sink.

"One of the kindhearted judges came down out of the signal tower and gave him a hypo to put him on his feet again. Nobody suspected that judge's honor of integrity. We cleared him when he proved that he borrowed the needle off another judge. We let the matter drop. Under our code of ethics you could only accuse one man at a time."

Big Democratic Gains

The Democrats, heartened by the tidal wave of last November which swept President Roosevelt into the White House, are making the most determined effort of years to gain control of the city government of Pittsburgh.

But tidal waves are generally followed by a backwash, and in the reaction part of the gain is lost.

The impending registration of the citizens for the primary election accordingly is awaited with keen interest. Will there be sufficient of an increase in the Democratic registration to justify the hope of success in the November election?

If Philadelphia can be taken as a sign the Democrats have every reason for optimism; for on Tuesday, the first of the registration days there, one-third of the voters registered as Democrats, as against only one-eighth on the first of the registration days last year.

It looks as though the tidal wave were still rolling.

No Coercion

City Employes May Withhold Campaign Contributions Without Fear of Retaliation.

In view of Mayor John S. Herron's repeated assertion that city employes are not to be forced to contribute to the campaign fund of the regular Republican organization, demands for contributions that may be made by subordinate officials need not be taken seriously.

A Republican ward chairman is charged with having called upon the city employes living in his ward to provide money to pay the poll taxes of indigent citizens. The poll tax was purposely reduced so that it would be unnecessary to ask for help in paying it. And furthermore, of course, the chairman was proceeding in direct opposition to Mayor Herron in asking for the contribution.

The Mayor says he cannot be held responsible for the words of an over-zealous minor official, and implies that city employes can reject demands like this without fear of retaliation.

Homes Becoming Fewer

The Weakening of Family Influence Is Seen in Statistics Compiled at Harrisburg.

Great social changes are taking place before our eyes; others equally important are less evident. Dr. Emlyn Jones, chief in the division of vital statistics at Harrisburg, calls attention to one of the latter in a statement concerning births and marriages in Pennsylvania.

While there were 220,462 births and 83,865 marriages in 1920, the figures for last year are 168,533 births and about 86,000 marriages.

Dr. Jones sees in the decline in marriages and births a loss in homes and families, and is disturbed by the destruction of their influence. He sees the possibility that the population without roots may soon be in the majority.

We agree with Dr. Jones that this would be undesirable and would specially handicap the younger generation.

But we will be very much surprised if marriages, births, homes and families do not increase when prosperity returns.

Venom in the Campaign

Voters should be wary of letting themselves be influenced by nasty insinuations against the candidates, based on nothing more substantial than mere suspicion, and especially when the insinuations are uttered, not by responsible officials but by irresponsible underlings.

We have in mind these remarks, made by a ward chairman in a political speech a few days ago:

"Our candidate did not vote to keep Oliver avenue narrow, and then have his son get $250,000 insurance from the William Penn Hotel.

"Our candidate is not backed by a man who was indicted for selling out the Pittsburgh Life and Trust Company."

This is "old stuff" and unworthy of consideration. The two men concerned have both been before the people of Pittsburgh since the charges were first made, and the people have expressed confidence in them by electing them to important positions.

There are two sayings that come to mind in connection with this resort to ugly personalities.

The first is the advice that was given by an old lawyer to a young one with respect to addressing a jury: If you have the case, abuse your opponent.

The second is this: People who live in glass houses should not throw stones—or sling mud.

Keep Up Your Insurance

It Costs a Lot to Die.

Last year 45,000 persons died in the United States after giving up their insurance the year before.

The loss to the dependents of these persons was approximately $37,000,000.

It was one of the tragedies of depression, and a tragedy which, though unavoidable, will be a continuing one in the lives of thousands of widows and children who have had their only safeguard against poverty swept away.

So—keep up your insurance if it is humanly possible for you to do so.

But IT PAYS, and the knowledge that your dependents will have some protection if worse comes to worse will probably make you live longer also.

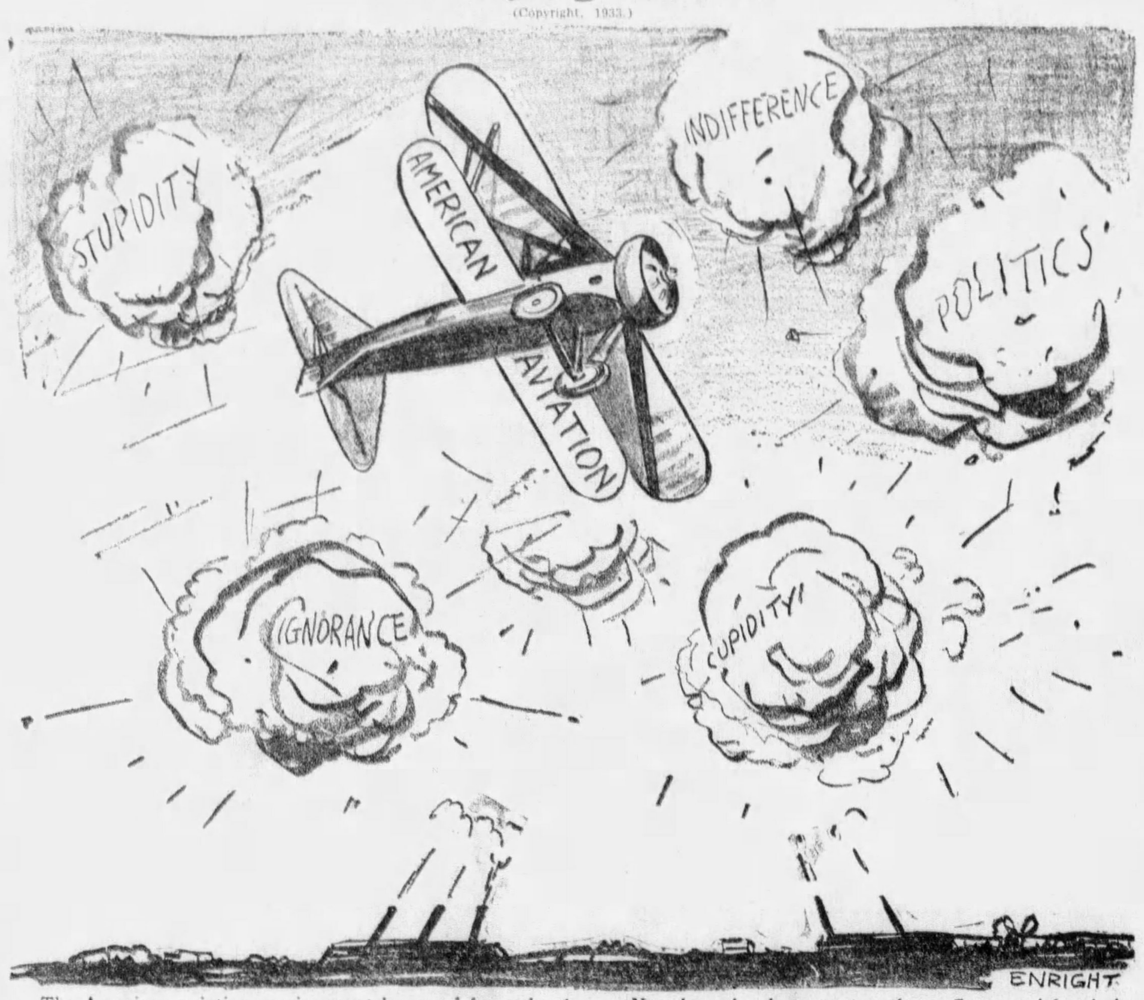
Destroying Forces

(Copyright, 1933.)



The American aviation service must be saved from the ruin that threatens it. As William Randolph Hearst warned in a signed statement published in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph:

"The Government airplane service, the most essential and most effective arm of the nation's defense and safety, has become the sport of petty politicians."

Nor does the damage stop there. Commercial aviation is affected immediately and adversely by the decline in Federal standards.

Both progress and public safety demand that situation be remedied at once.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

As Husbands Go, Today

Man is a queer animal. He'll forgive a woman for turning a gun on him—but never for turning a joke on him; for making him jealous, but never for BEING jealous; for running away from him—but never for running after him.

* * *

There is no trick about "finding the way to a man's heart," these days; the feat is to make him let you IN, when you've found it.

* * *

A man enjoys being "mothered" now and then, but he secretly resents the espionage of a wife who watches his diet as an alienist watches a suspect, and rushes for the aspirin every time he sneezes.

When a woman tells a man she is through forever," she should at least have the self-restraint to wait until next morning before calling him up, to say that she "didn't mean it."

* * *

Aviation won't seem so wonderful to a married woman, when it reaches the point where a man can say, "'Bye, darling. Just running over to Scotland for a little golf. Don't keep dinner waiting."

* * *

Probably women change husbands so often simply because "the ills we know not of" always seem so much more endurable than those which face us across the breakfast table every morning.

Whenever I hear a man of 30 cynically deploring the fact that he'll probably die single, because he can't find an Ideal Woman to marry, I shiver to think what easy game he'll be at 50 for some fluffy little gold-digger with a baby-lisp, a weak chin and a dimple in place of a brain.

* * *

The bonds of wedlock soon depreciates unless somebody keeps up the interest—and the woman is usually elected for that job.

* * *

Husbands and clocks don't exactly "make the world go 'round"—but somehow a woman feels as though it would come to a dead stop without them.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Return

How good it is to sit again
Here in the quiet garden-close,
To watch the sunset glory wane
From gold and crimson into rose!

This well-loved hour of one pale star
And silent birds on homing wing,
How sweet its muted voices are,
How brimmed with dear remembering!

But happier than that eager flight
In which the weary song birds turn
Against the coming of the night,
Is this glad mood of my return.

And fairer than the star that drifts
Upon the sunset's fading gold
Is peace, which in my bosom lifts
Its lily-petals, as of old!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Katharine Brush now occupies the most elaborate study of any novelist in the world. It adjoins her duplex apartment in the fashionable Sutton Place area on East Fifty-seventh street and was the last bit of interior decoration done by the late Joseph Urban.

It is circular, with ceiling to floor frosted windows and the color scheme is green and black, although panelling is of polished California redwood all treated ultra modernistic. Miss Brush's desk is semi-circular, five feet wide and 18 feet from tip to tip. There is a row of vari-tinted typewriters.

Also a huge open fireplace. The meticulous array of filing cabinets is a rebuke for the usual disarray of an author's desk. I noticed the various listings included: Published articles, Next novels, Current novel, Story ideas and Story beginnings.

The study is air conditioned and the circular center rug green tipped with black. Two upright lamps grace either side of the room with a huge cornucopia shaped chandelier hanging center. One door leads up a circular chromium stairway to the writer's secretary, a cheery room in the same motif.

Ethel Watters, colored chanter, is the most popular offering of the moment at afternoon teas and is the highest priced, reputedly $200 each for such performances. The singer is dusky brown with straight black hair, beady bright eyes and generous mouth. The piece de resistance of her tea programs is "Stormy Weather." She usually arrives in one of many chocolate colored gowns, driving her own limousine. And with her maid.

Suave monologist-magician Fred Keating, as "Time" would say, is doing his part to offset those ads exposing tricks of magicians. Particularly he proves the live bird in the cage evanishment is not done, by him at least, in the manner of the expose. But the truth is many established illusions of professional prestidigitators have had to be abandoned as result of the ads.

Lucius Beebe, who ferrets out delightful spots for his one leisurely meal of the week, Sunday breakfast, has two favorites—the veranda on the river side of Claremont Inn with its morning view of Irving's hills, and the corner dining room of the Plaza. From the latter's windows one may see all the riders in Central Park and the top-hatted deacons and swells on the way to St. Thomas's pass in review.

Incidentally, Saturday afternoon Turkish baths at the Biltmore are a favored diversion of New York politicians. All the magistrates go there and Al Smith and Jim Farley are often discernible through mist of the steam rooms.

A crippled boy friend of a Tenth avenue tenement is leading an exciting life these days. Someone brought him a fledging sparrow—a sparrow that fell!—from the sidewalk outside his window. A cage was constructed in his room. Next morning the flutter at his window pane was the mother bird, with all the maternal instinct of its kind, seeking admittance. It was admitted, flew to the birdling's side and fed it from the food outside the cage. Now it comes twice daily for the feeding. Feeds itself, too, and goes away. And a lonely life is brightened.

A caller today was a cretaceous gentleman by the deliciously agricultural name of Digley Root. He is a Britisher and an ardent cricket fan. We were getting along swimmingly until Mickey Nielan blew in, was introduced and kept calling him Mr. Stump. I would correct him with: "The name is Root!" But it was of no avail when he took himself off he farewelled: "It was nice seeing you, Mr. Vine."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You've got to have a shiny nose, girls, or you can't get into popular German entertainments. For the Nazis have declared war on powder puffs, lip sticks, mascara, rouge and all the rest of the pretty-up box of tricks.

By official announcement, "women using artificial aids to beauty" are henceforth barred from all Nazi meetings, and doorkeepers are instructed to oust any impudent female who shows signs of make-up.

It all began in Russia, some years ago. We Americans boast of our feminine equality with men. But Russian women have an equality which makes our brand look like a parlor game. Communists give their women real equality, not merely pretty lip service. They believe that women are entitled to any job, any privilege, any honor to which men are entitled.

Under the Soviet, women hold as important political and judicial positions as men; have as important a part in the industrial world. Russian women assemble tractors, run engines, work in factories, fields and courts side by side with men—carrying equal responsibility, receiving equal pay.

"Away with all the old sex distinctions!" says the Soviet. "Away with the shameful shackles of the harem! Women are no longer the toys of men. Women are full-fledged citizens of the world, and entitled to a vote in the councils of the world."

"Yes, you can have equality," continues the Soviet, "BUT—"

(Now comes the joker!)

"IF YOU'RE GOING TO HAVE EQUALITY, YOU MUST PROVE YOU'RE WORTHY OF IT.

"IF YOU'RE GOING TO LIVE LIKE MALES, YOU MUST STOP LIVING LIKE FEMALES.

IF YOU'RE GOING TO DROP HAREM SHACKLES, YOU MUST DISPENSE WITH HAREM TACTICS.

"IN SHORT, IF YOU WISH TO BE TREATED LIKE REGULAR HUMANS INSTEAD OF MERE DOMESTIC CHATTELS, YOU MUST LOOK AND ACT THE PART."

And so, ever since the Communists came in, feminine wiles have been "out" in Russia. And that meant much, much more than giving up powder puffs. It meant giving up all the old Clinging Vine program—all the la-de-da gestures of chivalry—the romantic ga-ga which is so dear to our American hearts.

For Romance means that "the world's well lost for love." And the Soviet believes firmly that "the world" is the whole show, and love's just a petty side issue.

Soviet young people laugh at our love-lorn columns, our romantic fiction, movies and stage shows. Glorified Girls seem to them a huge joke, or worse.

A RUSSIAN WOMAN WHO PREFERS HER HOME AND HER HUSBAND TO HER JOB, OR A RUSSIAN MAN WHO PREFERS HIS WIFE AND FAMILY, IS RIDICULED, SNUBBED, IF THEY PERSIST IN INDULGING THEIR INFATUATION TO THE POINT OF NEGLECTING THEIR WORK, OR DISOBEYING WORK ORDERS, THEY CAN BE AND OFTEN ARE SEVERELY PUNISHED BY EXILE OR IMPRISONMENT.

"But that's awful" you cry. "That destroys everything which is most beautiful and sacred in life. Those people must be savages."

"No; you are the savages," a Communist would retort. "You are stupid, selfish, dangerous savages, to hold your private pleasure above the common good. Love isn't the most beautiful or sacred thing on earth. Human life—free, healthy, happy, prosperous human life—is the most beautiful and sacred thing, and everyone should work to secure such life for all people. That is every person's first duty—to serve the people. The people are greater than the home; greater than love-making.

"And as for lip sticks and powder puffs, they are silly hangovers of shameful slave days. Those days have passed. Women no longer sell their bodies or need to hold men by their bodies. Women are now equal with men, and a free woman should scorn to deck herself out like a slave. She should prove her equality by being as plain as a man; by depending on her brain and hands to win her place, rather than on her painted flesh and silly simperings."

That's the Communists' story, and they're sticking to it. Now all over Europe and Asia, in Russia, Turkey, Germany and Italy young women are laying aside their make-up boxes, their veils, their curling irons, high-heeled shoes and frills—to prove their "equality."

Just where does that leave US?

Text for Today

For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.—Romans, viii: 38, 39.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

The Blue Eagle and The Big City Banks

By ROBERT H. HEMPHILL

Financial Authority.

FOR some time we have been saying that the big city banks were laying down on the recovery program, and now Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the President's "chief engineer" of the NRA, has made the same discovery.

He hasn't gotten the whole picture yet, but he will have it before long, and when he does, I think there will be something doing in banking circles, so to speak.

So far, most of the big city bankers, and a lot of the little city bankers, for that matter, have apparently regarded this depression as someone else's trouble, not theirs.

That is a position they like to take—just sit on the side lines when there is any real work to be done, and watch the show, and then come in for a big share of the gravy.

That sort of banking is going out of fashion, and it's going fast.

THERE has been, all along, a lot of smoke and fog clouding the public's vision of our banking system, but it is getting pretty thin around some of our big "sound" banks who have hoarded the funds which should all along have been in circulation, until they are 65 per cent or 75 per cent or maybe 90 per cent liquidated—no, I don't mean liquid—I mean just what I said—liquidated—gone 65 per cent or 75 per cent or maybe 90 per cent out of the banking business.

Some of them are 100 per cent liquidated, so they say—well, what are they waiting for?—why don't they go on and finish the job?—distribute the funds they have tied up and let them get back into commerce and industry!

We need the money right now—need it badly—fifteen to twenty billions—maybe twenty-five—just as fast as it can be loaned and go into circulation, that's all that stands between us and prosperity.

THE country bankers, most of them who are close to their communities, stood behind their local industries while their big city brothers were selling their borrowers into bankruptcy or suicide, and for this reason, the country banks are not in position to extend the credit which some one MUST furnish.

The country bankers—most of them—"did their part" long before the Blue Eagle was hatched. That's the reason a lot of them are closed or running on one cylinder.

It wasn't bad loans—they were good loans when they were made—loans to diversified commerce and industry, the kind that are put immediately into circulation and become successively the deposits of the nation, with which we transact all of our business.

They finally land in the big city banks, and then what happens?

Look at their statements, there is your answer—75 per cent liquidated.

GEN. JOHNSON is going to find out all about it, and these vast idle funds, which we need so desperately in circulation, are either coming unfrozen, or we are going to wind up with a banking system that won't freeze up.

I think we are going to do that, anyway. We have outgrown the one we have. It's too emotional.

Every few years, just when we get going good, the bankers get cold feet and begin calling their loans, taking that credit out of circulation and that gums up the works—quick.

Cheer up, you pessimists, we are moving now. We are getting down to the real meat in the cocoanut, and if Gen. Johnson will stay right on the job until he gets a clear picture of just what makes the wheels go round, it will be all over but the shouting.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

How about it, old man, do you remember Mother by presenting her with something to show you know that she has a right to expect favors from you?

Of course you don't forget her birthday, but there are other occasions when she would like to receive favors from you.

It is not the expense of the gift but the thought back of it.

And when their life partner, Friend Husband, remembers to bring a bouquet to mark the week-end or some special holiday, there is a peculiar sort of quiet joy in that remembrance.

ISN'T IT SO?

To extract a promise by force is useless unless you are prepared to continue the pressure of compulsion.

"Incompatibility of temperament" means that both parties have the same kind of temper and plenty of it.
